LOS ANGELES, May 9 .- (Special.) -

As far as today's baseball game, if it could be called a game, was concerned, the Beavers won in one inning, the afth, when two singles, a hit batsman, a triple and an error netted them four rufs, two more than the muscle-bound Angels could score in nine innings.

After the bats had been collected at 5 o'clock, the final score stood around 10 to 2, and a pretty sore bunch it was that filed out of the turnstiles. But though they scored an easy victory, it was not without a sting for McCredie's hustling team, as they have probably lost the services of Left Fielder Speas for a few days at least, if not longer. Coming up in the fifth with West on first, through his own single, Speas stepped into a fast inshoot, the ball striking him squarely on the side of the head. He fall like one dead of the head. He fall like one dead of the head. He fall like one dead to the head. Innovation Next Year.

In comparison to eight off Narveson by Vancouver, but Doty passed only three men, as compared with nine for Narveson. It is worth remarking that in the 13 innings neither club got two hits in an inning. Doty pitched six consecutive imnings, 13th to the 19th, without a hit or run o ffhis delivery, while Narveson exactly duplicated the feat, ninth to 15th.

Another game that is entitled to a place in Pacific Northwest Marathon buttles, but which appears to have been overlooked, is that 21-inning affair in which Fort Casey defeated Joe Schlumpf's Websters, of Seattle, I to 6. The game was played at Fort Casey about five years ago. "Toots" Agnew, formerly of the Portland Colts, pitched for Schlumpf's team and Johnny Medwans, the old-time University of Washington sprinter and ballplayer, did the catching. Byrd and Clark were the battery for the soldiers. Each pitcher struck out 21 and each issued three bases on balls. The Websters got eight hits off Byrd and the Soldiers got seven hits off Agnew.

will drop off considerably. Jake Bauer, center fielder for the Irrigators, came next in the stick department, with an average of .471. Bauer was with Salt Lake last season. Both he and Nadeau are considered two of the strongest fielders in the association.

Boise claims the strongest pitching department of any club in the league. On the Irrigators twirling staff are "Red" Toner, Erve Jensen, "Big" Steve Melter and "Smoky" Joe Woods.

Helena seems to be the weakest in the hitting department, although the vigilantes are fast fielders. Jess Garrett is not worrying, however. He is
