GIANTS AND TIGERS PUZZLE DOPESTERS

Different Sets of Opponents to Be Met and Teams May Bear Out Predictions.

BIG LEAGUES ARE LOSING

Unless Change Is Shown in Interest of Public Indications Are That Profits Will Be Lacking All Along Line.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(Special.)—
Two bands of rovers now prowling about in alien territory are demanding the attention of big league fans. One gang is entitled the Detroit Tigers and the other bears the name of New York Glants. Both have been wrecking reputations of myriad dopesters and the present question is: "Are they going to continue to defy the prophets or will they swing into line with what was predicted for them?"

The Giants, figured by nearly everybody to be the one grand cinch of the year in the National League, got off to a poor start and concluded the first stage of the pennant race, the initial set of battles in their half of the league circuit, just barely above the second NEW YORK, May 16 .- (Special.)- circuit, just barely above the second division. The Tigers, sentenced by the prophets to a berth in the lower four, left the mark at breakneck speed and wound up the same section of the American League campaign well in the

Now the two clubs are meeting a different set of opponents, the teams in the far ends of the two organizations. The Giants conclude today their first series in Pittsburg, and now will move on against the three weaker sisters of the West, the Reds, Cardinals and Cubs, in the order named. It will be interesting to see whether the Giants can beat those three worse than the Pirates did. It also will be worth while to notice whether the Pirates can fare better against Boston, Philadelphia and Brooklyn than the Giants did. Now the two clubs are meeting a delphia and Brooklyn than the Giants did.

The Tigers have just wound up their initial appearance in New York against the Yankeez. Today they move into Boston and next Friday they invade the Athletica' stronghold in Philadelphia. The last mentioned club, called a cinch of the same kind as the Giants, fared about the same as McGraw's men in the battling in their end of the circuit, and now are attempting to recoup their position with the Western clubs as victims. They will try to beat the West worse than the Tigers did and the Tigers are trying to do better against the East than did the Mackmen.

By three weeks from today the Federal League will have caught up with its schedule—that is, the trouble necessitated by late building of the plants in Brooklyn and Buffalo which caused the schedule to be arranged back-endforemost, with intersectional games starting the season, will have been balanced by long home stands of the Buffalo and Brooklyn clubs. When June 6 arrives, every club will have appeared in one series in the park of every rival.

Do not be surprised if you hear of a trade soon between the Brooklyn Nationals and the New York Americans. If it comes off, it will be pitcher for pitcher, left-hander for right-hander. Chance's Yankees have only one southpaw, Al Schulz, and he is not read councy to be a regular, while he one southpaw, Al Schulz, and he is not good enough to be a regular, while he has a whole flock of right-handers—Caldwell. McHale. Keating. Cole, Fisher, Warhop and Pieh.

Robinson's Dodgers have a staff that is quite the reverse, with three good left-handers. Rucker, Altchison and Allen, but only three good right-handers, Reulbach, Ragan and Pfeffer. Under present conditions, a team does not need more than two portsiders, but can use as many as four or five right-handed huriers.

Thus a trade of, for instance, warhop for Allen probably would benefit both aggregations.

This has been the most disastrous year for organized baseball since the National agreement was signed away back in 1903. The big chiefs of the two major leagues—Governor Tener and Ban Johnson, have been receiving systematic reports from the front, and the inducations are that money will be lost nearly all along the line unless a decided change is shown in the apathetic public. New York and Chicago are the only towns that have done a really thriving business. To point to a single case, one of the Eastern clubs of the American League received as its visitors' share of the gate receipts at a recent game less than $100. The Moranican League less than $100. The Moranican League are blamed for taking the interest of the fans from the actual playing of ball games.
