

GRATAUQUA BRINGS ITS CURTAIN TODAY

3 Big Features Under Shady Firs Promise Giant Crowd at Gladstone Park.

"DIVINE TRAGEDY" IS END

Dr. Hinson and "Holy City" Are Daylight Attractions—Simpson College Glee Clubs Delight 4000 Saturday Throng.

TODAY'S PROGRAMME. Morning, 9:00—Devotional services in auditorium. 10:30—Sunday school. Afternoon, 1:00—Sacred concert, Parsons' Orchestra. 1:45—String quartet: (a) "Berceuse" (Hans Reber); (b) "Menuet" (Schubert). 2:00—Lecture sermon, Speaker, Dr. W. B. Hinson; soloist, Stuart McGuire. 4:00—Oratorio, "The Holy City" by Gail, Director Professor J. H. Cowen, 100 voices, Chautauqua chorus. 8:00—Recital, "The Divine Tragedy," Mattie Hardwick Jones, assisted by orchestra and chorus. Cars leave First and Alder every half hour Oregon City car.

GLADSTONE PARK, July 18.—(Special.)—Today was "rah-rah" day at Chautauqua. The chief feature was the concert given by the combined glee clubs of Simpson College, from Indianola, Ia. The collegians, 25 men and 20 women—count 'em 45—gave a typical glee club concert, brimful of the old-time college "pop," before more than 4000 delighted Chautauquans.

The Simpsonians made an instant hit with their audience. The ensemble numbers of each of the individual clubs were good, while the combination chorus work was splendidly executed. One of the delightful numbers of their programme was "The Divine Tragedy," given by the Misses Hunsacker and Finney and Messrs. Hoppert, Rhodes, Harris and Henry. The solo numbers of Ellis Marshall Rhodes, tenor, was far above the average of the usual college solo work. "Hoch der Simpson," the college song, took especially well with the crowd. The collegians have been enjoying a Western tour and have been consistently "making good" with Western audiences.

Cool Shade of Firs Invites. While the outside world sweltered today, the giant firs at Gladstone Park kept things cool and shady at Chautauqua. It was another "rah-rah" day on Sunday, probably the largest gathering in 21 years will seek entertainment and rest at Gladstone. Three big features stand out on Sunday's programme, the sermon-lecture by Dr. W. B. Hinson at 2 P. M., the rendition of "The Holy City" at 4 P. M. by the Chautauqua chorus of 100 voices, assisted by Stuart McGuire, Mrs. Hutchison and other noted Portland soloists, under the direction of Professor J. H. Cowen, of Portland, this beautiful sacred cantata promises to be one of the best things ever held at Gladstone Auditorium.

"Divine Tragedy" Concludes. At 8 P. M. Mattie Hardwick Jones will give the number of the big 13-day programme. It will be "The Divine Tragedy," and chorus and orchestra will assist in the recital. The conclusion of Mrs. Jones' reading will come the last of the 1914 season, one of the most successful in the long history of Chautauqua "ups and downs." Superintendent Fields has promised extra cars on the Portland Railway, Light & Power Co. line, an extra car run every half hour on the Oregon City branch from First and Alder. These cars will run directly into the park area. An extra large space has been reserved for Portland motorists, who will find an excellent oil road leading to the park, via Clackamas. Tonight's programme is an excellent one. Professor A. M. Grilley staged a big athletic carnival on the auditorium platform at 8 P. M., in which the athletic club, gymnasts of Portland took part. This was followed by the annual display of fireworks on the athletic field, by Professor Kelling, the Chautauqua "fireworks man."

AD CLUB SINGERS ARE HEARD

Children's Pageant Also Feature of Albany Chautauqua. ALBANY, Or., July 18.—(Special.)—A children's pageant in an entertainment by the Portland Ad Club Concert Company were features of the Albany Chautauqua today. The Chautauqua will close tomorrow night. All the summer schools completed their work today.
