ORGANIZED MAGNATES ACT

Big Minor Leagues Appeal to Na tional Commission for Privilege to Fight Outlaws or for Financial Assistance.

NEW YORK, June 20 .- That there will be a third major league in organ-ized baseball with all the privileges that the prefix "major" implies, operating after the close of the present season, is almost assured.

After a lengthy session here today, in which all the presidents of the National league cluos and several representatives of the International League took part, the National commission virtually decided that a third major or-ganization was necessary to combat the invasion of the new Federal Governor Tener, of Pennsylvania, in whom was instrusted the entire confidence of the National League club owners, August Herrman, of Cincinnati, the presiding official and President Ban B. Johnson, of the American League, comprising the National commission which is the high court in organized baseball, were in a receptive mood when a delegation from the International League called upon them. The International delegates were President Darrow, J. D. McCaffery, Toronto; Jack Dunn, Baltimore, and J. J. Stein, Buffalo.

Two Propositions Submitted.

Two Propositions Submitted.

Two propositions were submitted by this committee. One of these was a request for financial assistance for some of the clubs and the other that the draft privileges of the major leagues be eliminated so that the international organization could retain or sell its players instead of having them taken at the waiver figure. The latter plan seemed to be more feasible to the members of the commission and the proposition of President Johnson to form a new major league to be composed of four clubs from each of the International League and American Association found immediate favor.

President Barrow, the spokesman of the party, announced after the quartet emerged from the meeting room that the National Commission had considered their request favorably and a Two Propositions Submitted. sidered their request favorably and a final answer would be given within ten days.

Johnson Verifles Report. Later on Ban Johnson verified this statement and went a step farther by saying:

saying:
"The plan to form a third major league is practically consummated."
None of those present at the meeting would consent to name the clubs which would be taken into the new organization, but it was the general impression that these would be Baltimore, Buffalo, Newark and Toronto of the International, and Indianapolis, Cleveland, Milwaukee and either Louisville, Miranapolis or Columbus of the Amer-land, Milwaukee and either Louisville, Minneapolls or Columbus of the American Association.

Just what would become of the other clubs in these leagues was not even suggested but it was thought that they might be formed into a new minor league if geographical difficulties could be eliminated.

ACCEPTANCE OF WAGER COSTS CIGAR DEALER $200.

San Francisco Judge Says as Fan and Citizen He Approves Prosecution of Gambling.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20 .- (Spec al.)-George Schmulian, proprietor of an O'Farrell-street cigar store, who three weeks ago accepted money from a coliceman to bet on a baseball game, pleaded guilty today to a misdemeanor to keeping a gambling place and was fined $200. Attorney Timothy Haley, special prosecutor, said that the National pastime was threatened by the gambling interests and that the conviction of the gamblers would save baseball from destruction, which had befallen horse races and other sports. Heaty argued that gambling had strangled other sports to death, Attorney Harry Michael, for the de-fense, said that Schmulian had volun-tarily allied himself with the baseball league to rid the game of betting, and that last Thursday night he had intro-duced a resolution at a meeting of the wholesale cigar dealers condemning baseball betting.

In passing sentence, Judge Deasy said, he was in sympathy with the prosecution, both as a fan and as a University Pitching Marvel Plans to Leave Game.

BI EARL R. GOODWIN.

Yet, right here in Portland, is such a new edition of a young Johnson or a young Mathewson, who considers his truly phenomenal pitching career of the last three seasons as only an incident of his school and university athletic days, to be laid aside within an-dent of his school and university athletic days, to be laid aside within another year.

The name of this young man is John Welch, Jr. You should spell it "Johnnie" Welch in most of the amateur and college towns of the state to have him recognized, in print, for Welch doesn't like public print.

Welch is a Portland product. He is the son of John C. Welch, head of the Welch Dental Supply House, in the Morgan block.

He was graduated from the Washington High of Portland in the class of '11. He has been attending the University of Oregon for three years, and will be graduated next year. Incidentally, his team mates at the close of the present university baseball year put the laurel wreath on his splendid work in their behalf during the past three seasons by naming him their captain.

In 1912, Welch, having left Washington High, in Portland, entered Oregon University. That year he won every game he pitched for his school. In addition he pitched enough amateur games to bring his season's total of battles up to 24. In those 24 games he lost just one game. Johnson or Mathewson never bragged of more than that in their early careers.

Three Out of 27 Games Lost.

Last year Welch pitched a total of 27 games, including his university games. Of those he lost three games. One season of such marvelous work might be called a fluke, but not so with two such seasons. Fifty-one games pitched, all won but four, covering two years, can mean no fluke.

This year Welch has pitched in only five games, all for his University of Oregon team. The highest number of hits made off him in any one of these games was four. The average number of hits made in these five games was 5 up. That is getting pretty close to Johnson or Mathewson form, as a third season average.

But Welch's real mound genius lies in his proved ability under stress of Corvallis, against Oregon Agricultural College.

At Seattle, in the middle of the second inning, the game stood 4 to 3 in favor of Oregon, but Oregon's pitcher had the bases filled on him. Welch was hurried into the box. He not only retired the side without further scoring, but pitched a no-hit game the remainder of the game, holding Seattle to its original three runs.

At Corvallis, the Oregon Agricultural College sluggers had pounded out five
