

Yamhill River at Dayton, Ore.

PHOTO BY B. A. GIFFORD.

SCENIC charms and industrial usefulness combine to make the Yamhill River a valuable asset to the people of Dayton, as it is to the residents of the various other communities that are touched by its bounteous waters. The river is navigable at Dayton through nearly all periods of the year and the volume of commerce carried on the vessels that ply its waters is substantial. Contemplated improvements in the channel eventually will make the stream an important factor in the future development of the adjacent territory. But the people of Dayton prize the Yamhill and its wooded shores most for its picturesque valleys, its graceful turns and its beautiful environments. Its banks are frequent scenes of family and community picnics in Summer season, pleasure boats play on its surface and the patient fisherman finds healthful sport and profitable recreation.

