

STATE GUARDS OFF FOR CAMP TODAY

First Gearhart Special Leaves 8:45 A. M.; Second and Third Tomorrow.

2550 MEN TO ASSEMBLE

Idaho Men Will Merge Trains Here and Proceed—Regulars From Vancouver En Route Afoot. Big Programme Planned.

With every preparation made in advance for their comfort, convenience and pleasure, members of the Oregon National Guard, 1500 strong, will leave on special trains today and tomorrow for Gearhart, where they will join the Idaho National Guard and the regulars from Vancouver Barracks in an encampment replete with stirring and interesting events.

The first of the soldiers will leave at 8:45 A. M. over the North Bank Railway. This detachment will include Battery A and Troop A, with 150 men and about 115 horses. The train is due at Gearhart at about 2 P. M., when the troops will pitch their tents. All other preparations have been made, including the laying out of the grounds and the selection of sites for each tent.

The rest of the men will leave tomorrow morning in two special trains, one leaving the North Bank Station at 7:45 o'clock and the other at 11 o'clock. They will carry about 1000 men and all the field equipment and supplies for the camp.

All Equipment is Loaded.

A squad of guardsmen worked nearly all afternoon yesterday getting the cannon and the hospital and supply wagons onto the flat cars and loading the supplies into the express cars. The work was finished before night and ready for moving. The cars will be attached to the special trains.

Portland will be the mobilization point for the guardsmen of the state. The various companies will leave their home points tonight and early tomorrow morning, arriving here in time to change to the special trains. The Idaho troops will pass through Portland between 1 A. M. and 2 A. M. tomorrow. The companies from Northern Idaho will come on a special train over the North Bank line, while the others will come by way of the G. W. R. & N. The two specials will be assembled into one for the trip to Gearhart. The regular soldiers from Vancouver left on foot for the camp several days ago.

2550 Men Will Be in Camp.

In the first special train tomorrow morning will be the headquarters staff, band and Companies B, C, D, E, F and H and sanitary troops. This train will be in command of Colonel C. H. Martin. The second special train in command of Lieutenant-Colonel J. L. May, will comprise Companies A, G, I, K, L, and M and the ambulance company. The Idaho troops will number about 550 men, the Oregon about 1200 and the regulars about 800, making a total of 2550 men in camp.

All kinds of interesting drills and maneuvers have been planned for the 10 days' stay in camp. There will be long hikes, attractive dress parades and tactical maneuvers.

A feature will be sham offensive and defensive fighting. The programme has been arranged so that the mornings will be given over to work and the afternoons and evenings to pleasure along the sea beach. All camp work and most of the strenuous drills will be completed by noon. In the evenings there will be a military retreat parade. The camp will be conducted along strict military lines and the men all will be required to conduct themselves in a proper manner.

METHODIST SCHOOL FIRST

Statement That Chloe Boone Was Initial School Teacher Corrected.

The Oregonian inadvertently stated in last Sunday's issue that the school opened and taught by Chloe Boone, on the banks of the La Creole River, in the Oregon Country, in 1846-47, was the first school on the Coast outside of the Spanish missions. This was a mistake easily recognizable by anybody conversant with early Oregon history. The Methodist mission already had been established at Willapa, Walla Walla and in the Willamette Valley, looking to the education of the natives. The particular mission in command of Boone's case is that hers was the first American school west of the Rocky Mountains, taught by a woman, outside the missions, Spanish, Methodist or otherwise.

The question is asked if there is any educational edifice in Portland or in the state bearing this pioneer woman's name, Chloe Boone Curry.

BRIDGE CAUSE OF SUIT

Wagon Wrecked by Quick Lift, Man Asks $2000 From County.

Multnomah County was named defendant in another personal injury suit yesterday when J. Weinstein filed complaint asking $2000 for alleged damages to his horse and team and to himself and for loss of business because of an accident on Hawthorne Bridge on January 5, 1914.

Weinstein complains that on that date he crossed the Hawthorne Bridge from the West Side, driving an express wagon, and that just as the horse and front wheels of his wagon were upon the draw, the lift suddenly started rising, precipitating driver, horse, wagon and a quantity of full and empty milk cans to the floor of the approach proper.

In his suitcase the officers found a large quantity of cheap jewelry, guns and ammunition. He also carried a can of pepper, which the officers aver was for the purpose of eluding capture in the event blood-hounds were placed on his trail.

OREGON LIKE HOME

Maryland Exposition Commission Pays Compliments.

'WE'LL BOOST THIS ROUTE'

This State Should Benefit Almost as Much as California Next Year, Is Sentiment—Visitors See Sights and Dine.

"Oregon is more like home than any other state we have been in."

This was the tribute paid this state by Senator A. J. Cummings, of Maryland, who headed the party of Maryland commissioners, who arrived here on their return trip from San Francisco, where they have been selecting a site for their state building at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. His sentiment was seconded enthusiastically by J. McTripp, C. D. Benson and Charles A. Morrow, the other commissioners in the party.

The party had just returned from an automobile trip on the skyline boulevard to Council Crest, and having lunched at the Commercial Club, were preparing to pile into the automobiles which the reception committee had provided for them for a run out to Chantler.

"What we have seen already has converted us thoroughly to the belief that 'via Oregon' and the Northwest is the route over which exposition tourists should buy their tickets next year," said Mr. Cummings. "You will find our commission a sincere set of boosters for this route. The flood of travel that will come through the Northwest next year should make it possible for you to reap almost as much benefit from the exposition as California."

The entire party was in the most optimistic spirit. "Oh, yes, there is some depression in business in the East," said one, unconcernedly, "but we're not worried much about it. I think that everyone can look for things to brighten up from now on, as conditions become

4 TAKEN IN DRUG RAID

MORPHINE AND COCAINE SEIZED AT CUSTOMS-HOUSE CAFE.

Ex-Public Defender Lowenthal is Among Men Arrested—Warrant Issued for Bartender.

Four men were arrested and a quantity of morphine and cocaine taken in a raid early yesterday on the Customs-House Cafe. With this capture, the police believe they have unearthed the headquarters for drug fiends in Portland.

Adolph Lowenthal, ex-public defender in the Municipal Court; Harry L. Williams, William I. Hutchison and Ben Miles were those arrested.

The raid was conducted by Special Agent E. B. Sandefer, of the State Board of Pharmacy; Sergeant Wells and Patrolmen Huntington, Harms and Johnson. Lowenthal was released on his own recognizance, as he is wanted chiefly as a material witness. Hutchison is charged with selling morphine and cocaine and with having it in his possession. He and Miles were released on $500 bail each.

A warrant was issued later yesterday for the arrest of Gus Switzer, bartender in the Customs-House Cafe, charging him with selling the drugs. Special Agent Sandefer suspected that drugs were being sold at this cafe. Two weeks ago E. J. Magius, proprietor of the Albany drugstore, was convicted of selling morphine and cocaine, and the drug fiends' ring was apparently broken. Then information of a new place began to come to the ears of the officers.

The officers at first could find no trace of drugs. The cash register finally was opened and several small packages were found. These and a hypodermic syringe, taken from Williams, are held as evidence.

Attorney Lowenthal, recently returned from San Francisco, and the authorities say they are making inquiries as to his conduct while there. The case will come before Municipal Court Monday.

AGENT OF MINARD SAYS HE BOUGHT

Burton S. Snyder, of North Yakima, Tells of Buying Land in California Grant.

METHODS ARE EXPOSED

Representation Made That Sales Were Being Handled Directly by Railroad Company, Says Witness Who Found Buyers.

Only two witnesses, Burton S. Snyder, a former real estate broker, of North Yakima, Wash., and Fred L. Colvig, Recorder of Jackson County, testified yesterday in the trial of W. F. Minard, J. W. Logan and E. J. Sellers, charged in the United States District Court with misuse of the mails in connection with locating purchasers on disputed lands of the Oregon & California Railroad Company's grant.

Mr. Snyder testified that he formerly served as an agent for Mr. Minard. The gist of his testimony yesterday was an exposition of the alleged manner in which people who wanted land were relieved of their money without receiving deeds.

He told how Mr. Minard had appointed him in 1909 on a minimum charge basis of $75 to look up applicants for locations. His commission, he said, was to vary between $25 and $40, according to how much money the purchaser paid.

While the witness was referring to the communications received from Minard pertaining to business matters, a copy of one of the advertising circulars referred to as received by him was read by District Attorney Reames. Under the heading, "Timber, Your Opportunity if You Will," the circular told how the company would be forced to sell the lands or a receiver would dispose of them at a quotation of $1.50 an acre. The lands were said to be worth an average of $50 an acre. A clear and perfect title would be granted, the circular said, at the regular grant price to those who applied early.

Mr. Snyder testified that Mr. Minard had given him to understand that he was the acting attorney for the land department of the Oregon & California Railroad, officials of which felt that they would lose the property unless they sold it at the grant price of $1.50 an acre.

Acting in good faith, Mr. Snyder said, he secured over a score of applicants, who paid him approximately $2000. This money, he said, was forwarded to Mr. Minard, after the commission had been deducted. Receipts were given by Mr. Minard, he said. Convinced of the regularity of the transactions, Mr. Snyder said that he purchased some of the land himself. He testified that he did not resign as agent until the Spring of 1910, when he read newspaper accounts alleging that the scheme was fraudulent.

Mr. Colvig identified duplicate applications said to have been filed by Minard as county record on 59 separate tracts of land.

"The trial will be resumed Monday at 2 P. M. Because of the large number of witnesses yet to be heard, it is estimated that the case will not be concluded for about two weeks."
