PRINEVILLE, Or., May 9.—(Special.) Prineville road enthusiasts doubt if Good Roads day was observed more ardently in any part of Oregon than in their own vicinity. The entire business of the city closed for the day, including the banks and Post-office. Every merchant not only induced his own employes to work the roads, but got into harness himself, and with pick and shovel put in full eight hours' work on the roads. When the whistle blew for work time in the morning, among the crowd of workers was seen Thomas A. Baldwin, cashier of the First National Bank and known throughout the state in Masonic circles, who was not satisfied with one implement of labor, but had both pick and shovel on his shoulders, and not for show, either, for he put in a full day's work with the younger men. The work was well organized in advance, and ample conveyances were furnished to take all workers to the bad spots on the four or five roads leading out of Prineville for a distance of ten miles from town. On the Ochoco road the work was in charge of Homer Ross, United States Forest Supervisor, who had 25 men and nine teams under his command. Among this number were County Judge Springer, Mayor Clifton, Rev. J. E. Williams and other prominent men. On the Shaniko road the crew was in charge of Fred Hoelscher, who recently purchased a large ranch and has made Crook County his home. This crew was engaged principally in hauling gravel from the bed of Ochoco Creek and fixing the bad places on the road where they worked. During the day about 75 wagon loads of gravel were so placed. On the Crooked River road a crew of 70 men worked from Dodson Point to Prineville. They commenced work at 7:30 A. M. and worked until 6 P. M. This crew was fortunate in having a large delegation from the County Domestic Science School, which furnished an excellent meal at midday.

GEORGE M. BROWN HAS RECORD AS PROSECUTOR

Many Important Murder Cases Among Long List of Criminal Actions Handled by Dean of District Attorneys of Oregon.

ROSEBURG, Or., May 9.—(Special.) There are perhaps few District Attorneys in the entire Northwest who have had a wider experience in prosecuting criminals than George M. Brown, of Roseburg, the dean of prosecuting officers of Oregon. Mr. Brown's career as a prosecuting officer extends back over 20 years, during much of which time he was District Attorney of what was known as the Second Judicial District. This district was at one time the largest in the state and included Coos, Curry, Benton, Lane, Douglas and Lincoln counties. Five years ago the district was reduced to three counties, including Coos, Curry and Douglas counties. Sam Brown was the first man convicted of first degree murder in Douglas County. He was charged with murdering a neighbor and was prosecuted and convicted by the Supreme Court, with the result that the verdict was sustained by the Supreme Court. Brown was sentenced to be hanged in the jail yard at Roseburg, but 30 days prior to the date set for the execution he saw his way out of jail and escaped. He never was caught.

George M. Brown, Dean of Prosecuting Attorneys in Oregon.

Clews Still Reported. Frequently news reaches the officers at Roseburg that Brown has been seen in some part of the country, but as often the reports are found to be without foundation. Another man prosecuted and convicted by Mr. Brown was William Barnes. He killed a man, put him on a heap of logs and burned the body. He paid the penalty on the scaffold at Salem. J. M. Oberman, who killed a neighbor over some trifling matter, was convicted of first degree murder at Roseburg and sentenced to be hung. On the night before the execution his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Green. Another man who was convicted of first degree murder by Mr. Brown was Fred Gillispie. Gillispie went to the cabin occupied by a woman named Mrs. Edison, in Coos County, and after choking her to death, poured coal oil over her body and set the house afire. Gillispie got drunk, became excited and made damaging admissions. He was arrested, and upon being searched the victim's pension check was found on his person. Gillispie paid the penalty for his crime on the scaffold at Salem. Claud Branton was another man convicted of first degree murder by Mr. Brown, assisted by Judge Lawrence T. Harris, of Eugene. Branton and a man named Courtland Green accosted John Linn, a farmer, as the latter was returning to his home after a day spent in Cottage Grove, and after murdering him placed his body on a heap of logs and burned it. They robbed Linn of his money and horses. Branton is Hanged. The men were arrested and Branton was convicted and hanged. Branton was the first man to be hanged in Eugene. Frank Garrison, of Marshfield, was among the men recently hanged at Salem after prosecution by Mr. Brown. The latter became missing. After Garrison's arrest, the bay was dragged and Perkins' body was found. A search of Garrison's cabin revealed a number of articles formerly owned by Perkins. Garrison was tried on a charge of first degree murder and after a sensational trial was convicted. He appealed to the Supreme Court, but without avail. Garrison was hanged at Salem on what was known as "Oregon's bloody day." Although maintaining innocence to the last, District Attorney Brown says he has a statement showing that Garrison made a confession to one of his close friends in Coos County. About 40 Men Prosecuted. In all, Mr. Brown has prosecuted about 40 men charged with murder, a majority of whom were either hanged

Studebaker SIX

The SIX That is First in Sales and Value

Let your Studebaker SIX demonstration be a family demonstration.

Test out its luxury, not from the standpoint of one or two, but four, or six, or seven.

Prove to yourself that the comfort of all, combined, is complete—that it leaves nothing to be desired.

We do not merely mean complete comfort in the matter of space and room.

We mean the impossibility of finding a car at any price which renders motoring more restful to mind and body.

We mean that quality of clinging to the road, while skimming over it, which is an expression of the perfect distribution of weight in an essentially light car.

We mean that absence of noise, and struggle, and strain, in the motor, which proves its perfect balance—that nice co-ordination which enables the engine to pick up speed without imparting a particle of tremor or vibration to the car.

We mean the freedom from swaying and swaying—the steady, straight-on sensation—the sense of inexhaustible power—the "give" and accommodation of springs to every road variation.

We mean a dozen different evidences of scientific design and scientific manufacturing—all of which combined hull the nerves into complete relaxation and comfort.

A family demonstration in the Studebaker SIX means a united family choice.

Mr. Brown is a native Douglas County man. He was born on a ranch about six miles from Roseburg. When a young man he attended the Umpqua Academy at Wilbur, Douglas County, which at that time was considered the leading educational institution of Southern Oregon. Other men of state-wide prominence who attended school there in early days were Lafayette Lane, Judge Fullerton, Judge Hamilton and many others. In those days the father of Robert Booth was the leading minister of that section of the state.

In 1883 Mr. Brown entered Willamette University, graduating two years later. He then returned to Roseburg and after studying law under Judge Fullerton was admitted to the bar. A short time later he was elected District Attorney and since then has held the office continuously with the exception of two years. Mr. Brown was well acquainted with Aaron Rose, the founder of Roseburg.

COURSES ARE ARRANGED

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES TO LAST AT Y. M. C. A. ALL SUMMER.

Special Features Will Be Made of Wireless Telegraphy and Students Preparing for College.

With the educational year drawing toward a close, plans for the Summer courses at the Young Men's Christian Association are being formulated. The annual commencement exercises will be held on May 25, with an unusually large number of certificates and diplomas being granted. This will not, however, mean the close of educational work, as many of the classes will continue throughout the Summer.

There will be day and evening schools at the Y. M. C. A. this Summer, just as in the Winter, although some branches will be suspended through the next few months. Special attention will be paid to college preparatory work and classes of college grade. The classes of college standard will include mathematics, advanced physics and applied chemistry. This will afford an opportunity for college students to make up credits during vacation. A complete college preparatory department will be conducted. The laboratories in the Y. M. C. A. basement will be almost as busy this Summer as throughout the remainder of the year. The electrical courses will all be continued through the Summer, and wireless telegraphy will be featured. The Y. M. C. A. now has one of the finest wireless plants in the West and is meeting a steady demand for instruction in this branch.

Registration in the Y. M. C. A. classes has reached 147 so far for the educational year, and it is expected that it will exceed 1500 before the year closes.

Preliminary registration for the Summer courses is encouraging.

60 NEAL INSTITUTES FOR DRINK OR DRUG HABITS INFORMATION FOR DRINKING MEN

The wonderful success of the NEAL TREATMENT for Alcoholism is conclusively demonstrated by the rapid multiplication of NEAL INSTITUTES all over the world. There are now 60 of these in active operation in the United States, Canada and Australia, and every one reports a uniform, unbroken record of successful cures. This, in itself, is the best evidence of the genuine merit of the NEAL TREATMENT, and should forever silence those uninformed critics who scoff at the idea of curbing the liquor habit. Right here in Portland the NEAL TREATMENT is being administered with the greatest of success. The Chicago Hospital, an institution of the highest standing, after a careful investigation of the NEAL TREATMENT by its officers, medical staff and management, indorsed this method and recommended it strongly as an absolutely unite in the service. Bishop Horn occupies the pulpit of the German Evangelical Church, Fifth and Clay streets, at 11 A. M., and will preach in the Milwaukee Church in the evening.

Conference of the Evangelical Association opens at Tacoma next Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, to continue over the following Sunday.
