

PAINTER'S ASSISTANT GIRL ARE ARRESTED

Indiana Physician's Home Said to Contain Burned Fragments of Clothes.

CELLAR FLOOR IS DUG UP

Other Parts of Premises to Be Explored in Search for Evidence. Stepmother Is Questioned Following Apprehension.

NEWCASTLE, Ind., May 29.—Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Winters, father and stepmother of Catherine Winters, who disappeared from her home here more than a year ago, were arrested today on their arrival here from Terre Haute, Ind. They were charged with conspiracy to commit a felony. This makes three arrests in the case. W. H. Cooper, a former roomer in the Winters home, having been arrested late last night.

It was said that the charge of conspiracy to commit a felony had been placed against the three persons under arrest merely as a means of holding them, and that the charge might be changed later.

Clothing Found Sealed in Wall. It was said a second search of the home of Dr. W. A. Winters, father of the girl, would be made. Private detectives and Newcastle police officers, who searched the home last night, asserted they found seals in the basement wall a red hair ribbon, a red undershirt and red sweater which had belonged to the missing child.

The sweater, police officers declare, had holes in it which looked as if they had been burned there, and the undershirt was stained as if by blood.

Cooper was a roomer at the Winters home at the time of the disappearance of the girl, but left Newcastle the day after she disappeared and remained away for ten days. He did not seem much surprised when arrested and declared that he could prove an alibi. He also blamed Mayor Watkins for his predicament.

Search Has Been Extensive. Dr. and Mrs. Winters were in Terre Haute, where motion pictures are being shown, to raise funds to further the search for Catherine.

Large sums of money have been spent in searching for the girl, who has been reported found in various parts of the country, but each report has proved untrue.

Catherine Winters disappeared March 20, 1912. The child had been canvassing the neighborhood in which she lived trying to sell needles for a church society. She was last seen late in the afternoon. The police were not notified until the next day.

Catherine is the daughter of Dr. Winters by his first wife, who died several years ago. Catherine inherited $5000 on her mother's death.

Warrants Issued by Mayor. The warrants for the arrest of Dr. and Mrs. Winters and Cooper were issued by Mayor Watkins, who has been a leading figure in the investigation of the disappearance of Catherine. Cooper's bond was placed at $5000, which he was unable to furnish. The Winters' bond has not been fixed.

Police officers and the private detective employed by the Mayor began today digging up the floor of the cellar in the Winters home with the hope, as they expressed it, of finding either the body of the girl or evidence of how the body had been disposed of. It was said if no traces were found in the cellar, other parts of the premises would be dug up.

Mrs. Winters, following her arrest, was questioned regarding the clothing worn by Catherine on the day of her disappearance, March 20, 1912, and the police said that, among the other effects, she described the sweater which was found last night.

It was said Dr. Winters probably would be taken to the jail in Muncie, so that he could not communicate with either his wife or Cooper.

WILSON POLICY ASSAILED

(Continued From First Page.) wise and sane propositions, the only propositions which represent a constructive governmental program and the results of which will be good results, instead of fine phrases, were the principles enunciated in the Progressive platform in connection with the trust and the tariff bills. Our policies would have secured the passing of a platform of progressive principles around of property and also the existence of a sufficient amount of property to be passed around.

Throughout the country all I can do to emphasize these facts will be done. "But I believe that right here in the State of New York, I doubt whether there is a state in the Union that shows more conclusively than this state the dreadful evil of the two-boss system in political life. The people of this state, the honest people, the good citizens who wish clean and efficient government, no matter what their party affiliations may be, are growing indignant with a system which provides for the use of the Murphy and Barnes machines in the government of this state.

Two-Party Boss Rule Attacked. "There is not a state in which the evils of the two-boss rule are more concretely illustrated than right here. Under such rule it is impossible to get decent and effective government. It is impossible to secure fair treatment for the honest business man, for the honest wage-earner or for the honest farmer. From the canals and highways downwards, each branch of the Government has been administered primarily with a view to the political advantage and often with a view to the personal enrichment of different political leaders. No advantage whatever to the people at large can possibly come by keeping this system and substituting under bosses of Mr. Barnes for under bosses of Mr. Murphy as the beneficiaries of the system. I believe the time has come to clean house in New York.

And I believe that all right-minded people ought to act together with regard to their ordinary party differences, in a determined effort to accomplish this task and to destroy the malign and baleful influence of both the Barnes machine and the Murphy machine in this state."

Turpentine on Bandage Ignites. Adolph Dahrem, a logger at Sandy, Or., received severe burns Friday, when a spark from a donkey engine set fire to a bandage saturated in turpentine, which he was wearing on his left hand. He was brought to Portland and taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital. Dahrem wore the bandage to protect a wound received from a steel silver. His left hand, arm and shoulder were burned.

CAUCUS COULD SAVE LAND LEGISLATION

Bills Important to West Depend Now on Favor of Democrats in House.

President Has Agreed Not to Press Other Subjects While Anti-Trust Bills Are Pending, but Time Is Open After That.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, May 30.—Unless Western members of the House can induce the Democratic leaders to call another caucus to add to the legislative program for the session, it is doubtful whether any pending land and irrigation bills can become law before adjournment. This fact developed when a delegation of Western members called on the President to urge his support of the bill allowing settlers on Government irrigation projects 20 years in which to pay for their water and providing a system of graduated payments. The President said the bill should become law. He made it plain, however, that he would not support any other bills that were not approved by the Democratic caucus and in no event would he ask the House to pass any other bills while the anti-trust legislation is pending.

Another Caucus May Be Sought. The President intimated, however, that if the Western members would start a movement for another caucus, in order that the Democratic majority in the House might not report a special rule for the consideration of the bill unless instructed to do so by a Democratic caucus.

These developments are significant regarding anti-legislation affecting the West. The bills to amend the three-year homestead law so as to make it workable and equitable; bills providing for leasing Government coal, oil and phosphate lands; and the Alaska leasing bill are all in the same category, and it begins to look as if none could receive consideration in the House unless first approved by a Democratic caucus and then brought up under special rules.

House Has Plenty of Time. There is no question but the House will have ample time to consider all these bills for, with the passage of the anti-trust bills, the House has little remaining of the legislative program except the passage of the sundry civil bill and an adjustment of differences with the Senate on all the big legislation yet unfinished. The Senate, on the other hand, has yet to consider the appropriation bills; it has the anti-trust bills to dispose of, and has work enough mapped out to keep it busy not less than two months.

The disposition among Democrats is to get rid of legislation on the list and then dawdle away the remainder of the session, but if the President will say the word, the House will devote itself to the consideration of legislation still pending.

In the end, the fate of all these Western bills may be said to rest with the President.

$2,500,000 ESTATE LEFT

Mrs. William McKenzie's Lawyer Denies Family Protest to Will.

NEW YORK, May 29.—William McKenzie, who was president of the Standard Bleachery Company, which has a plant employing 1000 persons, at Carlton Hill, N. J., and who died at his home, Brasfield, Carlton Hill, on April 11, left an estate valued at about $2,500,000.

Though the will has not been offered for probate it was learned that one-third of the property owned by Mr. McKenzie, who was founder of the Borough of East Rutherford, N. J., which governs Carlton Hill, is left to Mrs. McKenzie. The remainder will go in equal shares to his four sons and one daughter.

There have been rumors in Bergen County, where Mr. McKenzie was one of the Republican leaders for many years, that the distribution provided by the will was unsatisfactory to the children, all of whom were born to Mr. McKenzie's first wife, and that they intended to contest the will if it was filed. William H. Gourley, of Paterson, who is co-counsel for Mrs. McKenzie and was a friend of Mr. McKenzie, said there was no truth in the rumors. He said the will would be filed within a few days. Mr. McKenzie's sons would not discuss the matter.

The five children are Mrs. Rachel E. Pearson, of Boston, Mass., and James W. McKenzie, of New York City; Kenneth M. McKenzie and William McKenzie, of Rutherford.

MUNICIPAL LINE LOSES

SEATTLE TROLLEY SAID TO GO BEHIND $12 DAILY.

Receipts From First Six Days of Operation Average $78.28 With Interest and Wages of $90.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 30.—(Special.)—Seattle's new municipal trolley system is losing $12 a day, according to the official report which will have to be made up by general taxation. The line cost approximately $400,000 and at 4 1/2 per cent the interest amounts to $90 a day. Three crews and a barn foreman are paid $40 a day making a cost for two items alone of $90 a day. The receipts for the first six days of operation have averaged $78.28 ranging from $141.50 the highest; to $48.25 the lowest.

In addition to interest during the period of operation there must be added to the deficit interest during the period of construction, covering nearly two years, the charge for current and depreciation. Presumably the general fund, created by general taxation, will be required to care for the deficit during the period of construction, and it begins to look as if a profit or meets its expenses.

$12,468 PAID FOR SPEECH

Senator La Follette Ships 348 Pages Into Congressional Record.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Members of Congress were dumfounded when an official "part two" of the Congressional record embracing 348 printed pages was laid on their desks. Investigation showed the entire publication to be the speech of Senator R. M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, on the subject of the alleged influences brought to bear on the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with the proposed increase in freight rates. Only seven pages of the record appeared to have been delivered on the floor of the Senate by Senator La Follette. The balance of the volume being "proofs" in the form of documentary evidence submitted by him to the volume itself exceeds any single copy of the record ever issued by approximately 180 pages.

Representative Barnhart, of Indiana, chairman of the House committee on printing, announced that he would speak on publication in the House at the earliest opportunity, pointing out that if every member of Congress took up as much space as Senator La Follette the cost of the Congressional record would be increased by $6,514,684.22. He estimated the most of the single issue at $12,468.

SABER SCAR IS TOO DEEP

Student Afraid to Fight Duel Sues Man He Hired to Slash Face.

BERLIN, May 29.—The value attached by German students to scars left on their faces by saber duels forms the basis of a lawsuit which is just now amusing university circles throughout Germany.

A certain student in a small university town was most eager to enjoy the glory of such scars, but he could not overcome his dread of fighting a duel. He turned for help to a servant employed at the university and hired him to give him a stroke over the face with a saber.

The man, however, delivered a frightful blow, and the damage was considerably greater than that for which the student contracted. He was dismissed from the hospital he brought suit against the servant for bodily injuries.

PINOCHLE PLAYERS FINED

Students Were Gambling, However, and Each Pays $7 for It.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Pinochle, time-honored indoor and outdoor sport among students, received a black eye in Municipal Court when seven university students caught playing the game on the East River parkway were fined $7 each for gambling. Park Police Capt. A. C. Broberg and Patrolman Carl Albright passed the students, who were seated in a circle, and they paid little attention to them until they heard the clink of money.

Then the game was raided. In court the students confessed to Municipal Judge Montgomery that they were gambling.

GERMAN CANAL PROSPERS. Change From Deficit to Surplus Made Within Few Years. BERLIN, May 29.—The Emperor William Canal, connecting the North Sea and the Baltic, is proving a remarkably successful business enterprise. The years 1906 to 1909 all ended with a deficit. While the deficit in the early years was about $250,000, it was only $55,000 in the year 1909. In 1902 it yielded a surplus of $1,220,000 and although a certain setback was suffered during the years when trade generally was bad, the surplus gradually increased until for the year 1911 it was $300,000.

Home for Disabled Poets. Philadelphia Ledger. "Mr. Editor, we are trying to start a home for disabled poets." "Fine," replied the editor. "There is a whole bunch of poets in this town that I will disabre as soon as you are ready for them."

Nothing the doctor gives me helps, so I write to you. "Answer: You need a thorough laxative course, but one that not only relieves, but surely drives it from the system. The following regularly used will cure you in a few days. It is called 'The Doctor's Advice' and is a home-made sugar syrup or honey as per directions on bottle."

"Mrs. G." writes: "I have in recent years been threatened with appendicitis, but would never consent to an operation. Indigestion, constipation and sedentary habits cause me much suffering. Kindly prescribe for me a reliable medicine which you think will cure me and prevent appendicitis." "C. G." writes: "If you know of anything that will cure dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness, please let me know what it is." Answer: For several years I have prescribed a certain yellow ointment superior to anything known for the treatment of dandruff, itching scalp and premature baldness. It quickly overcomes all diseases of hair and scalp and gives new vigor and intense natural color to the hair. Try it fairly and you will advocate its use for your friends.

"Mildred" writes: "I am constantly emaciated because of the fact of my extreme thinness. I have absolutely no color in my face and lips and I am dull and lifeless most of the time. Please advise me what to do." Answer: If you are so thin and pale and your lips and cheeks are colorless, it is because your blood is deficient in iron. This can be easily overcome by the use of three-grain hypo-nucleic tablets, which can be had from any druggist in sealed cartons with full directions for taking. When the blood is enriched by the use of these tablets your weight will increase, the color will come back into your face and lips, and it will improve your general system so that you will be strong and healthy.
