VANCOUVER, Wash., July 4 .- (Spectal.) - Vancouver's first "safe and sane" Fourth of July celebration in the 90 years of its existence proved to be a wonderful success. J. E. Carter, one merchant who arrempted to sell firecrackers, was arrested and released on his own recognizance for trial Monday, but he said he thought that the Council had passed an ordinance permitting the sale of fireworks.

Early this morning the ferry from Portland began to bring over hundreds of visitors with each load, and before noon the full capacity was taxed to bring all who desired to come. The farmers began to arrive early, so by the time that the parade started at 10:30 o'clock the streets were packed.

Portland Corps Makes Hit. Colonel George S. Young, as grand marshal of the day, led three companies, K. M and E. in the parade, which proved to be the best ever held in the city. Drum Corps No. 1. Scount Young Camp, of Portland, Sons of Spanish-American War Veterans, made a big bit.

The Elks had the best fraternal float in the parade, a glant Elk, on which was perched little Bobbie Adams, and seated around the feet were a score of little children, all dressed in white, termed Baby Elks.

The New Era Chinese band, of Portland, pleying American National airs, won great applause and was one of the big features of the day. A number of well dressed Chinese families rode behind the band in automobiles.

After the parade, patriotic exercises were held in the City Park, Mayor Crass made the address of welcome. J. O. Blair read the Declaration of Independence, and Mrs. John R. Knight sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Charles A. Johns, of Portland, delivered an oration and this was followed by all joining in singing "America."
