COTTON LOAN PLAN DECLARED LAWFUL

Attorney - General Reassures President in Opinion Defending Proposal.

PRICE NOT TO BE FIXED

No Restriction Placed on Sale and No Combination Intended That Would Be Forbidden by Anti-Trust Laws.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—No violation of the anti-trust laws is threatened by the $135,000,000 cotton loan fund plan, according to an opinion handed down late today by Attorney-General Gregory at the request of President Wilson. "I am unable to see how such a plan could be thought to fall within the purview of the anti-trust laws," the opinion says.

The plan was perfected recently by bankers and members of the Federal Reserve Board and Mr. Gregory's opin-ion was rendered after his conference today with President Wilson. The Treasury Department made public to-night the following correspondence:

President Makes Inquiry.

Writing Mr. Gregory, the President said:

"I am sending the enclosed papers, submitted to me by the Secretary of the Treasury in order to ascertain whether in your opinion the proposed cotton loan fund may be lawfully formed, I know that it is contrary to the preficie of the department to give opinions beforehand as to contemplated transactions, and I think such opinions ought never in ordinary circumstances be given, but the circumstances with regard to the handling of the great cotton crop which have been centered by the European war are most extraordinary, and seem to justify extraordinary, and seem to justify extraordinary action.

The city is now under strict military law and the Mayor and six leading citizens are obliged to reside in the town hall as hostages. Since November of the great cotton crop which have been created by the European war are most extraordinary, and seem to justify extraordinary, and seem to justify extraordinary action.

"It contents to determine the tottuth of determine the truth of these accusations and counter-the time 43 private (and the money to pay it is commonly reported that up to the present time 43 private (and the money to pay it collected by the Germans, while a fine of 100,000 rannes was could not the present time 43 private (and the money to pay it collected by the daughters of a number of prominent citizens, who, in a house-to-house canvass, were able to raise the amount in cash.

"It occurs to me that the fund con-templated stands in a class by itself. It is hardly conceivable that such arrangements should become settled practices or furnish precedents which would be followed in the regular would be followed in the regular course of business or under ordinary conditions. They are as exceptional in their nature as the circumstances they are meant to deal with and can hardly be looked upon as, by possibility even, dangerous precedents."

Consuming Nations at War.

In reply Mr. Gregory wrote: "Countries which take annually about 8,000,000 bales of American cotton-more than half the crop-are now engaged in war. Trade between the United States and those countries in some cases virtually has come to a complete stop and in others has been seriously hindered. Foreign exchange has been badly demoralized. In consequence of these extraordinary conditions it has been impossible to obtain in the usual ways the large amount of cash required to liquidate the indebtedness incurred in the source of raising ness incurred in the course of raising

"To meet this situation the plan in question has been proposed. It contemplates the making by a syndicate com-posed principally of banks and bank-ers of a fund of $135,099,000 to be lent on the security of cotton to borrowers the cotton-growing states under the direction of central committees, composed of individual members of the Federal Reserve Board and various auxilary committees.

Restriction Not Involved. "Nothing in the nature of price-fix-ing, restriction of production, division of territory or control of markets is involved. Loans will be made as freely to buyers of cotton as to producers The members of the syndicate will be perfectly free to make other loans in any amount, to any persons, and on any lawful terms. Borrowers will be under no restraint whatever as to the price or the time at which they may sell their cotton. Nor will their free agency in borrowing or in not borrowing as they see fit in any manner be restrict-ed. In short, the plan simply provides the cash which is imperatively required to liquidate the indebtedness incurred in the course of raising and marketing the cotton crop, but which cannot now be obtained from the usual sources of supply, because of the extraordinary conditions prevailing in the money markets and in the trade of the world. "The amount of this fund is barely more than 1 per cent of the total out-standing loans and discounts of banking institutions in the United States, and is much less than the amount of cash usually employed in marketing the cotton crop. Nor would even this small part of the banking capital of the United States become impounded as a result of the plan; but upon being lent, would return at once into gen-
