

BAND IS "HELD"

"Fatal Arrest" Follows Concerts by Coos Bay Party.

FETE ENDS PATROL RIDE

Elks and Press Club Hosts to Men of All Ranks Who, With Able Leader, Entertain Portland Before Departure to State Fair.

After a day replete with concerts, the Coos Bay band last night was arrested by Portland police on the charge of disturbing the peace and escorted in patrol wagons to the Elks Club, where they were guests of the local Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and the Press Club.

At noon yesterday the bandmen were guests at the Commercial "safety first" luncheon and played for their meal. Later in the afternoon the band serenaded the Oregonian and Telegram offices and proceeded to the Hotel Portland, where a concert was given.

The Hotel Portland dined the band in the evening, following which the members marched to the police headquarters and serenaded Portland's noted Police band. They were then shown through the offices and jail with a courtesy which ended when they were about to make their exit. At that time they were unceremoniously bundled into two police patrol wagons—those resisting being clubbed into insensibility and dragged along—and taken, with clanging bells, to the Elks Club, where they were turned over to the tender mercies of the lodgemen.

The band treated Portland to a delightful musical surprise yesterday. Yes, indeed.

Under P. E. Wilson, manager, it is making the first big out-of-town trip in the five years of its musical life. The band membership is about 32, and the personnel is a striking lesson in democracy and musical achievement. Within its ranks are day laborers, capitalists, professional men and retired musicians, and they are all good friends and gentlemen. Their behavior is irreproachable, and that is more than some musicians can say when they desert their native heathens over night.

Take the enjoyable concert, for instance, that the Coos Bay band gave yesterday afternoon in front of the Hotel Portland.

If ever musicians had a right to be nervous and "traded" as those Coos Bay boys had, in the audience were professional musicians from various bands in this city, men who play in organized orchestras, symphony bands, concert goers and music-lovers generally. It was noticed that all these people joined heartily in the applause. The band was told of a musical city in far-away Europe where, when a visiting band dares to visit that city, the wrathful natives express their appreciation of a musical feast and isn't afraid to let it be known.

The Coos Bay band is one of the best all-around musical organizations of its kind on the Pacific Coast today for fine ensemble effect, splendid tone, finish and sympathy. The discipline of the band is admirable, the men playing well together.

The overture from "William Tell" (Rossini) was played with fine swing and dramatic effect, as were the "Don Quixote." The soft, sentimental atmosphere of Victor Herbert's "Swan Song" was cleverly expressed, and made quite a hit with the crowd. "The Booster" was stirringly played, and so were a number of other pieces.

The conductor, R. M. Fenton, from Kansas, served three years in a United States Army band. As a leader he is quiet, admirable and capable, without being spectacular or sensational.

Two members of the band are Portland men, Frederick Starke, the oboe soloist of the Portland Symphony Orchestra, and Frank Hauser, clarinet player.

The band leaves for the Oregon State Fair at Salem this morning at 3:30 and is sure to be a big success.

PUPILS ARE HIT OF FAIR

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S PARADE AT FOREST GROVE IMPRESSES.

More Than 2000 Students in Pageant.

Hillsboro Wins Prize—Best Babes Are Announced.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—While much interest was shown in the general display of the Washington County fair here, what proved to be the big event was the parade of school children, in which more than 2000 students from various parts of the county participated. The half-mile race track could not hold all the children.

Forest Grove schools, which won first prize, depicted Oregon from the time of the Indians to the present.

In the display of fruits, vegetables, manure, trained animals and science work of the various schools Hillsboro won first prize for schools having four rooms and over; Forest Grove was second, Oregon, third, and Dillwyn fourth. For schools having less than four rooms Kansas City captured first prize; Verbort was second and Aloha-Huber third.

More than 160 babies were registered for prizes. The prize babies are: Le Vana Ruth Blackburn, Hillsboro, score 98; May Edith Fenton, Gaston, score 98; Susan Christine White, Forest Grove.

TWO PAIRS OF TWIN BOYS IN RELATIONSHIP TANGLE.

ALBANY, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Two pairs of twin boys were born here last week. Each one is cousin to all four, including himself. Further than that, each cousin can figure each of his four cousins in at least two ways. Each mother is the other mother's sister-in-law in addition to being her own sister-in-law. The fathers' relationships are no less involved.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Peck and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck are the proud parents. Not only are the heads of the two families brothers, but the wife and mother in each case is a sister of the other, as they are both daughters of Frank Seltz, Sr. The father of the two fathers is Henry Peck.

Both the Seltz and Peck families are among the early settlers of this district. The grandparents came to Alsea at an early date, and the fathers and mothers comprising the second generation were born here, as, of course, were the brothers and cousins and double cousins comprising the third generation.

score 97.5; Norman Lethin, Hillsboro, score 97; Dorothy Bryant, Forest Grove, score 96; Owen Knox, Forest Grove, score 95; Charles Burke, Forest Grove, score 95; B. Taylor, Cornelius, score 94; Margaret Lucile Porter, Route 2, score 93; May Place, Gales Creek, score 92; Dorothy Bryant, Forest Grove, score 92; Bruce Brookbank, Forest Grove, score 91.5; James Walter Baldwin, Forest Grove, score 91.5; John Olson and James Mumford, of Banks, tied; Elsie Bateman, Thatcher, score 86.5; Selma Peabody, Cornelius, score 87; Malra Harris, Hillsboro, Margaret Galsyer and Margaret Hines, both of Forest Grove, all 86.

YAMHILL FAIR PRIZES GIVEN

School Exposition Success Despite Depleted Exhibits.

MINNIEVILLE, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—The ninth annual County and School Fair for Yamhill County is a matter of history, and, although a suc-

MANY FRIENDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO SCOTTS MILLS WOMAN.

Mrs. Mary Moser Hartman, who died on the old Hartman homestead, near Scotts Mills, September 18 at the age of 85, was buried September 24. Relatives and friends from all districts of Oregon came for the service in Miller's Cemetery, near Silverton.

Mrs. Hartman was the widow of John Hartman and was born in Indiana July 19, 1829. The family crossed the plains in 1847 and settled on a claim near Scotts Mills, which became the Hartman homestead. Mr. and Mrs. Hartman were married in 1848. Of 11 children, six survive—Emanuel Hartman, of Wapinitia; Mrs. Barbara E. Moore, of Salem; Charles D. Hartman, of Silverton, and Mrs. Isabella C. V. Scott, Miss Jennie Hartman and Harvey C. Hartman, of Scotts Mills.

Some exhibits, however, made up in qualification. The prizes were awarded to school districts as follows: For one-room schools—First prize, Fairview No. 24; second, Pleasantdale No. 64, and third, Island School No. 94. For two-room schools—First, White Cloud No. 2, west of Carlton; second, McMinnville No. 40, and third, Union Vale.

Individual collective exhibit prizes were awarded as follows: First, Henry Moore, of Newberg, second, Emmett Booth, No. 18, Dayton Francis, and third, Gilbert Jones, of White Cloud School No. 2.

The exhibit of mechanical toys were exhibited. One of these, made by Harry Kelly, 13 years old, of the McMinnville School, was a miniature electric trolley car, patterned after the Popo, and Eugene & Eastern cars used between McMinnville and Portland. This car was all made of wood.

The rain today materially lessened the crowd. A large number of the most attractive and best products will be taken to the State Fair.

The exhibit of oil paintings by students of Mrs. Thompson was excellent. Addresses were made today by ex-Governor Gear in behalf of the Republicans and Milton A. Miller for the Democrats, while Mr. U'ren sent Mr. Criddle to espouse his side of the political issue.

The Fair Commission—Colonel J. C. Cooper, president; Ira B. Shirley, vice-president; Ralph Wortman, secretary, and J. E. Dodson, assistant secretary—has won praise for its efforts.

The flights by Aviator Crawford were an innovation here.

Grand Mound Home Burned. CENTRALIA, Wash., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—The residence of C. J. Erickson, two miles north of the Grand Mound postoffice, was totally destroyed at midnight Thursday by a fire that is supposed to have originated from an exploded lamp. A small part of the loss is covered by insurance.

Senator Brady Leaves for Home. OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 26.—Senator Brady, of Idaho, left for home today. He intends to make a campaign tour covering all parts of his state during October.

EUGENE COUPLE ENJOY FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY WITH CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN PRESENT.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hyland

EUGENE, Or., Sept. 26.—(Special.)—Twenty-six children and grandchildren from several portions of the state sprang a surprise recently on Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Hyland at 1260 Oak street to mark their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The couple have lived in Lane County for half a century, having been married at the home of the bride's parents, 2 1/2 miles southeast of Junction City, on September 1, 1864. The six living children of the family of nine were present at the family reunion. These were: Frank E. Hyland, of Eugene; Mrs. J. T. Clow, of Roseburg; Mrs. H. A. Kompp, of Eugene; Mrs. E. F. Weed, of Eugene; Mrs. A. C. Yates, of Eugene, and Mrs. C. T. Hyland, of Eugene, and their respective families. Four generations were present, including eight grandchildren.
