Star Pitcher Points Out How Last Altered Standings and Says Athletics in American May Have Clear Field.

BY CHRISTY MATHEWSON,

The Glants' Star Pitcher. NEW YORK, Aug. 1 .- (Special.) -The last Western series of the clubs turned the race in the National League over The Pirates have fallen through the league, and from being one of the best clubs in the organizaone of the best clubs in the organiza-tion they are now battling with Brook-lyn and Philadelphia for last place. On the other hand, George Stallings shot his team up through the standing like a skyrocket utnil he got himself into the select class. Cincinnati dropped back

In the American League the White Sox, after a nimble spurt, fell back, with Detroit also wavering, following Cobb's absence. The Boston Red Sox have done the climbing and now, with their well-balanced team and good pitching, look like the real contenders with the Athletics, if any are to develop. The present invasion of the East by the Western teams of the National League and the traveling West tional League, and the traveling West of the Easterners in the American League, will about settle both the races, Stallings Predicts Rise.

Stallings Predicts Rise.

Before the season began Stallings predicted that he would finish higher than he did last year, when he had his team at the top of the second division. After Boston had struck a bad streak during the opening days of the season and had become seemingly firmly fitted into last place. Stallings retterated his prediction, and most of the wise fans laughed. It was on a recent trip to Boston that Stallings said to McGraw: "We're going to be in the first division yet. "I've got the ball team."

Before the Giants started West on the last trip I predicted that the Braves were due for a spurt, and that they

the last trip I predicted that the Braves were due for a spurt, and that they would help us more than the other two Eastern teams put together. They did. If it had not been for Boston we would not have come home in first place, for the going was tough about the time we got into St. Louis and Chicago, with our pitching staff in bad shape. Marquard being sick and Demaree out of condition. Boston held both the Cubs and the Cardinals, when they were threatening the Giants and the New York club was wabbling. It looks now as if Stallings were bound to finish in the first division. With the uncertainty of the staying strength of the clubs in of the staying strength of the clubs in the present race, he may even push his club up until it turns into a real

Giants to Stay Loyal.

The decisions in both the Chief Johnson and Hal Chase cases, which make it possible for a ball player to give his club 10 days notice and leave if the 10-day clause is in his contract, have caused a lot of discussion among big caused a lot of discussion among big might be worked out if Salem evilenguers, but these decisions have not even tempted any of the Giants to jump for many reasons. The principal one is that every man on the club is loyal to President Hempstead and McGraw, who have treated the players fairly. Another good reason is that of self-product of the good reason is that of self-product of the self-product of th

After the Hal Chase decision was announced the men on the team held an informal meeting and discussed the pos-sibilities that were opened up to the players by the decision. All agreed to stick together for this season, anyway, stick together for this season, anyway, because of the chances of getting into another world's series with the consequent profitable returns. If one or two men jumped and broke up a winning combination, it would be a throwdown to every one else on the team.

"I have no intention of leaving the Most Just Listen.

The attitude of everybody else that Stovall talked to was practically the same. Most of the men just listened to the manager of the Kansas City Feds to hear what he had to say. There was no inclination to heed ft.

Personally, I want to go on record as declaring that I do not believe that organized baseball will lose many men as a result of these two decisions. They have, however, put the ball players in a better position to gain what they want, and they are no longer left at the mercy of club owners. Most of the Giants are now signed up to three-year contracts with no 10 days' clause notice of release in them, so that they cannot be turned loose at the magnates' fancy. This is largely true on other teams. For example, "Eddie" Collins signed recently for three years after the Feds had given him a couple of earfuls.

M'CREDIES PLAN TO GIVE YOUTH ENCOURAGEMENT

Portland May Have Continuous Baseball, or Partly So, if Class D League Is Organized With Portland, Centralia-Chehalis, Aberdeen, Everett, Bellingham and Vancouver, B. C., or Salem Involved.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.

LTHOUGH Northwest League ball has been ousted from Portland, it begins to look as if this city will have some sort of continuous pastiming in 1915, notwithstanding.

Originally W. W. McCredie, local Coast League magnate, had planned on an expanded Western Tri-State circuit. The Store of 100 Per Cent Service

We believe our boys' clothing deserves just as good treatment as the men's. Consequently, we have just installed two large clothing cabinets, which, with those already in use, will give us room to keep our immense stock of boys' and youths' clothing on hangers, where they'll be free from all dust and wrinkles. This store and a few of the most progressive stores of the United States are using this modern way of showing boys' clothing.
