Industry Worth $26,000,000 Would Be Ruined, Say Hop Men at Eugene Meeting.

$6,000,000 Brought Into Oregon Yearly Threatened, Assert Speakers-Minister Quoted as Saying Prohibition Results Are Bad.

EUGENE, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—
Opposition to state-wide prohibition, as destructive to the $26,000,000 hop industry in Oregon, was expressed by 100 hopgrowers and dealers in seasion here today. The speakers included Mrs. M. J. Tibletts, of Eugene, who said she had reared two girls and four boys, and that none of them had been harmed by the industry in which she has participated for a quarter of a century.

The hop men favored local and coun ty option, but declared that state-wide prohibition will destroy the industry, which utilizes 25,000 acres of land worth $300 an acre, employes 50,000 people part of the year and brings $6.000,000 into the state annually.

Eastern brewers, they say have Eastern brewers, they say, have stated that they will boycott a state which has no exchange market.

Minister's Experience Teid.

Rev. Mr. Dunsmore, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Independence, was quoted to say that after 25 years active work for prohibition in Kansas, Iowa and Oregon, he'had reached a conclusion that the results obtained are worse than the original condition. James Clark, of Springfield, was named ex-officio member of the state beard of the Hopgrowers and Dealers Association of Oregon.

John Edmunson, of Eugene, was named chairman of the Lane County division, organized today. The organization will be an active factor against the state-wide prohibition movement.

Industry at Stake in Vote.

"The climate and soil of Western Oregon make hoperowing a natural industry," said Colonel E. Hofer, of Salem. "The whole world is demanding our products. The hop industry is decilining elsewhere in the United States. Within ten years this industry will be located in the Willamette Valley, and will make it the most prospersous region in all the world.

They have not told it all. Ballooning in the Cascade Mountains is certainly bad enough, but a trip from the jagged sides of Hurricane Deck to Cascadia through the dense untrodden jungle even worse. Experienced mountaineers have many times become lost in trying to make the way from one of these placed to the other. Hurricane Deck can be reached from Cascadia by going west to Foster, 12 miles, then north to Whitgo over the route covered by the air men. How inexperienced men in moun-tain travel made their way out at all is a puzzle.

The streams about Hurricane deck are deceiving, in that this peak lies between the South Santiam River and the middle fork of that stream and the small streams, of which there are many on the west of the peak, run northerly to the middle fork, and those on the southern slope run either southwesterly to the South Santiam or southeasterly to Moose Creek, and a distance of two miles might take one in opposite directions by following a stream, and in foggy weather or when the sun cannot be seen experienced woodsmen become lost.

They say there are few places in the Cascade Mountains more treacherous or deceiving. Either fortune or mighty good judgment were with these men in hitting the right stream to follow but it took them through a

IN FORCE JULY LAW

Increase in Office Employes Will Be Needed at Salem to Care for 40,-000 Workmen Who Have Come Under Its Protection.

SALEM, Or., June 20 .- (Special.)-

SALEM, Or., June 20.—(Special.)—
When the workmen's compensation act becomes fully operative July 1, approximately 4000 employers and 40,000 workmen will come under its provisions, according to Commissioners Beckwith, Marshall and Babcock. It is estimated that this will be about $5 per cent of the employers of Oregon to which the act will be directly applicable, and a little more than 30 per cent of all the workmen engaged in industries subject to the act.

The daily mail of the State Industrial Accident Commission, which is charged with the administration of the law, during the past month has furnished evidence of the growth of favorable sentiment toward the measure, the Commissioners say. About 400 employers who had previously rejected the act filed written notice of their intention to come under its protection July 1. An illustration of the favorable sentiment is a letter received by the Commission today from a large company near the mouth of the Columbia River, which opposed the law until a few weeks ago. The letter says in part:

Sentiment Favors Law.

"We desire to state that it will be our purpose to co-operate with your Commission in every way, to the end that the new state law shall have a fair trial. We believe it is a step in the right direction, and we also think that the Commission will be glad to work for such legislation as may be necessary to amend any defects that may show up with the actual operation of the law. It is hardly to be expected that the law as it stands is perfection, but by giving it a good trial, all should Sentiment Favors Law. but by giving it a good trial, all should be better able to judge where it needs amendment."

amendment."

The compensation law became effective after its indorsement by the people at the last general election, and the Commission attempted to put it into immediate operation. In a test case, the Supreme Court held that the insurance features were not operative until July 1. The Commission then started compiling a complete list of employers who would be affected. For several months two members of the Commission and three auditors have been traveling throughout the state and the Commission has in its offices in Salema a formidable list of industries with details regarding the location of plants, nature of business, number of men employed, average daily wage and other data.

Level and the commission is the commission of the law. "We realize the size and importance of the work we have undertaken," said Commissioner Baboock. "We appreciate the necessity of conducting the department absolutely on a business basis. We never ask any questions about the politics of any ap-

Large Office Force Needed.

After July 1 the accounting department will employ five persons—three bookkeepers, one general clerk and one stenographer—whose duties it will be to keep the accounts of all contributors to the industrial accident fund. It will to the industrial accident fund. It will be necessary, the Commissioners say, to keep 4000 independent ledger records, showing the amounts of contributions by employer and workman, expenditures for first aid, time lost, and, in case of death, the amount set aside to guarantee payment of pensions. A general ledger record is kept, daily balance to be had, showing amounts on hand in classes A and B, amounts expended in both classes, separate account showing expenditures for administration, and a distributive account with the State Treasurer account with the State Treasurer showing the amount of money that is on hand in the general accident fund, and also the total money invested as prescribed by law and termed the "segregated fund" wherein all money for future payments on account of parfor future payments on account of pen-sions or installment payments for per-manent partial disability is deposited. manent partial disability is deposited, and payments made therefrom each month as required by law. The system used in this department is the result of more than two years' study, worked out by Frank W. Hinsdale, the present secretary of the Commission.

Claim Division Organized.

The claim division will be compo comb, eight miles, then back southeast four miles, making 24 miles to reach a point direct from Cascadia about seven or eight miles. Mountaineers would rather make this long distance than to that purpose and can be readily found by consulting any of three indexes as follows: Alphabetical, by number or industry.

Those claims are then in the care of the assistant claim agent, whose duty it is to assemble all further papers, blanks, forms, etc., that may be received in connection with these claims. If the injured man is still in the hands of the attending physician at the end of the first 30-day period, a proper voucher is drawn for him to sign showing the amount due him for his lost time to date.

Vouchers Are Prepared.

These vouchers are mailed to the injured person and when returned properly receipted and witnessed as to signature and date, they are then listed on a transmission sheet, a total found of all vouchers registered thereon, entered in the minutes and general backs, proper, notation made upon the on, entered in the minutes and general books, proper notation made upon the general ledger cards and is then sent to the office of the Secretary of State, whose duty it is to draw the warrants, in favor of the men whose names appear thereon, for the amount set down opposite each name. There will be in use in the claim division about 40 blank forms of various kinds. The number of pieces of mail handled by the division it is thought will be about 109 gaily.

Announcing that 33 persons are employed in the office of the Industrial Insurance Commission of the State of Washington, the Oregon Commissioners say the work has been so simplified here that its office force probably will not exceed 12.

One of the important features of the work will be the administration of the first aid provisions. This part of the work will necessitate the fitting up of one room in the capitol with the regulation paraphernalia of a physician's office.

Medical Work Important. Dr. F. H. Thompson has been employed as chief medical advisor and, as the claims for compensation are received he will be assigned to work. The Commission has ordered a modern other data.

Information regarding hospitals, location, capacity, number of nurses, physicians, equipment, etc., that will be necessary in the administration of the first-aid provisions also has been compiled. There have been from three to five persons in the office engaged in classifying and filing the information sent by auditors and in caring for the rapidly increasing correspondence, which ranges now from 75 to 100 letters a day.

Private Compensation Bad.

"In Massachusetts, where much of the compensation insurance is written by old-line companies, during the year ending June 30, 1913, the employers paid $4,000,000 in premiums, and the killed and injured workmen received $1,677,000 in compensation basefits, and before the injured workmen in hundreds of cases, received the money they were compelled to prosecute tedious and expensive appeals to the courts. It does not require an expert to reach the conclusion from this showing that the economic loss under the plant which is in vogue in some of the Eastern States, and which our insurance friends are attempting to engraft upon the Oregon compensation law, is almost as bad as the economic loss under the liability system whereby but 26 per cent of the money paid by the employers for protection ever actually reaches the injured workmen.

The Commission has had printed and will mail next week about 10,000 cards notifying workmen that the plants in which they are employed are, or are not, under the law, the act requiring every mill, factory and workshop in the state to be thus placarded.

The State Industrial Accident Commission is composed of Harvey Beckwith, chairman; William A. Marshall and C. D. Babcock.
