WASHINGTON, July 25.—The first fruits of the investigation of the "navy plucking board" by the House naval committee appeared today in a favorable report on a bill to reinstate Commodore De Witt Veeder, retired by the board in 1910. The report scored the board in no uncertain terms; declared Commodore Veeder's retirement illegal, and asserted that the efficiency of the Navy suffered a distinct loss by his retirement. A bill passed to reinstate Commodore Veeder in 1911 was vetoed by President Taft.

"It was shown," said the report, "that Captains Fox, Moore and Mertz, who were eligible for retirement at the same time Commodore Veeder was retired, had records much inferior to him. The reports showed that one of them had lost a ship. Another had been addicted to drunkenness to such an extent that he was unfit for the service and was yet promoted to the rank of Rear-Admiral."
