

PRIMARY FAILS TO KEEP BOSSES OUT

Sullivan and Penrose, Long Called Dictators of Old School, Win Places.

CONSERVATIVES IN LEAD

Bull Moose Accused of Deals With Democrats to Weaken Republican Strength, Even if Fight Is Lost.

BY CARL SMITH. Candidates for United States Senator, to be voted for in November in 22 states in the first general election since the adoption of the direct vote amendment, have named in nearly all the states, and a review of political tendencies becomes possible. Apparently the fact that Senate-seekers must this year in every state pass under the test of popular vote, instead of dealing merely with Legislatures, has made no marked change in the personnel of the prospective Senators. All the present Democratic Senators who have sought renomination have secured it, and Republican members have fared almost as well. Bristow, of Kansas, and Crawford, of South Dakota, being the exceptions.

Conservatives Are Returned

In the nominations made in the various states will also be found in either party an assortment of progressives and conservatives. In one state the scale has turned one way, in an adjoining state the other way. On the whole the conservatives seem to have secured some advantage at the primaries. This is evidenced, on the Republican side, in the nomination of Senator Bristow by ex-Senator Curtis, in Kansas, and the defeat of Senator Crawford by Representative Burke in South Dakota. It is emphasized again on the Democratic side by the success of Representative Underwood, who overthrew Hobson in Alabama, and the victory of Senator Smith, renominated in South Carolina over Blease.

One notable accession will be made to the ultra-progressive forces in the Senate after next March if Governor McGovern, the Republican nominee in Wisconsin, is elected in November. McGovern, if it will be remembered, was the Roosevelt choice for chairman of the historic National convention at Chicago in 1912. He is practically the only strongly progressive survivor of the recent Wisconsin primaries, in either party. La Follette Republicans and Wilson Democrats having equal cause to mourn. As McGovern stood for Roosevelt, and not La Follette, he is not a particular favorite with the Wisconsin Senator, but as McGovern has preserved his regularity, he will no doubt draw the La Follette support.

Sullivan Losens Hornets.

Illinois presents one of the most spectacular contests. Here it was that Roger C. Sullivan, biscuit-maker, public service manipulator and boss, denounced by Bryan and opposed by a Federal office holder's alliance, swept the field at the primaries and became the Democratic choice. Since then a great noise has been set up in the Republican and Progressive party camps, each claiming that it is the only one to defeat Sullivan. Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, leading the Republicans, is recognized as having equal ability and talent. So is Raymond Robins, the third party candidate, an ex-Democrat, who has undertaken the job of persuading Illinois to elect a Democrat, van all that Bryan has called him, but that Sherman is reactionary and archaic. Senator Cummins, of Iowa, easily a winner at the primaries over a banker conservative, has a more difficult task ahead of him in the contest of Congressman Maurice Connolly, the Democratic nominee. Cummins has had one eye on the Presidency for many years and to lose his seat at this time would cause him a cataclysm. The Progressive party has named a candidate, which will assist Connolly by drawing away votes that Cummins otherwise would gather in.

Bull Moose Aid Democrats.

It may be said, generally, that the Bull Moose party remnant is performing the same office in numerous other states. By diverting an important Republican strength, it will no doubt assist the Democrats to hold, or to win, several seats in the Senate, or otherwise surely would lose. Whether or not, in spite of this assistant Democracy, the Republican wave will be sufficient to hold up its strength in the Senate, remains to be seen.

It may be that the Bull Moosers have hope of electing a Senator in two of three states, but this must be the sum of any reasonable resume of the situation and the most likely prospect is that they will not elect any. Their most conspicuous candidates are Francis J. Heney in California, Herbert Knox Smith in Connecticut, Raymond Robins in Illinois, Albert J. Beveridge in Indiana, Victor Murdock in Kansas, Gifford Pinchot in Pennsylvania and Charles A. Prentiss in Vermont. Robins, Murdock and Pinchot are the ones picked as likely to come nearest to victory at the finish stake. In one state the Bull Moosers have made a straight-on contest with the Democrats and the latter naturally exacted the United States Senatorship on their side of the deal. This is in Utah, where Reed Smoot has gone on his standpat way so long that to stop him, and the Mormon support behind him, seems the forlornest of forlorn hopes. The Demo-Moose fusionists have James H. Moyle as their candidate, a lawyer and a Democratic wheelhorse of Utah.

Reformers Suffer Shock.

Certain reformers who have cherished the belief that direct primary nomination and direct election of Senators would drive the Sullivans and the Penroses out of public life have suffered a shock. At least, the Penrose, who have been held up to the public gaze as twin political iniquities, have won the first round. Sullivan came first in Illinois and it was even easier for Penrose, who achieved his renomination for the Senate at the Republican primaries in Pennsylvania. To defeat Penrose now appears almost impossible, though an effort has been made to unite the independent elements on Pinchot by withdrawing the Moose candidate for Governor and throwing whatever strength he possessed to the Democrats. Votes for Pinchot in return is the manifest invitation conveyed by this move.

Ohio's fight was primarily interesting, outside of Ohio, in the fact that ex-Senator Joseph B. Foraker, who became odious to the progressive element in his later years, failed to "come back." Warren G. Harding, who was once defeated for Governor, is the Republican leader there, opposed by Timothy S. Hogan, Democrat, now Attorney-General of the state, and by Arthur L. Garford, Progressive, a manufacturer, who was the first Moose candidate for Governor two years ago. Ohio will suffer loss whoever wins for its present Senator, Theodore E. Burton, is one of the brainy men of Washington. Burton declined to make a fight to return. In Connecticut, where nominations were made by convention, the conservative elements triumphed distinctly in both parties. Senator Frank B. Brandegee carries the Republican banner and Governor Simeon E. Baldwin is the Democratic choice. Baldwin was a candidate for the nomination for President when Wilson won, and he also possesses the distinction of having been savagely attacked by Roosevelt for one of his decisions when on the bench. Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations when Roosevelt was President, is the Moose nominee. There is a doubtful fight in California, made more complicated by Governor Johnson's campaign for another term. Congressman Joseph R. Knowland won the Republican nomination for Senator, and has a worthy foe in James B. Phelan, Democrat, millionaire and a business man of character. Francis J. Heney is the Progressive nominee, and the part he will play is problematical. Following is a list by states of Senate nominations of various parties: Alabama—Oscar W. Underwood, Dem., incumbent. Arizona—Marcus A. Smith, Dem., incumbent. Arkansas—James F. Clarke, Dem., incumbent. California—Joseph E. Knowland, Rep.; James B. Phelan, Dem.; Francis J. Heney, Prog. J. O. SOLUM PASSES AWAY

Well-Known Farm Implement Salesman Dies From Old Injury.

J. O. Solum, a traveling salesman of Portland, well known in Oregon, Washington and Idaho, died Friday night at his residence at 448 East Eighth street. Death was indirectly due to injuries received 18 months ago when the horse he was driving dashed into a train passing at Eighth and Division streets. The funeral will be held today at 2 P. M. from Robinson's undertaking establishment and burial will be at River-view Cemetery. Mr. Solum was representative of various threshing machine and farm implement firms in the Northwest for 20 years, and for a number of years was identified with the Avertill Machinery Company. He was known to many farmers on whose farms he had supervised the setting up of machinery, and among the merchants of almost every town in the three Northwest states. Mr. Solum is survived by his widow and a son, C. R. Solum.

Bogus Pension Solicitors Sought.

Police detectives have been ordered to watch for two well-dressed men who are reported to be canvassing the business houses and saloons of the city in the pretense that they are soliciting money for the police pension fund. They secured $10 in two Front-street saloons, it was reported.

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring, use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single speck and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it it straggly, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.—Adv.

For A Few Days Only. $250 Ludwig. What will you give for it? Read page 14, section 1.

Do you know that nearly $300,000 worth of Westover Terrace property has been sold?

It has been bought by well-known business men--bankers, capitalists, lawyers, physicians. The list of those men, given below, constitutes an endorsement of the most practical and substantial kind.

The last section of Westover, just placed on sale, contains over 200 magnificent view sites. Each is a little different--each has its own particular view, its charm of contour, its building possibilities.

Right now the owners of Westover have authorized a wonderful proposition. You will probably never again have such an opportunity. It has caused shrewd, far-sighted men to buy and build now, who have long cherished the ambition to live on the high places, where those of high minds and high ideals will reside.
