

Society

BY GERTRUDE R. CORBETT

Mrs. William Thrift Rangle and Daughter Florence who left the first of the week for an extended Eastern visit.

SOCIETY has been so filled with the spirit of charity and a keen sympathy for the war sufferers that they have had absolutely no time for other social diversions. Practically all of every afternoon has been devoted to attending several of the chain of teas for the British Red Cross Society, and the great desire to help alleviate the sufferings of those left destitute in defense of their country has plunged Portland society into the deepest philanthropy and economy. Everyone is busy and apparently is having a good time, but always it is for the benefit of the needy.

Many prominent matrons have diverged from the chain of teas and have substituted bridge parties to relieve the monotony.

Preparations soon will be under way for Thanksgiving, which will be followed by the Yuletide season, always a time for mirth. This year it undoubtedly will be tempered with the remembrance of those who cannot have even a little celebration, but who are suffering privations and sorrows. However, the younger contingent will be gay, entertaining for the girls and boys who will pass their school vacations in town.

The dinner dance at the University Club Friday night was a brilliant affair, and the continuance of these delightful functions is assured.

Mrs. Samuel C. Kerr and her little daughter Isabel returned early last week from a visit of five weeks at the Coast.

Misses Etta and May F. Failing returned Tuesday evening to their home after an absence of nearly a year and a half. They were touring abroad, and at the outbreak of the war were in Germany. They sailed for the United States in company with Mr. and Mrs. Winslow B. Ayer September 15. Since their arrival in this country they have been visiting Eastern cities.

Colonel and Mrs. Henry Cabell, who went to New York to meet the Misses Failing upon their arrival from abroad.

Walker Willis and Philip Schuyler Kamm left last night for San Francisco, from whence they will go to San Bernardino, Cal., to marry the Misses Maud Marie and Louise Eliza Roberts, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Roberts. The wedding will be a brilliant event, on the evening of November 14, in Glenwood-Mission Inn chapel, and it will be solemnized by Right Rev. Joseph H. Johnson, D. D., LL. D., bishop of the diocese of Los Angeles, assisted by Rev. Dr. Rotten, rector of All-Saints Church, both of whom have been lifelong friends of the Roberts family.

There will be 20 prominent young society belles and beaux in the bridal party, 10 bridesmaids and 10 ushers. Many of the ushers will be Portland men and the bridesmaids will come from different parts of the United States. For several days preceding the wedding, the Roberts family will entertain the entire bridal party as house guests, and they will participate in many of the social compliments arranged for the brides-elect. The social calendar of the attractive prospective brides is filled, prominent matrons vying with each other to do homage to the charming young girls. One of the largest affairs given in their honor was the tea for which their aunt Mrs. John W. Davis, of Redlands, was hostess last week, and she plans to give a large dance at the Country Club within a few days.

Mrs. Charles T. Kamm, mother of the bridegrooms-to-be, and their sister, Mrs. James A. McKinnon, will leave tomorrow for the South to attend the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hurd Lines and Mrs. Lines' mother, Mrs. Warren F. Houghton, have taken apartments at the Hotel Multnomah for six months, during which time they have leased their home in Madison street.

Mrs. Lansing Stout was hostess for a delightful bridge party Friday for the benefit of the British Red Cross Society. Guests were asked for three tables of the game, and attractive prizes were awarded.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lang, of Seattle, are passing a few days with Mr. Lang's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Lang. They were honored at a few small informal affairs.

Captain and Mrs. Gordon Voorhies presided at a charming informal dinner party Wednesday evening, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. John G. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Farrell and Roderick L. Macleay.

An affair anticipated with pleasure by the younger contingent is the dancing party for which Miss Elise Simon will be hostess Tuesday evening at the Hotel Benson. She has asked about 150 young people. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan D. Simon, will act as chaperones.

Interest in the Red Cross Society teas

binning bridge parties with their teas in order to make it more interesting, but it proves an exceptionally good time to pass the afternoon sewing Christmas gifts in company with congenial friends and at the same time helping the war sufferers. Among those who will entertain this week are Mrs. John Withycombe, Mrs. Carl Denton, Mrs. Frederick Crowther, Mrs. Walter Goss, Mrs. Warren R. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas Kerr, Mrs. Richard Wilder, Misses Winifred and Laura Miller, Mrs. Charles T. Whitney, Mrs. Frank Dooley, Mrs. Francis Seely, Mrs. Joseph H. McCullough, Miss Mabel Ransom, Mrs. John R. Morris, Mrs. F. L. Stinson and Mrs. William Gadsby. Among the larger teas given last week were those presided over by Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse, Mrs. Gay Lombard and Mrs. J. J. Pantan, all of whom entertained between 25 and 35 guests.

Mrs. William Morton entertained the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club last week, and the Walking Club was entertained at luncheon by George S. Whiteside, after a long walk in the country.

Interesting letters from Mr. and Mrs. Arno Dosch to the former's parents, Colonel and Mrs. H. E. Dosch, in this city, tell of their experiences in France. They are house guests of Princess Poniatowski, Mrs. Dosch's aunt, in her chateau in the village of Ainsse, who has opened a hospital close to her home. Her husband and sons are in the fighting line, and the Doschs plan to remain with her until after the holidays. Evidently they are in the midst of the war zone, as the roar and boom of the cannons and guns can be heard all around them, while the wounded soldiers are steadily being brought into the hospital.

Mrs. Max Houser and small son, John, left on Wednesday for New York, where they will be joined by Miss Bertha Houser, sister of Miss Houser, who will arrive in New York Wednesday from Europe. The party will remain in the East until Christmas, when they will return to Portland. Miss Houser will pass several months in this city.

Complimenting Mrs. R. C. Washburn, of Minneapolis, Minn., who is the house guest of her mother, Mrs. Henry E. Jones, Mrs. Jones was hostess for a charming informal tea Wednesday, asking only Mrs. Washburn's old and intimate friends. The tea was, attractively decked, was presided over by Mrs. Winslow B. Ayer, Mrs. Arthur M. Mearns, Mrs. John Effinger, of Honolulu, and Mrs. William D. Wheelwright.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Hill, of Redlands, Cal., are the house guests of Mrs. Thomas G. Halley.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Farrell will return tomorrow from a week-end trip in Victoria.

A brilliant affair of the latter part of the week was the reception given by the members of the Portland Art Association yesterday afternoon to honor Miss Helen Putnam and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Bell, recent acquisitions of the society.

Mrs. Isam White and her companion, Miss Edith Nanz, who have recently returned from a long tour of the European countries, left this morning for Seaside to be house guests of Mrs. Marcus Fleischner for several days. Mrs. Fleischner left for the beach Thursday morning, and will remain about a fortnight.

The Reed College Drama Club will give a presentation of Galsworthy's "Pigeon" Saturday evening, November 14, in the Lincoln High School auditorium. The following will serve as patronesses: Miss Eleanor E. Elinor, dean of women, Reed College; Mrs. William Trufant Foster, Mrs. Kelley Rees, Mrs. Robert L. Sablin, Mrs. R. W. Wilbur, Mrs. A. F. McKisley, Mrs. J. C. Elliott King, Mrs. Jonah B. Wise, Miss Henrietta Elliot, Miss Mary Frances Isom and Miss Swigert.

Monday afternoon marked a notable event in the history of the Monday Musical Club, when it gave an elaborate programme at Christensen's Hall at its meeting. "Music and the Dance" was the theme of the subject discussed by Mrs. G. J. Frankel, president of the club; Mrs. Russell Doer, chairman of the afternoon; M. Christensen and Miss Georgia Wey. A charming feature of the affair was the interpretative solos danced by attractive little Mildred Keats, who dances divinely and with the grace and artistry of a professional. Miss Georgia Wey and Robert Krohn gave an exhibition of the Pavlova Gavotte, and were roundly applauded. Miss Katherine Ensey, who was to have contributed to the programme with vocal selections, was unable to be present on account of illness.

A large dancing party will be given by the Portland members of the Kappa Alpha Theta at the Hotel Benson on Friday night. The guests will be received by members of the local chapter—Mrs. George Norris Woodley, Mrs. Luther F. Steele, Mrs. V. H. McVay and Mrs. V. H. Thomas. The affair is creating a great deal of interest in fraternity circles.

Mrs. John Klosterman and Miss Kenna Klosterman will leave on Tuesday for New York, where they will pass the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Folger Johnson (Edith

Mrs. L. F. LAMPING, OF SEATTLE, WHO IS BEING MUCH ENTERTAINED.

Speaking of Style—

Our late arrivals in stunning black coats outclass any previous showing. Those of Pomorie are especially handsome, while the broadcloth, velvet trimmed, and the new fur fabric, Hindu Lynx, make up a display to delight all lovers of beautiful apparel. Several charming models displayed in today's windows. You will enjoy seeing them.

"Particular" Women

are fast making this their hat shop—and no wonder. Just one glimpse into our Millinery department would convince you, too, that our styles are the most exclusive, our prices the lowest in the city. Large black velvet hats, trimmed in fur or delicately blended winter roses, for dress wear, and smaller, more tailored styles for general use, all are here in wonderful assortments.

The richest furs the world affords, combined and arranged in charming effects. The fur of your choice—any price you want to pay.

At the last meeting of the Council of Jewish Women it was voted to give a series of teas for the benefit of the Neighborhood House. The teas will be given by different matrons, and already four prominent members of the council have offered to give them, Mrs. S. M. Blumauer, Miss Ella Hirsch, Mrs. Gus Simon and Mrs. Marcus Gieschner. The dates will be announced later.

Mrs. E. L. E. White, Miss Lambert and Miss Grace Lambert returned last week from an eight-months' tour of Europe. They visited relatives in the East. The party was touring around the war zone at the outbreak and reached England with difficulty.

Mrs. Isam White, who has passed the last year in Europe traveling, returned to Portland recently, on account of the hostilities in the European countries. She is being delightfully welcomed by her numerous friends and will give a party of honor at a charming dinner party presided over by Mrs. S. Lipman Wednesday evening. Mrs. White entertained a group of friends Thursday at dinner at the Hotel Benson, where she is domiciled.

A great many informal affairs are being planned to compliment this charming matron.

The annual ball of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be given on November 25 at the Irvington Clubhouse. The chairman of the arrangement committee is Mrs. A. Gieblisch, and she will be assisted by Mrs. V. M. C. Silva, Mrs. George H. Thomas, Mrs. F. Joplin, Mrs. J. R. Bailey and Mrs. F. L. Thompson.

These annual dances are elaborate and notable affairs, and the members of the organization and their friends turn out in large numbers to enjoy the true Southern hospitality of the Daughters.

Great interest is being manifested in the coming semi-annual interschool hop on Friday night at the Masonic Temple. The committee is making every effort to have a successful affair. One event which every one will take great pleasure in will be the singing of Pinkerton Day. The ballroom is to be elaborately decorated.

The patronesses are: Mesdames Dom Zan, Baltis Allen, David M. Dunne, Dudley Ballin, Mrs. Walters and Mrs. G. E. Hamaker.

The committee which has been selected from the younger set is: The Misses Lucile Dudley, Gladys Dunne, Dorothy Cooper, Ruth Walters, Phoebe Gage, Marion Hoben and Eve Flood, and Baltis Allen, William Lewis, Julius Berkeley, Carl Logan, Donald Keys, A. Townsend Kurtz and Robert Hamaker.

Complimenting Mrs. L. F. Lamping, a popular Seattle matron, who is passing a few weeks in this city, Mrs. W. H.

Boyer presided at a charming luncheon Wednesday, bridge rounding out the afternoon. Covers were laid for eight, and card honors fell to Mrs. Charles Jennings and Mrs. Harry Blair, of San Francisco.

Mrs. R. E. Menefee also entertained with a luncheon Friday in honor of Mrs. Lamping, her guests numbering eight. After luncheon they played bridge. Mrs. Lamping entertained recently with an elaborate and delightful tea at the Nortonia Hotel, where she is domiciled. Many other small and charming dinners, luncheons and teas are being given to compliment the visit.

Mrs. Frank Lawrence Nau and charming little daughter, Hermine, who have been visiting relatives and friends in the East for three months, returned to their home in this city last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Latourette

(Ruth Stelwer) are being showered with congratulations upon the arrival of a baby girl, born Tuesday.

Mrs. Carl G. Liebe will leave tomorrow for a six weeks' visit with friends in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Robert Berger has as her house guest Miss Bernice Le Noir, daughter of Colonel B. O. Le Noir, of the United States Army Signal Service. Miss Le Noir is a charming and interesting girl and has traveled extensively. She will be Mrs. Berger's guest until after the holidays.

One of the most elaborate and brilliant social affairs of the season was the Masonic ball on Friday night at their hall. Clusters of seasonable blossoms in a riot of pleasing color enhanced the attractiveness of the gowns of the women. The wives of the past masters received the guests. They were: Mrs. Walter J.
