Alternate-Date System Is Said to Be Safeguard Against Water Shortage.

RESERVOIRS ALWAYS FULL

Even in Prolonged Hot Spell Complaints About Low Pressure Have Been Few-Some Enlarged Mains Only Need.

That regulation of lawn-sprinkling hours and conditions has solved the water-shortage problem in Portland and has eliminated the need for the URL Commissioner Daly, has been dem-orstrated this Summer. By the system of alternate dates for sprinkling, the heavy Summer evening strain on water mains has been distributed to such an extent that, with the exception of a few small districts, there has been an am-ple water supply all Summer, even on the hottest days. Complaints about water shortage or low pressure have been few this Summer, declares Water Superintendent Kaiser. Superintendent Kaiser.

Meters Now Not Needed.

Meters Now Not Needed. By the experiment with the altornate dates it is believed it has been shown that the installation of meters on all services is not necessary. Because of this it is believed no further attempt will be made to push the universal meter plan, and the city will be $500, 000 ahead in consequence. The or-dinance providing for the purchase of 5000 meters, which was passed by the Council last Spring and held up by ref-erty-owners, is still pending, being one of the measures listed for the segular with election next June. If the voters uphold this ordinance the City Commis-sion will have authority to go shead with the general meter programme. If the store down the meter plan will be it is voted down the meter plan will be

At the outset Commissioner Daly said he doubted if the water shortage prob-lem could be solved by regulation. He agreed, however, in conference with Mayor Albee and Commissioner Dieck, who opposed the meter plan, to give regulation a trial. Alternate-date sprinkling was decided upon as the best plan and was enforced. Make their first visit to Portland. Department of the season in October is the Complaints of low pressure have come only from Irvington, Albina and Lents, These districts are at the end of long serv-ice mains and it is said that neither meters nor regulation could possibly straighten out all the trouble in these straighten out all the trouble in these districts and that enlarged trunk mains are the only solution. Believing this to be the case, Commissioner Daly is con-sidering trunk-main extensions, One to the Albina district has been definto the Albina district has been defin-itely decided upon. Water Superintendent Kaiser says this Summer has been ideal for testing the success of regulation, because of the extended dry spell, the most severe in the history of the city. In spite of this there were comparatively few com-plaints of water shortage, whereas in other years, with less severe weather, complaints were numerous. Alternate sprinkling dates have en-abled residents to keep their lawns in

Alternate sprinkling dates have en-abled residents to keep their lawns in excellent condition, whereas, it is said, the water-moter plan would encourage conservation of water and the conse-quent neglect of lawns because of the fact that sprinkling would be costly at meter rates. In spite of the extended hot spell this Summer an overflow of water at the reservoirs has been re-ported every day. This is taken to innot spell this summer an overlow of water at the reservoirs has been re-ported every day. This is taken to in-dicate that regulation of sprinkling has solved the problem of curbing water waste and has made unnecessary the expenditure of $500,000 for water

It may be added that the problem of the Roman Empire was in one respect radically different from that of the Germans, since the early empire was a group of provinces which had no great bond of union, and depended entirely on the capital, Constantinople. If that had fallen at any time the empire could hardly have survived; so that the risk run by Justinian, and more particularly by Heracilus, was a pe-culiarly desperate one.
