CHEERS GREET HUM OF BRAND-NEW MILL

Thousands at Springfield Celebrate Opening of Modern Booth-Kelly Plant.

GREAT PARADE IS HELD

First Turn of Wheels and Belts Impelled by Pressure of Button in Portland Is Signal for Outburst of Enthusiasm.

SPRINGFIELD, Or., Aug. 29 .- (Spe-SPRINGFIELD, Or., Aug. 29.—(Special.)—Several thousand persons from the surrounding towns gathered in Springfield today to celebrate the opening of the Booth-Kelly electric sawmill here. The principal event was the starting of an electric motor by the pressing of a button in Portland by Franklin T. Griffith, chairman of, the executive committee of the Portland Commercial Club.

Within the previously determined

Within the previously determined minute after the signal, "Ready!" had gone from here, the wheels and belts began to turn, and the assembled throng cheered lustily.

Mayor Scott, in behalf of the people of Springfield, expressed appreciation to the Booth-Kelly Company for construction of its mill here, saying:

"When the Booth-Kelly mill that stood on this site burned July 28, 1911, we dreamed of a bigger and better mill that should occupy its place and this, our wish, is fulfilled."

Mr. Booth Recalls Old Times.

R. A. Booth, vice-president of the company, responded, calling to mind how, years ago, he and John Kelly first planned construction of a mill at Springfield.

Springfield.

"The beginning was small, but it has grown," said Mr. Booth. "There are some people who have thought that we progressed from fools to thieves, but you people of Springfield have always had faith in the company. I want to thank you for the cheerful way in which you have co-operated with us.

"The problem in Oregon is not the making of a few tall buildings in one city, but to make conditions under which all workmen may be employed at fair prices. One-eighth of the people which all workmen may be employed at fair prices. One-eighth of the people of Oregon are directly dependent upon the lumber industry and when these people are busy the state will be pros-

Big Parade Is Held. Big Parade Is Held.

The first event of the day was an industrial parade. Every factory in Springfield was represented and a large number of the mercantile houses had floats. The Booth-Kelly mill was closed for the hour of the parade, and the hundred or more men employed in the mill all marched, following a float which consisted of one employed in the mill all marched, following a float which consisted of one of the huge 69-foot band saws and two loads of lumber with the electric tractor. The parade was one of the largest seën here in recent years.

The Marcola band and a large delegation from the Mohawk Valley arrived at 16 o'clock this morning and large crowd came from Eugene by the interurban cars. The bandsmen wore blue jumpers and overalls, as suitable uniforms for a Mill day celebration.

After official opening of the mill. the visiting throngs were taken through the plant. Nearly 200 persons attended the banquet given tonight by the Springfield Development League. M. M. Peery, toastmaster, called for toasts from R. A. Booth, vice-president of the Booth-Kelly Company; R. W. Raymond, manager of the Oregon Manufacturers, Association, Mark Manufacturers' Association; Mark Woodruff, publicity man for the Port-land, Eugene & Eastern; L. L. Lewis, vice-president of the Eugene mercial Club; Charles L. Scott, Mayor of Springfield; Dr. J. E. Richmond, president of the Springfield Development League, and others.
