Oratory flowed like water at the anqual banquet of the Jackson Club at the Commercial Club Friday night.

There was even more than a little There was even more than a little super-oratory, inspired by the fact that the occasion celebrated the centennial of Jackson's victory at New Orleans. The orators seemed to realize that not for another hundred years would they have such another opportunity and they made the most of the chance at hand.

at hand.

But Jackson, high as were the tongue-carved niches given him in the Hall of Fame, was by several speakers ascribed to a place yet a little lower than that to be occupied by the present President, and there were no dis-

President Sends Regrets. Colonel Robert A. Miller, president of the club and toastmaster of the evening, read a letter from J. P. Tum-uity, secretary to President Wilson, ex-pressing Mr. Wilson's appreciation and regrets. The letter was as follows:

The letter was as follows:

The president sake me to thank you and all concerned very warmly for the cordial invitation which you extend to him in the mame of the Jackston Cith of Portland, and to assure you of his appreciation of your courtery. He regrete that it is not possible for him to accept, though he has pleasure in taking this means to send his greetings and best wishes to members of the club.

Colonel Miller couldn't pronounce Secretary Tumuity's name, and so he skipped it.

The following joint telegram from Senators Chamberlam and Lane also was read:

Colonel Miller, in his opening remarks, paid tribute to those "twin distinguished Democrats, Jefferson and Jackson, who had so much to do with giving us this Oregon territory."
"Democracy is founded on brotherly love," said Colonel Miller, referring to President Wilson's peace policy, "and it means much that we are here alive, with no differences with any country, while other nations are looking to this Nation to save them from the terrible catastrophe of war."

Marion B. Towne, petite and smiling, was introduced as the Democratic Representative-elect from Jackson County. Porter J. Neff, Medford attorney, and Harry Gard, of the new county of Jefferson, each claimed the banner Democratic county.

Mrs. Sylvia Thompson, of The Dalles, declared "Woodrow Wilson is a greater Democrat than Jackson, because it is harder to be a Democrat now than it was then. He is the greatest President this country has ever had."

"How are you and how is everything in Santa Rosa, and how is my father, and where is he sind what is he doing? I hope to hear from you soon. Yours truly, ROBERT PETTIS."

Sheriff Chrisman has communicated with the authorities in the two Santa Rosas and hopes to get some intimation as to Pettis' history. Pettis, when arraigned in the Justice Court this week, waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the February grand Jury on a murder charge without bond.
