The 42d annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer Association will take place Thursday. All the details in connection therewith are being arranged by the proper committees and the prospects indicate large attendance and a most successful reunion.

The pioneers are coming into the city from different parts of the Coast, and a considerable number already have called at the office of Secretary Himes and procured the proper badge for this year. ## WOMAN WINS $10 PRIZE

WHO'S GOT THE BUTTOS? CONTEST THIRD-ST. CROWDS ENJOY.

Mrs. Helen McCabe Is Successful Hunter.—Band Plays—Stores Stay Open Late.

The Festival spirit continued along Third street last night. Crowds nearly as large as those to see the Rose Festival celebration strolled under the electric arches, listened to the band that made its headquarters at the corner of Third and Yamhill street in a large automobile and joined in the "Who's-got-the-buttos" contest. This latter was the chief source of interest and amusement.

Third-street buttons were held in all the windows from Burnside street to Yamhill street. One of these buttons, the Third-streeters announced, contained a $10 gold piece.

Mrs. Helen McCabe, 355 East First street, North, was the successful hunter. She discovered the prize in the window of the Oregon Hardware Company, between Oak and Pine streets, about 8:30 P. M.

But the hunt continued long after the prize was won. "Tun lookin' for them ten buttons" and "For' over the mazuma" were among the favorite expressions of the crowd. One man asked if the money would be in sight. The stores stayed open until 10 o'clock, and occasional searchers, unaware that the money had been found, were seen hanging disconsolately around afterward.

The contest last night was one of a series of entertainments which will be staged by the Third-streeters in their publicity campaign. The band may be a weekly feature. The other attractions will be varied.

BOND PETITION TO START
Hood River Orchardists Want Highway Completed.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 13.—(Special)—In one of the most interesting road meetings ever held in the Pacific Northwest, the representative orchardists of the valley convened at the hotel here today to discuss a petition to the County Court to call a special election for the purpose of voting on a proposed bond issue of $75,000 for the completion of the Columbia River Highway from the Multnomah County line to this city.

The petition, which will require 251 signatures to secure action by the court, was signed by all present and the calling of the special election is assured.

The money raised by the petition, appointed the following orchardists as an executive committee to conduct a campaign for further signatures: A. G. Lewis, Gus Miller, G. M. Uptegrove, C. W. Hooker and L. E. Dart.

At 8 P. M. Colonel Robert A. Miller will open the annual "campfire" meeting by the introduction of Edward H. McFarland, 1852, who will extend the greetings of the "Unimproved Order of Red Men" to the "Boston Till-I-kums," who began poaching upon aboriginal "ill-ill-hee."

This feature will be followed by vocal music, five-minute talks by pious men with an occasional chance for pioneer men to slip in word, if qualified, followed by a Chinook dialogue between a Kioochman and a Boshuckan, and a general "olla podrida" of old-time reminiscences.

PORTLAND IN 1915, OSTEOPATHS' SLOGAN
Sum of $2500 Raised at State Meeting to Aid Fight for National Convention.

The purpose of making an effort to bring the 1915 National convention of osteopathic physicians to Portland, $2500 was subscribed by members of the Oregon Osteopathic Association, as one of the final acts of their state convention, which closed its sessions at the Multnomah Hotel last night.

Dr. W. E. Waldo, of Seattle, president of the Washington Osteopathic Association, addressed the meeting on the work the Washington association is doing to help bring the convention to Portland. As trustee he said he would do all he could to get the convention for Portland. Dr. A. E. Cunningham and Dr. Robert A. Winter-Pond, of Seattle, will go to Philadelphia, where this year's convention will be held, to work for Portland.

The Portland delegation has not been selected. Los Angeles also is putting up a bitter fight for this meeting, but the Portland osteopaths hope to win over the Southern city.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Buyers and sellers of real estate, and home-owners alike, will welcome the news that a permanent real estate auction market is to be established in Portland; first —because the real value of any property is exactly for what it will sell; second

—because it will largely increase the activity of the real estate market in Portland; third

—because it furnishes a quick and convenient way for supplying one's real estate needs (at one's own price, too), and at the same time finds a buyer for property whose owner has for years, perhaps, been trying in vain to sell; fourth

—because it searches out and brings together the fellow who wants to sell and the fellow who wants to buy, neither of whom would otherwise ever know of the other's existence.

"At Auction" has been for all time and still is the method used in all the great financial and industrial centers for instantly and accurately determining values, as for example the stock, wool, cotton and other world markets where commodities are exchanged by means of open bidding.

No line of business in the world is more adapted for handling by the auction method than the buying and selling of real estate. That it is a logical and successful method—equally desirable for seller and buyer—has been proven in various Eastern cities, where it has been conducted on a high standard of business integrity.

We have been told that conditions are not right—that this is not the time to start such a system of realty exchange in Portland. On the other hand, we believe that it is these very conditions that make this the logical time to venture—to the end, at least, that it will cause a re-awakening of the real estate market in this city.

Therefore, tomorrow, Monday, June 15, we make our initial bow in Portland to furnish

REAL ESTATE AT AUCTION

Property booked here and owned by people who really desire to sell at once at actual value, will be numbered and the title examined and appraisement made by competent real estate authorities in the order of its booking. As the number in the first sale will be limited, they will necessarily be high class.

With advantageous grouping and all representations guaranteed you are assured of the very best facilities in securing the choicest selections from the best of all the various classes of Portland real estate.

The writer was present recently at a real estate auction held by a well and favorably known realty company in a large city. The crowd of prospective buyers and bidders included half a dozen millionaires and fifty women of wealth. There was intense interest in the bidding, especially when the large figures, involving fortunes, were shouted out.

In connection with the launching of this enterprise, you are invited to especially remember —that the energies of this concern will be devoted exclusively to the handling of real estate at auction, and that it is not merely an "auction department," where your interests would not be handled by principals; and —that the public auctions—which will occur at regular intervals in the parlors of Portland's leading hotels—will be conducted on strong, fine, clean principles, such as are calculated to build for this concern a permanent and successful business.

Date of first sale, complete list, terms of and conditions of sale, will be published in due time, when you will be invited to examine the properties and consult any dealer as to their values. Inquiries invited.

The loom is sent here from the Massachusetts mills of the Whitall Carpet Company, of Worcester, Mass.

The School Board is taking an interest in the educational value of the exhibition and permission has been given to have announcements of it made in all the grammar and high schools.

Contest for Gold Medal On.
The semi-final contest for the Raymond Manion gold medal for elocution is under way at the Christian Brothers' College and will be completed commencement night. At the opening contest 25 entered and the number was reduced to ten. Another contest brought the number down to three, who will make the final contest at the commencement. The three student winners so far are Joseph Elvers, of the business department; Thomas Duffy, of the commercial department, and Ambrose Larkins, of the first grammar class. The gold medal for which these students will compete is offered by Raymond Manion, of the Glendower-Manion Company, now playing at a leading theater in Chicago.

This cabinet of women was appointed as an amendment to an ordinance which required the consent of the Mayor or the president of the City Council.

OPIMUM SMOKERS ARE FINED.
John Parker, who has had considerable notoriety in underworld affairs, was given a $15 fine yesterday by Judge Stevenson on a charge of smoking opium. F. Harris was fined $30, W. Gross, $15, and Anna Thompson, $15. All were arrested by Detectives Tichenor and John Moloney.

4:15 o'clock Friday morning, was repeated. R. E. Essen, telephone operator at Sandy, said yesterday he talked with Mr. Ruther, who said he was in the yard at 4:15 when a balloon was seen going slowly to the westward between Sandy and Bull Run over the Sandy River. He called his wife out and she said she saw the big bag also. According to Mr. Ruther, it drifted as though going to collide with the bluff on Sandy River. It was seen when it rose suddenly and disappeared.

In efforts to extend relief the most important work of yesterday was the sending by The Oregonian of men into the Cascade Mountains. H. N. Wallace, of the United States Forest Service, left at 2 P. M. with another man on horseback for Colton, where they proceeded into the forests and rugged hills toward Cold Springs.

Here the forest rangers have a lookout on Mount Susap, where they can see for miles over the Cascade forest country. Should the Donaldson and Henderson party be in this region, as seems probably, they should have lighted a fire last night and would have been located by the rangers. Inasmuch as the lookout is 17 miles in the hills and telephonic communication is very uncertain, there is little chance of the rangers being heard from until late today.

Forest Rangers Watch.
In addition to this effort to find the missing balloonists, arrangements were made at the suggestion of The Oregonian for forest rangers in every part of the Oregon forest to be on the lookout. Following the Bull Run report Mr. Wallace, acting on orders from Forest Supervisor Sherard, sent a man to Batey Butte, where a view of a vast country can be had. In making these trips it is thought the lost party may build a fire, which in the forests can be seen for considerable distance if it is kept up. The searchers are looking also for traces of the men and are listening for calls, noises or reports of guns. While in school boys played on the football and track teams.

Anxious Day Passed.
Portland friends and acquaintances of the two men and officials of the Rose Festival Association passed an anxious day yesterday waiting for word from the party. Hour by hour they tried in every way to glean information from towns and settlements in the district where the balloon was last seen, but all without avail. The anxiety increased as darkness spread over the country last night and no word or even a faint rumor had been heard. During the day only the indefinite information by Captain Watis was added to what was already known.

Every effort was made to get information and every effort was put forward to put searchers and scouts in the field during the day. The Oregonian called by telephone every town, settlement and ranch in that section of the state which could be reached, and in some places balloons were seen, not even the Watts balloon, which drifted down the Santiam River for 20 or 25 miles in daylight, passing near several settlements which were called by telephone.
