

BY GERTRUDE CORBETT

"To be grave or gay?" Society has been considering giving up all play and taking on its most serious aspect in accordance with the mood of the times. The smart set suddenly decided that they could still be gay and festive while working for charity. There have been dances, teas, luncheons and all manner of festivities planned for charity's sake and although the affairs are along a less elaborate scale than usually planned, society will be happy and gay all the while they are doing noble deeds in helping suffering mankind.

Society women are not all frivolous, they are among the first to respond to a call for any worthy cause and help those upon whom Fortune has not smiled. So the season will run along merrily, debutantes will have their long-anticipated coming-out parties, the visitors will be entertained and brides-to-be will be favored with just as many pre-nuptial functions, engagements will grow apace and young people will dance, whether for charity or just for the love of the art.

The week was auspiciously opened by the wedding of Miss Marie Barron and Thomas Martin Fitzpatrick on Monday morning. The initial dance of the Friday Night Dancing Club was an event of the latter part of the week and in between there were many small dinners, luncheons, theater parties and dinner-dances. A charming affair of Thursday evening was the dinner and dance given by Mr. and Mrs. MacMaster in honor of their daughter, Miss Alisa. Another charming bud will be added to the attractive list of debutantes in the smart set when Miss Ruth Teal will make her formal debut to society on Wednesday at a large reception for which Mrs. Teal has issued invitations.

The opening of the much-loved Gilbert & Sullivan operas Sunday evening will call forth a large assemblage of society folk who will entertain with box parties, followed by merry little suppers at the local grills. The old favorite operas will overshadow all other social diversions during the week.

A charming affair of the mid-week was the luncheon presided over by Miss Cornelia Cook, comprising Mrs. Eugene Rockey (Alice Carey). Covers were laid at a prettily decorated table for the honor guest, Mrs. Carl Wernicke, Mrs. Henry Wessinger, Mrs. Chester G. Murphy, Mrs. Maurice E. Crumpacker, Miss Katherine Hart, Miss Isabelle Gault, Miss Margaret Hoffman, Mrs. Erskine Wood, Mrs. Gilbert Durham, Miss Ello Mills and the hostess.

Miss Florence Wolfe entertained about 40 of the younger set at a delightful informal dance Thursday evening at her attractive residence in King street. The affair was to honor Miss Anna Liebenthal, a popular San Francisco belle, who is the house guest of the Sanford Lowenzarts. The ballroom of the Wolfe residence was converted into a woodland scene, with quantities of brilliant-hued autumn leaves from which tiny lights peeped, and the guests enjoyed a delicious supper served picnic style in baskets. It was one of the jolliest and most artistic affairs of the week. Miss Liebenthal is a charming and interesting girl, and is equally popular with local society and the smart set in the Southern city.

Miss Anna Munly, who was Maid of Honor at the Fitzpatrick-Barron wedding on Monday. Grove-Photo

Mrs. Eliot Holcomb, a recent bride. Grove-Photo

Miss Hilda Smith—Pastel yellow frock of white tulle over satin, embellished with silver sequins and pink rosebuds.
Miss Isabelle Gault—Pastel pink taffeta, with tulle and lace bodice.
Mrs. Landon H. Mason—Creation of white chiffon and taffeta, with deep silver and rainbow tinted girde.
Miss Ello Mills—Pretty gown of pink chiffon made bouffant style over satin.
Miss Margery Hoffman—Black and gold brocaded chiffon, built on straight lines.
Miss Cornelia Cook—Frenchy gown of figured chifon, with deep gold beaue.
Miss Louise Burns—Rose colored satin and chiffon, with pink shaded bead trimming.
Miss Shirley Eastham—Handsome

announcement of the engagement of Miss Mildred Nichols to H. Bailey McAfee, a former Berkeley, Cal., man. The bride-elect is the daughter of Dr. A. S. Nichols, and a great favorite in the smart set. She is a sister of Miss Vida Nichols, who shares her popularity. There are no definite plans announced as yet for the wedding, but it will probably take place this Fall. Mr. McAfee is practically a newcomer to Portland, reaching here about a year ago.

Mrs. Frank Kerr was hostess Friday afternoon for a pretty tea in honor of Mrs. Amanda Kerr, who left last night for Chicago to pass the Winter. Mrs. Kerr has a host of friends in local society who regret that she will not share their pleasures this season. The Kerr residence was decked with a quantity of seasonable blossoms and foliage in bright tints, and the guests included old-time friends of Mrs. Amanda Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Nichols, who have been living in California for two years, have returned to Portland and are domiciled in an attractive house in Laurelhurst.

One of the most delightful informal affairs of the week was the dinner party for which Mr. and Mrs. William D. Wheelwright were hosts Monday evening. Seated around the table were Mr. and Mrs. John G. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Almsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kerr and the hosts. The latter part of the evening was devoted to bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson Lewis, who are at present en route to the Philippines, will not return home until early in November. They left last month for a trip to Honolulu and the Hawaiian Islands, but decided to go farther east.

Mrs. James A. Cranston, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Davy, in Vancouver, B. C., for several days, returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster presided at a charming dinner and dance Thursday evening in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Alisa MacMaster. The MacMaster residence was artistically decked for the occasion with gaily colored blossoms, a charming decorative scheme of pink being developed in the dining-room with roses. The guests were seated at seven tables, each adorned with a French basket filled with pink rosebuds. Dahlias in brilliant tones of reds and pale lemon color adorned the drawing-room and library. The guests were the most intimate friends of the youthful guest and included Mr. and Mrs. Landon H. Mason, Misses Isabelle Gault, Isabelle Macleay, Ruth Louise Burns, Evelyn Carey, Rhoda Rumell, Margaret Mears, Charlotte and Katherine Laidlaw, Barbara McKenzie, Margaret Voorhies, Ello Mills and Roderick Macleay, Frederick Forster, Jordan Zan, Leland Smith, James Colburn, Hamilton Corbett, Kay Small, Aubrey Watzek, Richard Jones, Ellis Bragg, Ferdinand Smith, MacCormac Snow, Donald Stirling, Charles Holbrook and Maurice Dooly. Miss MacMaster will be presented formally to local society early this Winter. She returned recently from years of study in a school in Paris and is a charming and popular belle.

A simple, dignified and artistic wedding was that of Miss Anna Marie Barron and Thomas Martin Fitzpatrick, solemnized Monday morning at 11 o'clock in St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral. Right Rev. Archbishop Christie officiated, and the celebrant of the nuptial mass was Father George Thompson, assisted by Fathers O'Hara and George J. Campbell. The entire choir sang the mass, Frederick W. Goodrich presiding at the organ. A number of solos were sung by prominent artists, and the chancel was artistically decorated with a profusion of white chrysanthemums, palms and Pasadena ferns. The bride, who is a charming girl, was attractive in her wedding robe of ivory-toned charmeuse, made with full court train. Tiny buds of orange blossoms outlined the bodice, and the train was edged with exquisite ruffles. The bride's veil was arranged in a coronet effect, wreathed with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was an exquisite shower of white carnations and spray orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride also wore a magnificent diamond and platinum necklace and lavalliere, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Anna Munly, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She was prettily gowned in white satin, with a shirred white tulle hat. Her bouquet was a Colonial bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses and white blossoms.

Misses Margaret Mears and Charlotte Laidlaw, bridesmaids, wore gowns of pink satin, veiled with white tulle, worn with pink tulle hats trimmed with rosebuds. They carried arm bouquets of bridegroom's roses. William Fitzpatrick, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and the guests were ushered by Maurice Dooly, Robert Barron, brother of the bride, and her cousins, Robert and Raymond Munly.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Barron residence and a wedding breakfast was served to the relatives and a few intimate friends. The Barron residence was a bower of beautiful blossoms. Receiving with the bridal party were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, parents of the bridegroom, who came from Boston to attend the wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. James T. Barron, parents of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzpatrick left for an extended wedding trip to Del Monte, Yosemite Valley and the Grand Canyon, and will then make their home in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick is a popular and charming girl of the younger set, and is a debutante of last June. She finished school at the Convent of the Madames of the Sacred Heart last Spring, and passed the Summer in Alaska with her parents, who have large summer interests there. The family is an old one and well known both in the East and in the Northwest.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick's wedding day was also her birthday, the bridegroom agreeing some time ago to wait until his bride's 21st birthday. They have known each other for many years, the familial being old, old friends. The Fitzpatrick family is one of the oldest and wealthiest in Boston. Mr. Fitzpatrick being a well-known philanthropist and financier of the Hub City. The bridegroom is a Harvard man, class of 1904, and for two years was captain of the varsity rowing team. His brother, Frank Fitzpatrick, occupies the chair of fine arts at Harvard.

New Vogue Hats

—the styles that have come to stay.

Visit our millinery department tomorrow and become acquainted with the most fashionable millinery for this Winter's wear. Uncertainty as to the most popular shapes has prevented many women from purchasing dress hats; but now we are prepared to show the settled styles—just received in a large shipment from New York.

While at first high turbans were shown, now decided preference is given to the Canotier, or flat shape, with a straight brim. Some old-fashioned picture hats of black velvet are revived. Everything rests well up on the head. The display will be especially interesting to those seeking styles entirely removed from the commonplace, and a pleasing surprise awaits you in the very moderate prices.

We Will Gladly Give You the Privilege of Credit

405 Washington Street.

Corner of Tenth.

Jacob T. Kamm, and are of an old and prominent family of Oregon. The Misses Roberts visited Mrs. Kamm here last Summer, and gained much popularity during their brief stay. The double wedding will also be the anniversary of the wedding of the parents of the bride-to-be.

Miss Ruth Teal, the attractive and charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nathan Teal, will be formally presented to society by her mother at a smart reception Wednesday afternoon. Although Miss Teal has attended a number of social affairs since her return from Spence's School, in New York, she has never made her formal debut. She is one of the most popular younger belles and will be in demand at all social functions of the season.

CHARMING BRIDE-ELECT IN-SPARATION OF MANY HAPPY GATHERINGS.

Miss Vera Hall, has been the inspiration of many happy little gatherings since the announcement of her engagement to Frank Dutcher, a promising young jeweler of this city. Miss Hall is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Hall, of 203 East Thirty-fourth street. Her marriage will take place October 16, after which they will reside in the Julian Apartments.

Mrs. S. D. Smith and daughter, Miss Laura Smith, have taken up their residence in the Hotel Mallory for the Winter. Mrs. Smith and daughter returned last week from a trip to Vancouver, B. C.

A charming and simple ceremony of Sunday was the wedding of Miss Edith Prater and Eliot Holcomb, at Westminster Presbyterian Church at 1 o'clock, Rev. Henry Marcotte officiating.

W. G. SMITH & CO.

WEDDING AND VISITING CARD ENGRAVERS
Third Floor Morgan Building, Broadway and Washington.

M. S. Settle

The New Shop of Exclusive Apparel For Women

Pittock Block 383 Washington

The show windows and interior furnishings are now rapidly reaching completion and we shall very soon announce the opening dates, when this shop will display for your inspection its collection of wearing apparel, millinery, corsets and novelties.

The Policy
The policy of this shop will be to offer at all times only such wearing apparel as may be relied upon for its distinction, character and perfect quality and at prices which will meet the approval of the most careful buyers, while courtesy and efficiency shall strive unremittingly to create for this establishment an atmosphere wholly satisfying.

Not Only a "New Shop"
but one with a new order of merchandise, each and every piece carefully selected for its particular individuality, produced especially for us by Modistes and Tailors who cater to New York's most exclusive Fifth-avenue dealers. A shop with a fixed purpose and that to establish a reputation for the highest mercantile ideals.

LADIES, For your tailor-made Suit go to

B. FINK

LADIES' TAILOR, 407 EILERS BLD

Mme. Herbert

LADIES' AND MISSES' HATTER
428 Alder St., 2 blocks west Woodard-Clarke's. You are cordially invited.

Miss Edith Gregory

Portrait Painter and Teacher of Art.
Five years under noted Berlin and Paris masters.
Studio, 818 Hancock St. East 6510.