

FAT STOCK WILL MAKE WHOLE SHOW

Dairy and Breeding Animals Eliminated From Portland Exhibition Next Week.

MANY ENTRIES RECEIVED

Auction Sales to Be Feature Again and Nearly All Prizewinners Will Be Offered—Railroads Make Special Rates.

Livestock breeders, livestock owners and livestock patrons will have their inning next week. The third annual show of the Pacific International Livestock Association will be held at the Portland Union Stockyards for six days, beginning Monday, December 9, and continuing until Saturday, December 12. On account of the prevalence of foot and mouth disease in other parts of the country, the exhibition of all breeding stock will be eliminated. But there will be a sufficient display of fat stock to make the show complete. In fact, many of the big livestock centers prefer to exhibit the fat stock separately and to hold an independent exposition for the breeding and dairy stock. The Portland show managers heretofore have shown their breeding stock, dairy stock and fat stock in the same week, and had intended to do likewise this year. Although the foot and mouth disease has not spread to this part of the country, the elimination of breeding animals was considered advisable as a precautionary measure.

Exhibitors to Be Many.

Advances in stock raising indicate that the presentation of all classes of fat hogs, sheep and cattle will exceed in volume and quality, perhaps the exhibitions of previous years. The show will draw exhibitors from every state west of the Rockies, including Arizona, California, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Washington and Oregon. Additional accommodations already are being built at the yards for these animals. As in previous years, the accompanying auction sales will be one of the attractions of the show. The Minor-Dunn-Brown herds will be sold in this manner Thursday, December 10. About 100 head of registered shorthorn cattle will be offered. George W. Gie will conduct a sale of Holstein cattle Friday and Saturday, December 11 and 12. He has about 200 head.

Prize Stocks to Be Sold.

Virtually all the prize-winning stock will be sold at a big auction sale Saturday, December 9. It is probable that several small herds of various independent exhibitors also will be disposed of within the week.

J. Clise, of Seattle, is president, and O. M. Plummer, vice-president, of the association. Presidents of the various railroads operating in the Northwest and various influential persons of the livestock industry are vice-presidents of the association. W. D. Daugherty, president of the Portland Union Stockyards Company, and H. E. Blackwell, one of the principal cattlemen of Eastern Oregon, advised Mr. Plummer that he will have a big herd at the show. Several exhibitors from Idaho are preparing to ship herds here for the show. Numerous entries already have been reported from various parts of the Northwest. Substantial prizes have been offered by the show managers and the railroads have offered cups and other trophies in addition.

Committees Are Named.

At a meeting yesterday of the Portland Livestock Exchange the following committees were appointed to pass on the age and classification of entries: Cattle division—Gerry Snow, official brand inspector; Frank W. Burke, of the Portland Cattle Feeder Company, and H. E. Blackwell, of the Farmers' Commission Company. Sheep and hogs—Arthur Benson, of the Benson Commission Company; D. D. Bodine, of the Sheskey Commission Company, and Lester Willard, of the Willard Commission Company. E. W. Cole, of Baker, one of the principal cattlemen of Eastern Oregon, advised Mr. Plummer that he will have a big herd at the show. Several exhibitors from Idaho are preparing to ship herds here for the show. Numerous entries already have been reported from various parts of the Northwest. Substantial prizes have been offered by the show managers and the railroads have offered cups and other trophies in addition.

Railroads Grant Rates.

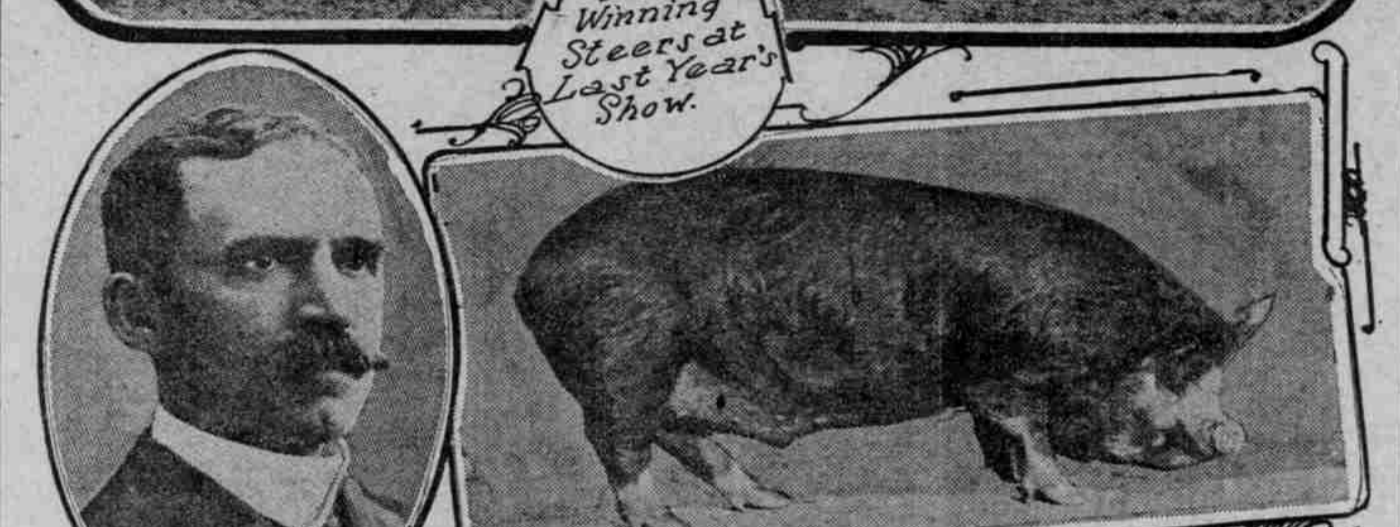

Admission to the general public will be free. Excursion rates have been granted by the railroads. Special car service will be provided between Portland and the stockyards. Ample accommodations are offered at the grounds for all who attend. The Harman Club and officials of the O. W. R. & N. Company and of the Southern Pacific Company will go to the show Wednesday on a special train of 13 cars. A parade through the streets of Portland will precede embarkation on the train. Other civic and commercial organizations in Portland will attend in organized parties. The annual livestock shows have served to impress upon the people of Portland the importance of the livestock industry as a factor in the development of the Northwest. Attendance has grown from year to year.

LENIENCY SHOWN LINGUIST

Charge Against V. G. Nicolette Dismissed by Judge Jones.

V. G. Nicolette, master of several languages, who was brought into Judge Jones' department of District Court yesterday upon a charge of having threatened to shoot R. D. Cooper, was let go by the court after his case was investigated. Deputy District Attorney Mowry, who prosecuted the charge, said he was satisfied to accept the decision of Judge Jones and acquiesced in the prisoner's discharge. Nicolette rents a farm owned by Mr. Cooper on Columbia slough, and in an argument about the lease the landlord said he declared that if he were put off the place Mr. Cooper would not live 30 days thereafter. Nicolette said he was angry at the time and could not recall just what he had said. It was charged that he was in the habit of carrying a shotgun with him while working on the farm, and Mr. Cooper feared it was loaded with a charge designed for him.

MASSONS WARN OF FAKE

"AMERICAN FEDERATION" REVIVES HERE, IS REPORT.

Grand Secretary Robinson of A. F. and A. M. Says Promoters Sail Under False Colors.

Promoters of the "American Masonic Federation," are again active in Portland, according to reports which have reached officers of the Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, the organization which has disclaimed connection with the "Federation." An employee of a store here was approached by one of the promoters three weeks ago, the organizer offering to enroll the employee in the "Masonic Federation." It is asserted that the promoter urged acceptance of his proposal, holding out to the employee as an inducement, that he could readily gain in a business way by joining the organization. The employee reports that he paid $35 to the promoter. One of the store's managers learned of the transaction and informed the employee of the alleged imposition. He also procured a refund of the $35. "The Ancient Free and Accepted Masons is an organization as old as civilization itself," said James F. Robinson, grand secretary of the local Masonic lodges, "and the promoters of this 'American Masonic Federation' are attempting to sell under false colors, attempting to impress, or give the impression, with their victims that their lodge is the real Masonic order. "Everything went fine for them and they were rolling in wealth until our lodge interfered. The Ancient Free and Accepted Masons objecting to having their order held responsible for the frauds perpetrated by the promoters of the fake order. The Ancient Free and Accepted Masons wish again to warn the public against having anything to do with these promoters."

LEAVES COLLECTED EASIER

Installments on Bonded Assessments for November Not Difficult.

Although difficulty was anticipated by the city in making collections during November of installments and interest due from property owners on bonded assessments for street and sewer improvements, collections proved much easier than during the corresponding period a year ago, according to a report issued yesterday by City Treasurer Adams. From November 1 to November 26, 1913, there was a total of $200,541.07 collected. Increased number of improvements required the city to raise $21,800 more in November of this year than in November, 1913. It was feared, prior to November 1, that difficulty would be experienced in getting in the increased amount. But, contrary to expectations, the total collections were $246,666.60, or $14,325.13 more than was needed by the city to meet its own interest and redemption obligations.

Wynter Willis, brought before Judge McGinn yesterday with Ed Bradigan, both being charged with larceny from a dwelling, was paroled after being sentenced to serve from one to seven years in the penitentiary, but was told that the next time he was brought into court he would be sent to prison. "You evidently are trying to break into the penitentiary," said Judge McGinn. "I don't want to put any young man there, but this is the second time you have been in trouble, and if you appear again you will get a good stiff sentence." Bradigan was paroled also. Each was directed to report to the court once a month.

SESSIONS CALL ALL

Commonwealth Conference to Be of Coast-Wide Scope.

UNEMPLOYMENT LAW TOPIC

F. G. Young, of University of Oregon, Where Discussions Will Be Held, Says Close State Relationship Solves Problem.

The discussion of unemployment legislation that is to be a conspicuous part of the special session of the Commonwealth Conference at the University of Oregon, who was in Portland yesterday, and who is a member of the legislative committee on unemployment named by the last Commonwealth Conference, says a close relationship should exist between Oregon and Washington in the handling of unemployment.

Washington Votes Agencies.

At the election, November 3 an initiative bill was passed in Washington that prohibits any agency from collecting a fee for getting a workingman's job. It is considered only a step in Washington, therefore, to the public employment agency under state supervision that is proposed for Oregon. Governor-elect Withycombe has agreed to open the Commonwealth Conference and to assist the representative men and women of the state who are gathered there to come to an agreement upon recommendations. The women of Oregon are being invited to take prominent part in the special session. The interest of women in unemployment legislation is as great as that of men, and women are represented on the legislative committee.

Municipalities League Interested.

The hydro-electric commission of the commonwealth conference will recommend at the special session that a bill be presented in the next Legislature making possible the incorporation of any city and its tributary watershed area into a district authorized to provide itself with an electric transmission system or hydro-electric plant and transmission system. The purpose is to bring about a larger use of electricity in homes, factory and industry. The League of Oregon Municipalities is interested in this proposed legislation, as well as in the unemployment reform legislation. It will hold joint sessions with each of them throughout the three days of the conference. "The recommendations of this special session should be wholly representative, and the commonwealth conference is open to all—it is literally a conference of the commonwealth or public," says Professor Young.

OREGON MAN HONORED BY AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

R. D. Hetzel. Although he was not able to attend the annual convention of the American Association of Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations, which has just adjourned at Washington, R. D. Hetzel, director of the extension work of the Oregon Agricultural College, was appointed chairman for the extension service of the National organization. This appointment places an Oregon man at the head of one of the branches of the organization, which has been instrumental in formulating and recommending for enactment many important measures for the advancement of the work of agricultural colleges, such as the Smith-Lever bill, which makes it possible for the agricultural colleges to extend greatly the scope of its service in advisory agricultural work in many states. His appointment is regarded as a National recognition of Oregon's advance in legislative work and in extension work in educational fields. The body over which Mr. Hetzel has been appointed chairman is composed of delegates representing all of the land grant colleges of the United States.
