

STAGE SET FOR BIG BOWLING TOURNEY

Visitors Here Expected to Number 200 Before Tonight. Vancouver to Be Late.

OFFICIAL RULES SENT OUT

Forty-Five Double and $0 Single Entries Received and Many More Are Expected—Banquet to Be Tendered Guests Saturday.

More than 150 visiting bowlers are now in the city, and before night probably 200 will be Portlanders awaiting the opening of the Northwest Bowling Congress. This starts tomorrow at the Oregon alleys, and will last the entire week.

The only delegation which has not put in an appearance is that from Vancouver, B. C., but letter from Barney Goss, president of the congress, says that the Vancouver bowlers will arrive Thursday morning.

Portland bowlers, accordingly, have made this "Canada day." The teams from Vancouver, Calgary and other cross-tie-line points will do their bowling on Thursday.

The Oregon alleys were placed in the hands of the carpenters and decorators all week. Portland is able to stage the tournament on one of the best sets on the Pacific Coast.

The alleys are upstairs, but the ventilation and other special features not accorded other such places alone for the climb of two flights.

Rules Are Issued.

Staging the tournament, making the schedules and arranging other details is no small task. Secretary Earl Goodwin has issued a set of instructions. They are:

"It will contribute greatly to the success of the tournament if the captain of each team will make it a special point to see that all his men are on hand and ready to bowl at the hour scheduled.

The schedule published by the secretary designates the alley upon which each team starts, and the time for each team to start. For the second and third games each team moves to the pair of alleys to the right. Teams starting on the odd-numbered alleys will start on the first and third alleys, and teams starting on the even-numbered alleys will start on the second and fourth alleys. Teams rolling their first game on alleys 4 and 5 will roll their second game on alleys 6 and 7, and their third game on alleys 8 and 9. This same system will apply to the doubles and singles. The team captain will be appointed by the secretary, and he will be responsible for remembering this, and by getting their teams shifted promptly to the right pair of alleys after each game.

Shortly before the scheduled hour to bowl a scorekeeper designated by the secretary will report at each alley. The captain of each team will promptly furnish his scorekeeper with the names of the members of his team in their bowling order, and be ready to begin bowling at the very start of the official starter. At the end of the third game the captain should be sure to sign the score sheet, and after the scorekeeper has signed same he will give to the captain the duplicate copy of the book, with the original score sheet intact therein.

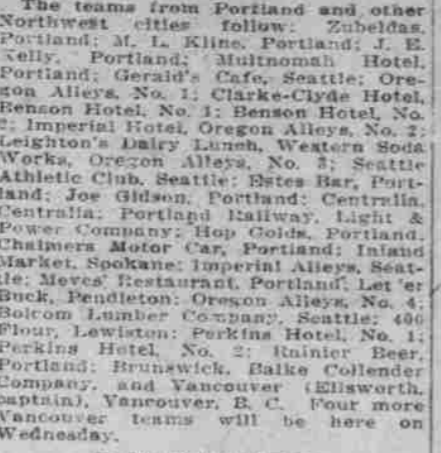

Protections Are Urged. "It will also be greatly appreciated if the captains will see that the members of their teams who roll in the doubles and singles are acquainted with their scheduled hour for rolling such doubles and singles, and the alleys upon which they start rolling, and urge them to be promptly on hand to bowl a few minutes before the scheduled time for beginning each event.

"Owing to the many entries asking for late dates for the course of litigation for the latter part of the year, and crowded, and promptness on the part of the bowlers is essential for its being successful. The bowlers are urged to be on hand to bowl a few minutes before the scheduled time for beginning each event.

"The banquet to visiting bowlers will be held at the Hotel Perkins Saturday night. This also will be an informal meeting, which the questions of the year will be fully discussed.

The teams from Portland and other Northwest cities follow: Zubeldas, Portland; J. L. Kline, Portland; J. E. Kelly, Portland; Multnomah Hotel, Portland; Gerald's Cafe, Seattle; Oregon Alleys, No. 1, Clarke-Clyde Hotel, Benson Hotel, No. 1, Benson Hotel, No. 2, Imperial Hotel, Oregon Alleys, No. 2, Leighton's Dairy Lunch, Western Soda Works, Oregon Alleys, No. 3, Seattle Athletic Club, Seattle; East Portland; Joe Gildson, Portland; Centralia, Centralia; Portland Railway, Light & Power Company; Hop Golds, Portland; Chalmers Motor Car, Portland; Interoceanic Market, Spokane; Imperial Alleys, Seattle; Meyer's Restaurant, Portland; Let's Get It, Oregon Alleys, No. 4; Belmont Lumber Company, Seattle; Flour, Lewiston; Perkins Hotel, No. 1; Portland Hotel, No. 2; Rainier Beer, Portland; Hudson's Hotel, Portland; Portland Company, and Vancouver (Ellsworth, captain), Vancouver, B. JIM COFFEY HITS HARD

HEAVYWEIGHT "HOPE" GIVES JOHN LESTER JOHNSON REAL WALLOP.

Celt Fighter Thinks He Would Like to Meet "Gambont" and Willard Before Talking on Wells.

Billy Gibson, who is looking after the affairs of Jim Coffey, is having his troubles these days keeping Jim Coffey in line. Not that the latter is a contract jumper, but the Celt is all worked up over the home rule trouble and is anxious to go to Ireland and shoulder a sack and fight for the cause; whatever it is. He was all prepared to sail tomorrow, when friends intervened and told him it wasn't time yet to get into the fray.

Jim Coffey showed yesterday in his training session at the New Polo A. A. why he is entitled to a match with the best heavies of the world, and incidentally the Dublin giant is the hardest worker while training of any man in the business.

A delegation of notables was on hand to see how much Coffey is improved. He persuaded John Lester Johnson, who is noted black heavy, to put on the gloves. There isn't much love between this pair and Johnson started in to show up the Celt. For two rounds Coffey battered the negro all over the ring—they boxed in the regulation squared circle. In the third Coffey hooked a short right to the chin and the colored man dropped for a count of five. Lester will not want to box Coffey again. He said he has never been hit so hard.

Coffey is in perfect condition. Just at present he weighs about 132 pounds and there isn't an ounce of superfluous flesh. He has tried to adopt Langford's style of offense, by sending in those short uppercuts when in close. It is this blow that wins most of Langford's battles.

Coffey speaks enthusiastically about his coming visit to England. "I know I can whip Wells in quick time," he said, "but before going away I would like to tackle Willard and Gambont Smith. I am faster than either of these men and can beat them. I showed my battles with Morris, Pelky, Levinsky and Flynn that I am as near the king white hope as any of them."

American Golfers Win.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Jerome Travers and Fred Herrahoff twice defeated John Ball yesterday, who several times won the British amateur golf championship, and Captain Nicolls at Royal Links in a four-ball foursome match, dispatches from London said. The American won in the morning by one hole and in the afternoon by two to one.

SCHOOL MEET IS SET

Jefferson and Lincoln Mat Men to Contest Wednesday.

AFFAIR FIRST IN LEAGUE

Student Wrestlers in Best Condition and Eager for Event Postponed Several Times in Last Three Months.

With both teams in best condition, the first wrestling meet ever held among the Portland interscholastic League athletes will take place in the gymnasium of the Lincoln High School Wednesday afternoon between the Jefferson High School and the Lincoln High School. The wrestlers have been waiting for the event for three months and the weather is too moist to allow the meet to be postponed several times.

Coach Leon Fabre, of the West Side, has been unable to make his selection in several of the weights and final tryouts will be made tomorrow afternoon. Captain Clarke is not sure of his berth at the 135-pound weight and he will have to beat McTannahan to clinch it.

Elvin Condit, the all-star football guard of last season, will represent Lincoln in the 155-pound affair and Stanley Howard, manager of the team and center on the 1913 football squad, will take care of the heavyweight

WHITMAN STAR REAPPEARS

Newton Barrett, Crack Two-Miler, to Try for Track Team.

WHITMAN COLLEGE, Walla Walla, Wash., April 4.—Whitman track hopes were brightened this week when Newton Barrett, last year's crack two-miler, reported to Coach Hahn for his first practice. Barrett, who was expected to try out for the team, has had a very successful season in staying out of athletics this season on account of his heavy course at the conservatory besides his regular college work.

Coach Hahn has received notice that he has been appointed starter for the Columbia University indoor meet to be held in Portland this week. He has accepted to take the position and is counting on taking McKay and Hoover, two of his best crack men, with him to enter in the meet.

A meeting of the associated students will be held Monday to raise a fund to support the team. The fund will be in case favor of McKay and Hoover, the coach will enter McKay in the mile and half-mile runs and Hoover in the high hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

W. A. BRADY TELLS OF 13-YEAR FIGHT FOR 'AFTER DARK'

Picturesque Theatrical and Sporting Character Also Recounts Development of James J. Corbett as a Modern Fighting Wonder.

(Copyright, 1914, by William A. Brady.) CHAPTER V. WHILE I was having the row with Frohman in Minneapolis, Dion Boucicault advertised an auction sale of his plays at the Madison Square Theater, New York. I came on to attend that sale, determined if possible to buy the play "After Dark," which I'd been playing on lease in the West. I jumped in, began bidding, and landed the play for $1800. But with the play I also landed a lawsuit with Augustin Daly which cost me $50,000 apiece in legal fees before we got through with it, lasted 12 years, went from the lowest to the highest Federal court, and twice reached the Supreme Court of the United States.

The story of this case will fill a volume. Daly finally got judgment for $27,000, of which he could collect only $12,000, for, during the course of litigation, part of the claim had become outlawed. In a word, the case was as follows: In 1882 Daly produced a play called "Under the Gas Light," in which was a sensational railroad scene which had never before been done in New York.

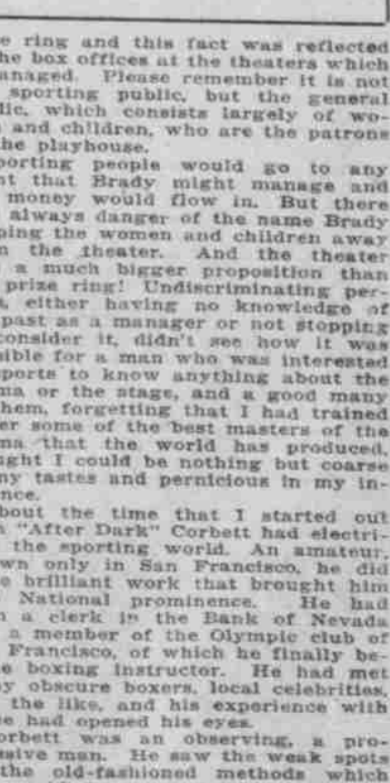

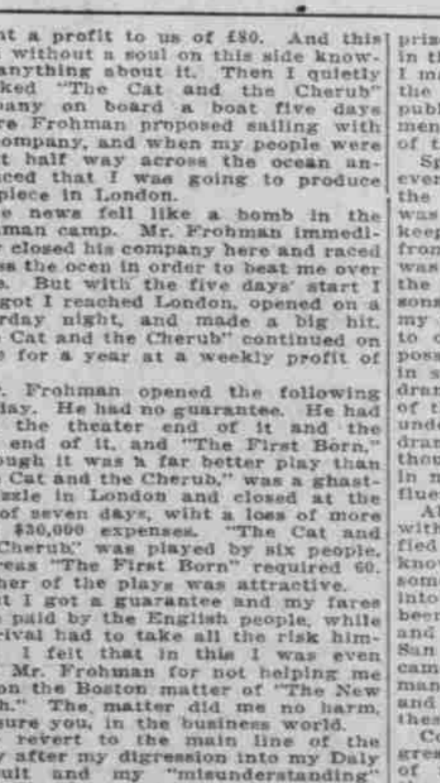

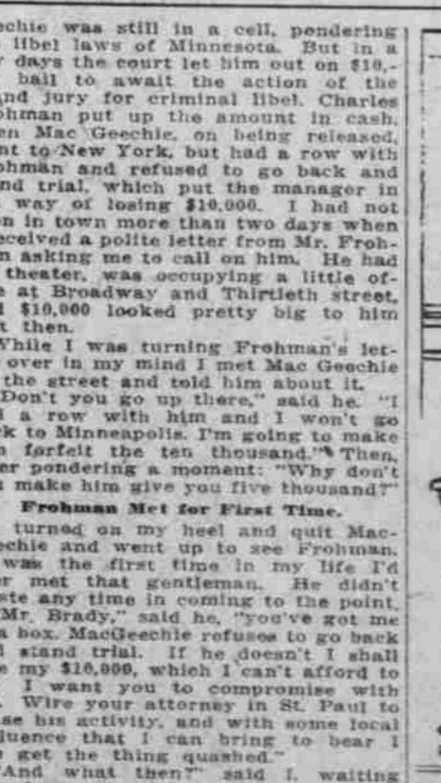

Two years later, Dion Boucicault put on a play called "After Dark," which contained a colorable imitation of Daly's railroad scene. Daly got after Boucicault on the ground of the similarity of the two railroad scenes and Judge Blatchford rendered a decision in favor of the plaintiff in 1887. So, when I produced "After Dark" at the People's Theater on the Bowery, about 1890, Mr. Daly served me with a temporary injunction.

I had little faith in lawyers, and having a theory that the papers had been illegally served on me when the hearing for the permanent injunction was held, I had the effrontery to walk into court with the papers and start to argue my own case. But the judge cut me short.

Brady Shows Nerve at 22. "Where's your lawyer?" he demanded, frowning down upon me. "I don't want any," said I, with supreme effrontery. "It was only 22, remember."

"You must get one," said the judge. "I turned around and saw standing right back of me Ex-Judge Dittenhofer, who had been pointed out to me as a famous theatrical lawyer.

"Are you Judge Dittenhofer?" I asked. "Yes," said he. "I shoved the papers into his hand. 'Will you take this case?'"

Under the Gas Light, a Story of Love and Life in New York. That was the published book. But in the printed copy that had been filed for copyright the title page read "Under the Gas Light, a Panorama" of something or another. The difference in the subtitle on the books which were being sold to the public and the subtitle registered in Washington furnished Judge Wallace with grounds for holding the copyright to be invalid. As I said, this cost me a lot of money and kept me in the papers almost continuously for 13 years, but it established me in New York as a man who was not to be monkeyed with.
