Iy and Hints at Bad Motive.

One of Governor West's most ardent supporters in his vice crusades of the past—Rev. Delmer H. Trimble, until recently pastor of the Centenary Methodist Church in Portland and now pastor of the First Methodist Church in Tacoma—in an open letter to the Governor publicly resents the recent unwarranted attacks against the characture.

To His Excellency Oswald West, Governor of Oregon:
"Dear Sir—It has come to my knowledge that in the present campaign you have been attacking the personal character of R. A. Booth, the Republican nominee for United States Senator for Oregon.

"I am not a partisan politician. It has been my practice for years to exercise my suffrage for men and principles rather than party. For this reason, I have been your supporter while in Oregon and urged you, as you know, to stand for re-election to your present office. I am loathe to believe that I could have been mistaken in your man-hood or motives. The charges of demagogism and insincerity so gener-ally hurled against you have received no credence from me. I prefer to be-lieve that in the past you have been walking the way of rectitude and have not departed therefrom.

"Now, however, I think I am in a po-sition to know that you have made an unjust and unwarranted attack upon a man's character who is, to say the least, as much entitled to good character as Than this no one can commit a greater crime.

"For four years I was the pastor of R. A. Booth. It was my lot to learn to know him most intimately as a man, and I flatter myself that I know something about men. During that time the indictment which had been hung over him for years was brought to trial. I investigated closely the evidence for and sgainst, and I know as everyone else can know who goes into the facts of the case, that Mr. Booth never should have been indicted and that he was ab-solutely innocent of the charges preferred.

"My relations to Mr. Booth have been such that I judge no other man on this planet knows his real character better, and perhaps only one as well, and I assert to you as my profound conviction, and to the electorate of Oregon but had be a clean pure straight.

Better Support for Normal at Monmouth Is Urged.

Others Might Be Used by Persons Residing Near Merely to Obtain Free Education, Thinks C. W. Hod-

DORTLAND, Oct. 30 .- (To the Editor.)-The time is growing very short in which the voters of the state short in which the voters of the state can be informed as to the true inwardness of the normal school question, and much that is urged for them consists largely of expressions of personal interest, conjectures and opinions.

I regret exceedingly that I failed to keep the statistics I gathered in 1965 (Great Northern, saw Maurer and, beside of the train, aboard the train, and more in the several state normals when they were in the heydey of their power, as were in the heydey of their power, as were in the heydey of their power, as the continuent Maurer lay down to sleep banking firm which did not disclose the banking firm which did not disclose the lidentity of its client. However, I may say that the reply of B. F. Mulkey does not by any manner of means coincide with the real facts, as he will learn when full reports are made from official sources. I know to a certainty that Drain and Weston did not present any such percentages as not present any such percentages as reported by him, and that the combined statistics show a far different condi-tion from that presented. "Our Government," said the man of intense idealism, "must keep faith, it must fulfill every promise to the letter."

"Oh, come now!" protested the patient person, "You can't expect the Weather Bureau to make good on avery prediction."

PLAYGROUND FENCED OFF

Ing the last year of the Ashland school there was a registration of 275 students. Using the report from the present Monmouth school as a basis (and it is fair to assume the figures would be about the same as to make-up), we find that of the registration for the present year, as shown by the catalogue number of the school bulletin for June, 1914, there are 236 women and 24 men; or about 2% per cent of the registration is made up of men. As Mr. Mulkey was particular to answer question 7 by saying that "50 per cent of the men graduating followed teaching permanently," he shows conclusively that the women do not (and apparently never intended to) follow teaching as a life work. Assume, then, that these men all finish the course to graduation, and that they secure licenses, and that the proportion he mentions follow teaching permanently instead of becoming lawyers, doctors, etc. Should the same percentage obtain as claimed by Mr. Mulkey for Ashland, the efforts of the school would produce 12 real teachers, or about 4% per cent of the whole membership. The appropriation for the Monmouth school for the present year is $37,171.30. If the only permanent teachers are recruited from the men, and only 50 per cent of those attending follow teaching permanently as a profession, it is plainly seen that the expense to the Halloween Chosen as Time to Resent Railing Off Park and Cartoons Graphically Tell Views of Youngsters on Subject,

Did you ever hear of a Halloween prank backed by a meritorious purpose

If the last year of the Ashland school produced no more men graduates than are shown in the Monmouth list of bavenpert made his start on his fathstudents this year, the percentage of permanent teachers turned out would be less than 4 per cent of the entire than the state of the prohibition of the state of the prohibition of the state of the state of the state of the prohibition of the state of t be less than 4 per cent of the entire attendance.

Now, take the amount of the appropriation used in the conduct of the school, and put it alongside Mulkey's showing of 56 per cent of the men (who he says followed teaching permanently as a profession) and we see what price we pay for the manufacture of teachers. Bear in mind that the purpose of these proposed normal schools is to provide trained teachers for the schools of the state. That being true, the only real measure of the success of the enterprise is its product such a way as to checkmate all possi-bility of play there by the youngsters. Several members of the School Board success of the enterprise is its product of "teachers who teach," not those who get their special education at the expense of the state, only to follow teaching temporarily, or until they can fit themselves to become lawyers, doctors dentists attentions of the case of Several members of the School Board commented upon this action at a recent meeting and it was piain that they were not pleased.

As the Laad School children understand the proposition, the action was taken by the city because the owners and tenants of nearby apartment-houses complained of the noise that they stirred up in the moviness while tors, dentists, etc., or, in the case of the women, supply pin money until the time arrives for them to be married. they stirred up in the mornings while sleep was still a thing to be desired.

By way of rebuttal the children point out that they were never allowed to use the playground until 10:15 o'clock, time arrives for them to be married.

If my memory does not play me false, I think the record will show the local attendance in each community where normal schools formerly existed to be from one-half to two-thirds of the whole. In the case of Drain, it was considerably more.

I remember visiting the normals at both Ashland and Weston, and on each occasion there were "exercises," in which the students participated. In each instance the display of pupils embraced ages ranging from 6 years to over 20. Keeping in mind the purpose of the schools to be the preparation of teachers, the query pertinently arises, why the children? morning recess, by which time any ordinary citizen who behaves himself should be up and about.

As a matter of record, 935 children attend the Ladd School, or more than attend the Lada School, or more than attend any other grammar school in Portland. These children for the most part come from a congested spartment-house district and include many who have no facilities for play at home. A playground means more to them than to the ordinary youngsters of Portland.

True, the old days have gone, and the votes of legislative representatives from school towns are no longer needed to elect United States Senators; but officers of the two houses of the Legislature and committee chairmen are still to be selected. to the old days have gone, and the votes of legislative representatives from school towns are no longer needed to elect United States Senators; but officers of the two houses of the Legislature and committee chairmen are still to be selected.

While a miliage tax is sought by the present bill, past history shows it will be but a short time until there will be pressing need for "more and better accommodations for classes, dormitories, playgrounds, gymnasiums, repairs, expendence of the property of the cartoons that were tacked upon the trees and along the fences of the playgrounds. The cartoons that were tacked upon the trees and along the fences of the playgrounds, gymnasiums, repairs, expendence of the privileges of play on some particular block the only place left is the street and the only place left is the only place left playgrounds, gymnasiums, repairs, extension of work," etc., and then the Legislature will again be the storm center. While one-fortieth of a mill is all that is asked at present, the measure is silent as to limitation, so there is no telling what the future demands will or may be. In the light of past experience, the policy for the future can be plainly foretold.

This move should be avoided.

We now have a normal school estab-

"Politicians themselves," Mrs. Goodwin said, "are ashamed to see these pretty and inexperienced girls exposed to the ridicule of mobs and the association of bad characters at fairs, race-tracks and street corners, and many have expressed hopes that public opinion would soon compel suffragists to stop such senseless exposure of charming young womanhood to the great dangers of designing men for the sole purpose of advancing the 'cause,'"

Mrs. Goodwin intimated that this method of employing pretty girls was planned by the suffragists and that "training schools" are operated for such workers, wherein youth and beauty are considered prime assets.

Discussing other methods by which she declared the suffragists hope to advance their cause, Mrs. Goodwin alleged that at the recent convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women in Pittsburg, at which she dehated with Mrs. Beatrice Forbes Robinson Hale, the suffragists were able to slide through an individual inforse-
