A whole carload of Christmas cheer gathered by residents of North Plains for the poor, came into Portland yesterday over the United Railways and gave a mighty impetus to the Associated Charities' movement for the collection of funds and supplies for Christmas relief work.

Mrs. W. E. Boley and J. H. Layne, of North Plains, conducted the charitable work and assembled the donations offered by the people of North Plains. The May Mercantile Company furnished packing boxes and the United Railways transported the goods free. Besides donations of clothing, shoes, hats, the following list of supplies helped increase the resources of the grocery and supply department of the Associated Charities.

Thirty-six sacks of potatoes, three sacks of apples, one sack each of onions, beans, cabbage, dried apples, a box of prunes, four sacks of squashes, two sacks of carrots, two sacks of clothing, a case of canned fruit, five sacks of flour and 23 boxes of apples.

Donation Greatest Yet.

This is the greatest single donation from any community received by the Associated Charities for its Christmas relief work.

Among the other helpers in the work yesterday were H. Dahl and seven anonymous givers, who sent in sacks of sugar, and Mr. Gibbs, of Westport, who contributed a sack of fruit, six sacks of potatoes and a sack of turnips. A woman resident of Black Rock sent a layette to one of the women in the Associated Charities who expects the birth of a baby soon. Brasfield & Forges gave a suit of clothes to a boy who is working to support his parents and brothers and sisters. Six Boy Scouts have volunteered to assist in running errands in the relief work. The boys of the Trinity Church Sunday School have agreed to undertake the care of one family. H. Hunt Hendrickson, their teacher, announced yesterday.

Railroad Employees Buy Ticket.

An example of the open-hearted spirit prevailing everywhere was shown when the Associated Charities sent a poor woman to the Southern Pacific office to see if transportation could be arranged for her to El Paso. When it was found that the railroad prevented issuance of a pass over the railroad the office employees at the Southern Pacific took up a collection and bought the ticket. The Hazelwood furnished the women with lunches for the trip and the Christmas relief fund was used upon for other incidental expenses.

Here are typical cases that have appealed to the Associated Charities for relief.

Opportunity 44—Young Couple Walk Streets Homeless.

A young man and his wife, homeless and worn from walking the streets almost day and night in search of a place to stay and work enough to earn something to eat, came finally in desperation yesterday to the Associated Charities. In the waiting-room at the Associated Charities the young woman fainted from hunger and exhaustion. The husband, who was haggard and almost unable to stand from weakness, said he and his wife had been unable to eat for two days and had been walking the streets until they were too faint to go further.

Opportunity 42—Child Lacks Proper Food.

The 5-year-old daughter of a poor widow in Portland is perilously near death from weakness and hunger, and the mother is unable to purchase suitable food for her. The little girl was in a hospital recently to undergo an operation and came home weak. It is absolutely necessary that special nourishment be given her during her convalescence. The Christmas Relief Fund will be called upon to furnish food and milk and efforts will be made to obtain permanent relief for the mother and child.

Opportunity 46—Sick Man Seeks Work.

Although almost to weak from illness to stand, the young woman in the Associated Charities yesterday to find him work. He had just returned to his home from a hospital, where he had been operated on for appendicitis. He found his wife and children hungry and no money was available with which to pay for their food. In desperation he rose from his bed and as long as he was able to go about, staggered through the streets seeking work with which to earn food for his family.

Three charter members of Multnomah Camp, the first to be established in Oregon, were present at the ceremonies. They were W. H. McMonie, C. E. Miller and E. F. Moldenhauer.

J. C. Jones, captain of Oregon's first Woodmen drill team, was captain last night. On his team were the following men: John McDonald, Nick Becker, S. H. Griffin, E. R. Hall, Harry Eilers, M. D. George, H. Gordon, E. H. Bennett, Earl Minor, Jack McGrath, James Rudman, P. Johnson, W. H. Zeims, Thomas Krehbiel.

The officers, most of whom were white haired, who were in Portland's first camp in its earliest days, officiated last night as follows: William Henderson, consul commander; A. M. Cox, past consul; H. H. Newhall, banker; M. A. Wilkin, advisory lieutenant; J. L. Wells, watchman; Clark Lawrence, secretary; and C. E. Miller, clerk.

Dr. A. K. Higgs, present consul commander of the camp, was in charge of the evening's program. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, addresses were made by School Superintendent L. R. Alderman, Commissioner Bigelow and Woodman camp in the world.

GASOLINE FUEL IS DOOMED

German Success Recited as Incentive to Farmer to Establish Still and Plant Potato for New Use.

Anti-Monopoly Bill Urged.

A great source of revenue to the American farmer of the future will be denatured alcohol, if the production is not stifled by monopoly. It is the belief of Paul Pfedner, of 702 Overton street, who has a great future in the development of the potato industry in the United States, along the lines now in operation in Germany.

Denatured alcohol is the fuel of the future, replacing gasoline for all descriptions of machinery and machinery of all descriptions, declares Mr. Pfedner.

"The present gasoline is cheaper, but this will not be for long. It has been estimated that if all gas engines in the United States should be operated for 10 hours a day the gasoline supply of the Nation would last but 30 days. There is a limit to the amount of gasoline that can be produced, but denatured alcohol comes from an inexhaustible source. From potatoes, beets, grapes, anything containing starch and sugar, an alcohol can be distilled. The cost of production is about 20 cents a gallon. It has been as low as 15 cents.

GERMAN TO GIVE VIEWS

WAR LECTURE TONIGHT TO TREAT ON "ERRONEOUS" IMPRESSIONS.

Interest of United States in Great Conflict Will Be Discussed by Professor Kuehnemann.

"Germany, America and the Present War" will be the subject of a lecture delivered under the auspices of the Confederation of German-speaking Societies of Oregon at the Masonic Temple tonight by Professor Eugene Kuehnemann, until recently exchange professor at Harvard.

In this lecture and another to be delivered tomorrow night, Professor Kuehnemann will present the German side of the controversy as to which of the combatants has a just cause in the present war. Monday night's lecture will be on "Germany and the Present Political Situation in the World."

Professor Kuehnemann's home is at Breslau, Germany. His lectures will be delivered in English and there will be no charge for admission.

Those who have charge of the arrangements for the lectures desire to have all attend who wish to hear both sides of the question that will be discussed, and Professor Kuehnemann's arguments will be calculated to correct what German sympathizers believe are erroneous impressions. The interest that the United States may have in the great conflict will be discussed.

The lecture tonight will be preceded by selections from Liszt by Fraulein Pearl Leibo, a pupil of Professor Carl Diecke.

Monday night's lecture will be preceded by several selections by the Maennerchor under the direction of Director Lucian Becker.

Missouri's law code is to be revised by a commission of 16 persons.

Prominent Members of Both Organizations See Great Opportunity to Make One Big Portland Force for Good Out of Two.

merce, both meetings held for the same purpose, and so forth, until one-half of a member's time is exhausted to no real good.

"Both orders, working separately, are accomplishing the little things. The little things don't count. It's the big things that will help Oregon and in union there is strength. Combine the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce and Portland has one big, strong, able organization to work for a better Oregon.

"With such a double-strength organization, Portland could get better markets. As it is, the best of the two bodies can't do it. It is to bring people to Oregon, but they can make no provision for them after these people come here.

Alaska Trade Beckons.

"A good combination could open a market for land products and thus provide better inducements for people to settle on Oregon lands. Then again, there is the Alaska trade. The people in Alaska are begging for Portland trade, but we have no line able to compete with the steamers from Puget Sound. A stronger commercial body could arrange this."

Horace D. Ramsdell, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, expressed the same opinion.

"I am heartily in favor of some form of consolidation," said Mr. Ramsdell. "As to the manner in which such consolidation should be consummated, I am not certain. In a slight form the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club has already been discussed to some extent. There are a great many duplications that should be eliminated and can be.

"I believe that at the annual meetings of the organizations next month some method of consolidation can be settled upon. I do not believe either the Chamber of Commerce or the Commercial Club need lose its identity, but the overlapping work should be eliminated in the best way possible."

Union Generally Favored.

Expressions from governors of the Commercial Club, trustees of the Chamber of Commerce and from the heads of the business clubs of the city, who are also members of the Commercial Club and the Chamber of Commerce, carry out the sentiment of the plan emphatically. The interviews follow:

George L. Baker, vice-president of the Portland Ad Club and a member of the board of governors of the Commercial Club:

"Any firm conducted by two departments of equal strength and overlapping interests cannot expect to get the amount of business that would fall to the share of a similar firm working under one centralized head. There is far too much duplication in commercial and charitable work today. I think that it would be beneficial if it were possible for the Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce to eliminate a Double Expense Entailed.

M. B. McFaul, president East Side Business Men's Club—I have always been in favor of combining the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club. All throughout the city and county affairs there is too much duplication. The overhead expense of conducting two high institutions such as the Chamber of Commerce and the Commercial Club is heavy. The extra expense of conducting two where one could handle the work is not to be overlooked. I believe work should not be continued. It was the same that led to the consolidation of the Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce. I do not know of any good reason why the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club might not be combined.

Merger Styled Crying Need.

Charles F. Berg, president Portland Ad Club—Collecting the consolidation of the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club to be a crying need. I am strongly in favor of it. Informal meetings have been held every Monday lately by the presidents of the Rotary Club, Ad Club, Progressive Business Men's Club, and Realty Board at which proposals for the good of the city have been discussed. Among the things that have come up has been the proposed consolidation. I was getting data but were not quite prepared to broach the subject. Yet from what data we have obtained I believe the general opinion to be that there is an economy to the city and would prove more effective if the two bodies would unite in one organization. The work of both is often almost identical and this is inconsistent with economy or efficiency.

Consolidation Is Approved.

Jacob Kanzler, president Progressive Business Men's Club—I was very glad to see the editorial in The Oregonian this morning. I believe that the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club should be consolidated. This opinion is not given without due consideration. The subject has been before the attention of business for a long while. Many business men with whom I have had duplication of effort that makes the work of both organizations less effective. I say this not in the spirit of criticism for I am interested in the work of both bodies. Yet I wish to see what is for the highest welfare of the City of Portland most effectively administered. The work should not be followed up. It is from within the executive forces of both bodies that I would like to see the project taken up. I would like them to work together and to have their own best interests as affiliated with the interests of the City of Portland.

Chamber Name Advocated.

O. M. Clark, trustee Chamber of Commerce—I believe in consolidation, but I believe the name Chamber of Commerce should be retained, because of its meaning to grain dealers and traders on the Pacific Coast. Certificates are distributed by the Chamber of Commerce of Portland all over the Coast to grain men, and dropping or changing the name would cause considerable confusion. I understand commercial organizations have united in Tacoma and San Francisco to the mutual advantage of both.

Jay Smith, trustee Chamber of Commerce—I have talked consolidation of the Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce for ten years because I firmly believe it means a more efficient, a broader and a bigger business organization for the city. It will enable the business men to accomplish bigger things for Portland and Oregon. As to what name the organization should carry I believe that is immaterial, but personally I favor retaining the name, Chamber of Commerce, for the reason that such an organization exists in nearly every city.

Move Hailed as Economic.

E. A. Freeman, treasurer of Portland Commercial Club—I have just returned from the East and am not entirely familiar with the movement, but I thoroughly believe in the consolidation of the two bodies. It will mean a great economy in the overhead expenses of the Chamber of Commerce and Commercial Club. Their energies in development activities will net a profitable return to the organization in the increased results that will be obtained.

E. L. Thompson, member executive committee, Commercial Club—My personal view is that consolidation is a move that will tend to lessen the cost of overhead expenses is desirable. If the Commercial Club and Chamber of Commerce can do this without lessening the efficiency of their organization in any degree, it is well worth all effort that will be used to bring it about.

W. F. Burrell, member executive committee, Commercial Club, member of Chamber of Commerce, on various committees of the Chamber of Commerce and an enthusiastic advocate of the consolidation of the two bodies. Each organization has its own peculiar work, and it is not desirable to have one body take over the work of the other.

Wider Consolidation Urged.

George W. Kleiser, member of board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce—The interests of the community will be better served if we can consolidate the Commercial Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Oregon Development League and all the various organizations active in the work of improving the city. It is a waste of work under one management. I feel that the results that could be accomplished this would be greater than could be accomplished by either body heartily in favor of the consolidation.

C. F. Wright, member of the board of directors of the Commercial Club—it is an important move and one that should be carried out. There is a duplication of work in many departments of the Chamber of Commerce that should be eliminated in this way. Oregon wants to be ready next year. We are our greatest work in promoting the state's welfare and in advertising her resources to the world, and if we wish an effective force to carry out this work, now is the most opportune time to go about the task of consolidation of the two bodies.

A. Feldenheimer, member of the board of directors, Commercial Club—I think consolidation has been considered many years ago. The plan is a splendid one and now is the most opportune time that could be chosen to carry it through.

Mr. Meier Wants Merger.

Thurgood M. Meier, member executive committee, Commercial Club—the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce have done remarkably effective work for the development of the state. It is the aim of the Commercial Club or Chamber of Commerce to have a community to uphold to the best advantage the welfare of the community in which it is situated. It is directed effort through one channel instead of two, however, I believe that they can do much more, perhaps.

Emory Olmstead, member executive committee, Commercial Club—I think it is just the thing to do. Concentrated action under one head will bring greater results in the work of both organizations, and it will be accomplished more economically.

J. Fred Larson, secretary Commercial Club—It is a splendid proposal. The
