

COMMITTEE OF 100
OUT FOR DRY STATE

Organization Just Completed
Not Allied With Others,
but Is Representative.

FIGHT BASED ON REALITIES

New Association Includes Men Who Pay $5,000,000 Yearly for Help and Are Confident Prohibition
Will Add to Prosperity.

Organization was completed yesterday of the committee of 100, which proposes to carry on a vigorous campaign on behalf of the prohibition amendment to the constitution, which will be on the ballot next November.

The membership of the committee will be limited to 100. Its members are composed in large measure of prominent business men of the state, most of whom are in Portland. There are also a number of women on the committee.

"We shall support no candidate and no party," declare the members of the committee, who make it emphatic that they are not third party prohibitionists.

"The organization is not affiliated with the Anti-Saloon League, the Prohibition party or similar organizations. In a statement issued yesterday it was announced that the committee of 100 believes that prohibition will be an economic advantage to the State of Oregon; that it will injure no business, save only that of the brewer and saloon-man.

"We are confident the hop business will not be affected in any way by Oregon prohibition," declared the committee.

"Our campaign is to be one of logic and cold, hard facts. Muckraking is not contemplated. We want no sympathy plea. We shall not 'muckrake' the brewer, or any allied interest.

"We want the voters of Oregon to consider the facts and arguments on both sides, then to declare their decision."

The officers of the committee: Chairman, J. E. Wheeler; vice-chairmen, Amos M. Smith and Robert Livingstone; secretary, Dr. R. C. Coffey, and treasurer, John S. Brayley.

Offices for the committee have been opened in the Abington building, while the publicity offices are at 748 Morgan building in charge of Orton E. Goodwin, a Portland newspaper man.

"The Committee of One Hundred is an organization of business men who hope to prove by facts and figures the advantages of prohibition to Oregon. We shall support no candidate, no party and no measure save only the prohibition amendment," said John E. Wheeler, chairman of the committee.

"We find that in the membership of this committee we have represented the employers of thousands of workmen and a payroll running considerably over $5,000,000 a year. These men have no fear of any business depression as a result of prohibition. Instead, they expect to see a marked stimulus in trade.

Sympathetic Plea Avoided.
"We do not favor a snap vote or a sympathetic vote. We want the people of Oregon to consider the question from all angles.

"We feel sure that after a careful analysis of facts the thoughtful voter will feel compelled to vote for prohibition.

"The hopgrowers of Oregon, for instance, are afraid prohibition in Oregon will hurt them. Why?

"The revenue from the hop business is about $5,000,000 a year in outside money."

"At least 95 per cent, and perhaps 98 per cent growers say, of this crop is sold outside of the state and most of it abroad.

"So Oregon prohibition can't hurt the Oregon hop crop or the Oregon hopgrower. The buyer is glad to buy where he can get them to the best advantage. Local conditions won't worry him. He is a business man. He is going to buy hops where he can get the best for least money.

"Europe will continue to be the world's big market for hops. Prohibition here will not change that. Prohibition in Oregon will not affect the price here 1 cent a pound. It cannot affect the price of hops where the hop business in Oregon, therefore, can hardly effect the 50,000 odd hoppickers.

"We know that prohibition will be an impetus to business; instead of being harmful.

"Facts, Not Theories," Presented.
"Money that has been going for liquor will be available for other purposes. This will release a vast sum for investment and development in Oregon. It will enable the average family to spend more. The butcher, the baker, the grocer will see the benefits of prohibition, as they have elsewhere. Their sales will increase, their percentage of bad bills will decrease.

SANDBAGGERS GO TO JAIL
PROSECUTOR PLEADS FOR LENIENCY FOR MALEFACTOR.
Deputy Delch Condones Offense of Oscar Ohlms, Out on Parole, Blaming Partner Most.

William Berger and Oscar Ohlms pleaded guilty in Municipal Court yesterday to sandbagging Heimar Johnson and stealing a $12 watch from him. Berger was sentenced to 30 days in the County Jail and Ohlms to 300.

Deputy District Attorney Delch made a plea for Ohlms, who is on parole from an indeterminate sentence of two to five years for burglary. The District Attorney said if Judge Stevenson would sentence the young man on the larceny charge, he would go before the Circuit Court and ask that Ohlms be sent to the Penitentiary for this violation.

Berger, said Mr. Delch, is a "bad actor." He has served terms in the Walla Walla and Salmon Penitentiaries, and was just released by the grand jury on a forgery charge.

Ohlms, declared Mr. Delch, "is the third young man who has violated his parole under the tutelage of Berger, who seems to have been the leader in each case. It would hardly be right to send Ohlms to the Penitentiary for this violation, and a heavy sentence on the misdeemeanor charge would meet the ends of justice." The District Attorney said if Judge Stevenson would sentence the young man on the larceny charge, he would go before the Circuit Court and ask that Ohlms be sent to the Penitentiary for this violation.

POSTER GIVES AIM OF PRODUCTS SHOW
Design Chosen Involves All Factors Working to Make Exhibit Full Success.

MORE SPACE IS TAKEN
Manufacturers and Farmers to Put in Large Displays and Sign Contracts, While Clubs Promise Support of Movement.

Wide publicity of an attractive nature will be the keynote of success for the forthcoming manufacturers' and land products show, to be held from October 26 to November 14. The railroad companies having promised their co-operation, President Dunne and the executive committee of the show determined to furnish to them for publicity work in the cities and towns of Oregon and Washington a poster that would attract immediate attention and would be creditable to Portland and to the business men who are promoting this exposition.

Poster designs were asked, and seven different artists and firms furnished sketches and colored designs. The honor of making the official poster for the show falls to Fred A. Routledge, a well-known artist of this city.

The features of this display, its products of the farm, orchard, factory and workshop, are depicted thoroughly in the picture. In the background the purple haze of the beautiful mountains surrounding Portland forms a soft yet attractive color. The whole of the exposition, of the Army and temporary exhibition buildings and fronts erected thereto is shown in white, and the most understandable line of the whole is the Pacific Northwest under one roof, is in the left of the poster. Prosperity is shown in every line drawn in this design and the large figure of the manufacturer and the farmer in the foreground will hold the eye wherever the poster is hung.

Among the applications and contracts signed were the following: The Holt Caterpillar Tractor Company, six spaces; Oregon City Woolen Mills, four spaces; Oregon Chair Company, two spaces; Pacific Coast Blouse Company, one space; Closset & Dyers Company, one space; Union Meat Company, one space; Long Cabin Baking Company, two spaces; John S. Beall, three spaces; A. P. Bateham Spraying Company, one space; Portland Truck Company, one space; Oregon Brass Works, one space; Zan Bros., one space; Wagen Glass Works, one space, and Columbian Neckwear Company, two spaces.

A total amount of space applied for and contracted in a day and a half amounted to $1600.

Among the organizations co-operating are the United Metal Workers' Association, the Rotary Club, the B. P. O. Elks, Portland Commercial Club, Portland Ad Club, the Portland Retail Merchants' Association, the Oregon Horticultural Society, the United Artisans and the Chamber of Commerce.

Committee meetings this coming week are as follows: Industrial exhibit committee, at 1 P. M. Monday; music and attractions, Wednesday at 1 P. M., and executive committee, on Tuesday at 1 P. M.
