

BOARD SAYS YES OVER SCHOOL LEVY

All Favor Economy, but Some Would Set Tax at 5 Mills and Others at 4.8.

DECISIVE MEETING MONDAY

Chamber of Commerce Committee Discusses Budget With Officials. Taxpayers to Act on Recommendations Tuesday.

That there is a division of opinion among members of the School Board as to what tax levy will be required to support the schools of the district for the coming year became apparent yesterday when the board met with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and other bodies to discuss the 1915 budget.

No amendment of the tentative budget estimates originally published in the Oregonian was made at yesterday's meeting, but there undoubtedly will be clashes over one or two important subjects when the board meets again tomorrow.

The school levy will be made at the annual taxpayers' meeting in the Armory next Tuesday at 8 o'clock P. M. when the recommendations of the School Board will be considered and adopted or amended as the taxpayers see fit.

Estimates Cut Down. Every member of the Board urged strict economy in fixing the 1915 school levy and all have pruned estimates as low as possible in arriving at a budget in its present shape.

Provision already has been made in the budget for $90,000 to cover the probable cost of purchasing a site for a trade school on the corner of Summer and Second streets.

Five Mills Not Opposed. On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, A. F. Fiegel and J. P. Daly appeared before the Board yesterday, but they did not offer any criticism to the figures as now outlined by the Board.

"We assume that every item included in this table of estimates," said Mr. Fiegel, "we would urge that the levy should not be allowed to exceed 5 mills under any circumstances. If you go before the taxpayers next Tuesday asking for a 5-mill levy the Chamber of Commerce feels that the Board's recommendations will be supported by the people."

"If there ever was a time when we should practice every possible economy it is this year. The Board ought not to buy any more grounds than are absolutely needed."

Mr. Daly said that business men generally thought that the 1915 levy should not be allowed to exceed 5 mills.

At this juncture Dr. Sommer came forward with a declaration that any expenditures for the construction of buildings should be made possible by the issuance of bonds.

"We need buildings in various quarters of the city, but we cannot afford to spend the money for them under present conditions," he said.

"Long before these fireproof buildings are used up they will be entirely out of date and we don't know what to do with them," he said.

Whitney L. Boise and L. M. Lepper appeared before the Board to repeat the request of the First City Bank for the purchase of a site for the proposed Hawthorne School.

Why Teeth Are Neglected

- 1. Ignorance
2. Fear
3. Cost

The Dental Trust is responsible for all three causes.

Education of the masses—except simply teaching school children how to use a tooth brush—is contrary to the "ethics" of the Trust.

I believe in educating the masses against the dangers of diseased teeth by educational advertising.

I have never looked upon dentistry as a profession of secrets. I believe that it should always be practiced in the open daylight of publicity.

Teaching a child to simply brush the teeth is not dental education of the masses any more than a well-brushed suit of clothes indicates the wearer has a robust, healthy body.

The great masses of grown people need dental education. The Trust makes a great splurge of running from one schoolhouse to another telling children how to use a tooth brush.

I don't believe that a dentist should make any charge for consultation and examination. The temptation is too great to do a lot of useless talking over a simple case in order to get a big fee.

Fear of pain keeps many away from the dentist. Could I have built up the largest dental business in the world, extending from New York to San Francisco, if I had not originated my local anaesthetic?

"Ethics" prevent a dentist from being anything but a follower. No leader in dentistry can be "ethical."

By organization, specialization and advertising I have associated other dentists with me who specialize in the different branches of dentistry.
