Might as well keep those headlines. "Portland Wins Again," standing. Walt McCredle's Beavers continued their remarkable winning streak yesterday by drubbing Los Angeles for the terday by drubbing Los Angeles for the fifth consecutive time. The score was $ to 5 and it was as weird an affair as any crowd of 4500 fans has witnessed in many moons.

Portland made enough hits off Charley Chech to win almost any ball game, but the Angels weren't content with that. The entire team seemed to have a sunstroke. There are no more errors left in the world. Once there errors left in the world. Once there were quite a lot of them, but yesterday the Dillonites threw eight "bone-fides" overboard and a couple of "bones."

And so there are no more errors left in the world.

Even staunch old Roy Brashear tried his hand at booting them for the visitors. Who? Roy Brashear. Oh! We had forgotten to explain that Brash, released by Fortland on Friday, quite promptly was signed by the Angels and he was out there yesterday, stomach and ail, holding down the second sack for the enemy.

fence for a home run, scoring Derrick shead of him.

Chech added two walks and his teammates threw in four errors for seasoning in the one stanza, so no wonder Chech chucked his hands in the air and ducked for the shower baths.

Hiram West, he of the gracious airs and no bad habits, found the heat too terrific to bear after seven and one-third innings before the bake-oven, and Hiram yanked himself midway in the eighth when he felt himself slipping.

Angels had scored two runs on a couple of walks and three hits and Hiran was wise in quitting.

The huge crowd cheered him roundly as he left the field and Rieger ascended the mound, for, not only had the collegian toiled gamely under the burning sun, but he had contributed a hit, scoring two runs, in the second inning, when Chech had walked Fisher deliberately and filled the bases to get at him.

Rieger Gives Donntion

Risger pitched one and two-thirds innings and presented the Angels with a couple of runs. "Presented" is the word, for the game was turned into a farce in the ninth. Brenegan, substi-tute catcher, let Metzger steal second and third without so much as throwing to the bases.
It was no joke to Harry Meek, how ever. The big Angel backstop relieved Brooks in the eighth and, as his bat-ting record isn't any too plump to date, Harry proceeded to fatten up with two pinch singles, driving in as many Dillon tried some unique strategy in the eighth in the way of a dose of brotherly Love. That's his name, Love, the southpaw who relieved Chech-"Sitm" Love, nearly seven feet of him, second cousin to a six-ounce fishing-rod. Love furnished a heap of amuse-ment to the crowd, but no runs. He resembled nothing if not a motion pic-ture of a cubiet's model.

Rodgers led the Beaver swatsmiths with three hits and a sacrifice bunt, but Lober. Fisher and Derrick each contributed a duet of safe pokes. Ellis. Metager and Meek were the Angelic Cohe of the red hot milling. Cobbs of the red-hot milling.

Portland made hay while the sun was shining by scoring one run in the

Hi West drove two across in the second after hits by Kores and Lober and Pisher's walk. Gedeon's error and a swat by Fisher added another in the sixth, and four runs poured into the sixth, and four runs poured into the second which furzone in the seventh, which furnished the grandest exhibition of bush-lot baseball ever loosed onto the innocent public.

We'll illustrate by citing Dave Bancroft into court. Dave drove a grounder at Roy Brashear. Brash let it go through. Dave stole second, went on to third on Brooks' low throw and gummed up the play. A moment later Maggert muffed Derrick's fly and Rod-gers drove Fred ahead of him with a homer.
