NEW PLANS DESIRED

Another Auditorium Committee May Be Appointed.

HASTE URGED IN BUILDING

If City Attorney Decides That Mr. Freedlander Need Not Be Re-tained Competition for Design Will Be Reopened.

Another auditorium committee, composed of citizens, may be appointed by the City Commission to work out the details of plans for Portland's proposed public auditorium building. At a meeting of the Council, to be held Tuesday in the office of Mayor Albee, the matter of appointing such a committee will be considered.

Because the plans drawn by J. H. Freedlander have been found to be too extravagant, and new plans will have to be attended to, either by the Council or by an auditorium committee. Among the things which have to be attended to are the selection of features desired in the new building; the selection of a new design to fit the Market block site and the arranging of many details connected with the preliminary plans for the building.

Commissioner Brewster has suggested the appointment of a committee to relieve the Council of this work. Whether this plan will meet with the approval of the Council, or whether its members will favor attending to the details itself, is a question.

An effort is to be made in changing the plans for the building to have another competition for architects. Commissioner Brewster has asked City Attorney LaRoche for an opinion as to whether or not the city is obliged to retain Mr. Freedlander as the architect. An opinion on this subject is expected within a short time.

Members of the Commission are in favor of rushing the auditorium work so that the building can be up and ready for use by the Summer of next year. This will mean that plans will have to be completed and work commenced by the coming Summer, as it is estimated that a year will be required to erect the building. To hasten the preliminary arrangements it is probable steps will be taken to hurry the case, now before the courts, involving the question of the right of the city to the building on the Market block on the West Side.

WEDDING GIFT IS VEHICLE OF PANTAGES ACTRESS

Dolly Nobles, Wife of Actor-Author, Returns to Portland in Sketch Which Is Satire on Women's Psychology Clubs.

DOLLY NOBLES, who is still as lovely and brilliant in coloring and a much better actress be it said than when she came here in the early eighties as the bride of Milton Nobles, has been at Pantages the past week in vaudeville. When she first came to Portland it was on a co-starring tour with her husband in "Love and Law," which Mr. Nobles had written for her as his wedding gift to her. Mrs. Nobles is a stage veteran and one of the comedians of the old school, whose work is invariably finished and careful in detail. He was associated with such artists as Forrest, Booth, Ward and James and his reminiscences of early theatricals on the Pacific Coast are most delightful. His first appearance in Portland was at the old Orpheum Theater, one of the first amusement houses in Portland. Mrs. Nobles was the famous Dolly Woodbine, one of two sisters who were a team to be reckoned with in those days. The other sister became world famous as Laura Pellini and came to this Coast as co-star with Emma Abbott.
