

DETECTIVES SEEK REVOLVER AS GLEW

Weapon Now Sole Evidence to Connect Anyone With Murder at Freeport.

DOCTOR'S WIFE SUCCUMBS

Nurse Who Was Caught Kissing Physician to Be Witness When Inquest Is Resumed—Victim's Daughter Is Called.

FREEPORT, N. Y., July 4.—Half a dozen detectives renewed vigorously today the search for the revolver with which Mrs. Louise Bailey was murdered Tuesday night in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman.

Photographs of a woman suspect in the case were obtained today by the detectives, who will endeavor to have pawnbrokers and keepers of gunshops in New York and the cities in New Jersey identify them.

Two Strange Women Wanted. The detectives also declared they were desirous of determining who outgoing calls passed over the telephone in the Carman home for several days previous to the murder and to learn the identity of two strange women whom Mrs. Carman and her sister, Mrs. Idaho Powell, said they had seen hurrying from the Carman home immediately after the murder.

The funeral of Mrs. Bailey was held at the Bailey home in Hampstead. Her body will be buried tomorrow.

Dr. Carman announced today that his wife had succumbed to the terrific strain she had undergone since the murder.

Kissing Nurse Will Testify. When the inquest is resumed Monday morning, it was learned today, an affidavit from Celia Coleman, a colored maid in the Carman home, will be introduced. She swears that Mrs. Carman was not in the kitchen the night of the murder and that neither she nor anyone else passed in or out of the back door before the shot was fired.

Mrs. Elizabeth Varance, the nurse Mrs. Carman saw kiss Dr. Carman, was served with a subpoena today to appear at the inquest. Miss Hazel Coombs, a patient who was waiting to see the doctor, but who says she left the house just before the murder, will be another, as well as Miss Madeline Bailey, daughter of the victim, who will, it is said, testify about a talk her mother had over the telephone.

VETERANS SHOULDER GUNS FIRST TIME SINCE CIVIL WAR.

Applause Loud as Eleven Men March Across Field and Later Present Manual of Arms in Gladstone Park.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 4.—(Special.)—For the first time in more than 50 years 11 members of Mende Post No. 2, Grand Army of the Republic, shouldered guns today and before a crowd of hundreds at Gladstone Park presented the manual of arms and drills in the same way as in former times.

The little group of men formed into line before the grandstand. Each had some little touch of color, preserved carefully, and each stood erect, head and shoulders back. There were a few leaning heavily on their guns.

When the announcer called out the next number on the program, the band on the far side of the ball diamond, where the drill was held, struck up "Yankee Doodle." Commander Clyde stepped to the head of the column of 11 and a command was given.

The veterans marched across the field and back again and then, halting before the grandstand, presented the manual of arms. The band continued with "Yankee Doodle," but the applause, which was almost continuous, was louder at times than even the loud bass drum.

Here and there in the crowd there was an uncovered head and murmurs of reverence and respect were heard everywhere.

DIFFERENT REPLY SOUGHT

Mr. U'Ren Gives Reasons Why He Would Hear From Dr. Withycombe.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 3.—Dr. James Withycombe, Republican candidate for Governor, Corvallis, Or.—Dear Sir: Yours of the 29th ult. at hand refusing to declare yourself either for or against state and National Prohibition. I still have the following reasons for expecting a different answer:

In your speech at the Methodist Church in Oregon City, June 21, you said you were president of the Methodist Brotherhood at Corvallis; you said you had caused the discharge of a subordinate because he entered a saloon; you have been advertised extensively by your friends as a consistent church member, a staunch supporter of the College Y. M. C. A., and altogether an unusually good man; you evidently intended to make the Methodists and others in your audience believe you were against the liquor traffic on moral grounds, and succeeded with many of them; you said "Prohibition is a moral question," and when a moral question is presented for approval or rejection in the form of a proposed law, I believe a man as moral and brave as yourself cannot long refuse to take a stand in favor of good morals and for the proposed law.

Your fear of embarrassing yourself or the Republican Party by such a course may be an excuse, but it is not a reason. A direct primary candidate in Oregon makes his own platform. Why should you or other Republicans in Oregon be more embarrassed by declaring for Prohibition than the Republicans of Idaho? They leave no doubt that they favor it. Why not change your mind on Prohibition as completely as you did on the "Item Veto" after you were nominated?

If you should be elected and at the same time Prohibition be adopted, will you enforce the law like the Governors of Kansas did for 24 years (and during all that time Kansas prohibition was a brewers' joke), or will you enforce it like Governor Stubbs did and the present Governor does? There is nothing funny now for the brewers about Kansas prohibition. Read Mason & Co-

Cutcheon's article in Collier's of June 27. When I wrote you on the 22d ult. I was as confident that Dr. Smith, the Democratic candidate, favored state and National prohibition as I was that you did before I heard your speech at the Methodist Church. I had what I thought was good reason for my belief as to both of you. But I am as anxious as you are that there shall be no doubt, and am therefore writing to Dr. Smith today, and inclose herewith a copy of my letter. I am also inclosing to him a copy of this letter.

Mr. Gill, the Progressive candidate, is publicly advocating state and Na-national prohibition. I have no agreement or understanding with Dr. Smith or Mr. Gill, but I am trying to make one with all of you on this moral and economic question of the prohibition and destruction of the liquor traffic.

I hope you will not try to play the old-fashioned game of politics, by seeking the liquor vote because you do not declare for prohibition, and seeking the moral vote because you are an unusually good man, president of the Methodist Brotherhood of Corvallis, a Y. M. C. A. leader and prominent in all church good works, outside of politics. Don't do it, Doctor.

You cannot feel both the "dry" and the "wet" by refusing to tell anyone how you will vote in November on the Oregon dry amendment, which you say is a moral question. You cannot go through this campaign with a pitcher of water on one shoulder and a barrel of beer on the other. You will favor the amendment, and you will feel a lot better when it is done. Do it now and join the rest of us candidates in trying for a sober Oregon. Sincerely yours, W. S. UREN.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 3.—Dr. C. J. Smith, Democratic Candidate for Governor, Broadway Building, Portland, Or.—Dear Doctor: In common with very many of our mutual friends, I have believed that you were strongly in favor of state and National prohibition. My impression is that in the early part of this campaign you made a public statement which justified that belief, but I did not see it and do not remember the date.

You have written seven or eight correspondence with Dr. Withycombe, and I inclose herewith a copy of my letter of this date to him.

Are you in favor of state and National prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors? Do you favor adoption of the Oregon dry amendment by the people next November?

I am making this an open letter, because it is a public matter and I know very many people, besides Dr. Withycombe, would like to be sure from your own statement of your exact position on this question. I hope to see it taken out of partisan politics in this state and made unanimous for the "dry" side, so far as the candidates for Governor are concerned. Sincerely yours, W. S. UREN.

REPUBLICANS COUNT ON WINNING NEVADA

Democratic Party Is Split and Gain of Seat in Senate Is Expected.

EFFECT IS FAR-REACHING

Repeal of Tariff on Wool and Sugar Has Hurt State's Industries. Representative Roberts Has Small Chance to Win.

RENO, Nev., July 4.—(Special.)—With the Progressive party in Nevada virtually wiped off the map, unable to secure a candidate for United States Senator, and its former members flocking back to the old standard, the prospects of electing a Republican United States Senator to succeed Senator Newlands are bright.

There is a wide split in the Democratic ranks, with ex-Governor Dickerson leading one wing of the party and eager for the scalp of Newlands, who has served Nevada for 17 years in the upper house. This is the first election in which Senator Newlands has been compelled to appeal directly to the people for their support, owing to the primary law which went into effect two years ago.

Newlands Faces Hard Fight. It is generally believed that Newlands will secure the nomination without opposition, although there are rumors that Dickerson, present warden of the State Penitentiary at Carson City, will oppose him. Dickerson refuses to be quoted on the subject, but his friends are inclined to discredit the rumor.

Sam Belford, a prominent Democratic politician and attorney, also mentioned as an opponent of Newlands for the Democratic nomination, has refused to enter the race. He is, however, openly opposed to Newlands' re-election and has caustically criticized Newlands' vote on tariff measures.

With the Progressive party without a candidate and its strength thrown with the Republicans, it is assumed that Newlands has the fight of his career on his hands, especially as he may be opposed by Frank Norcross, a member of the Nevada Supreme Court and a powerful factor in the Republican party. Norcross has not announced his candidacy, in fact he has said that he probably will not run, but it is believed he will enter the race, nevertheless.

Sam Platt in Race.

The only Republican candidate in the field is Sam Platt, ex-United States District Attorney, and prominent in state politics. Platt was mentioned for Senator to succeed George Nixon, but Governor Oddie offered the appointment to George Wingfield, Nevada's multi-millionaire mine owner and banker, who refused it.

W. A. Madsen was selected and was defeated at the election of 1912 by Key Pittman, by 59 votes, Sardinia Summerfield, the party's present nominee, winning about 1500 votes, thus aiding in Madsen's retirement.

It is said that the Dickerson wing of the Democratic party will oppose Newlands in the campaign with all the vigor at its command, that there is a personal enmity between Dickerson and Newlands dating from the campaign of 1910, when Dickerson, Nevada's Governor, refused to aid Dickerson in his campaign for Governor and Dickerson was defeated by a Republican—Tasker L. Oddie. It is said that Dickerson never forgave Newlands and vowed vengeance. That he is keeping that vow is evident, and that he will take the stump and campaign against Newlands is considered a certainty by those who know him.

Dickerson Strong With Miners.

Nevada, therefore, presents an interesting political battle, with the chances all in favor of a Republican succeeding Newlands. It is asserted that Newlands has attempted to pacify Dickerson, but the latter has refused to enter into any agreement. Dickerson's refusal to say whether he will enter the primaries against Newlands is causing considerable discussion among politicians. That Dickerson has a strong following among the labor unions comes from the fact that he was a prisoner in the "stockade" in Colorado, where he was a miner. Dickerson's strength in Nevada was mainly in the mining sections. Washoe County, in which is Reno, voted heavily against Dickerson when he ran for Governor.

Another element that will help to defeat Newlands is the attitude of the so-called Nixon interests. It is said that they will throw the entire weight of their strength against Newlands and for the Republican candidate, whoever it may be, in order to secure a Republican representation in the upper house to bring back the protective tariff on wool and sugar, the elimination of which has done more to hurt Nevada's industries than any other influence.

Democratic Laws Hurt State.

Nevada is seeking a Republican this year for self-protection. The state has been seriously hurt by Democratic legislation, and it is asserted that two years hence the same united effort will be made to defeat the Democratic party, for re-election, and thus secure a solid Republican delegation in the United States Senate.

It is virtually admitted that Representative Roberts, Democrat, who was elected by a majority of 59 votes at the election in 1912, will be retired in favor of a Republican. There has been a complete political revolution in Nevada since the election of Wilson and the destructive policy of the Democratic party.
