

DEMOCRATIC PARTY EXPECTS TO LOSE

Republican View Regarding 1915 Result in Missouri Is Admittedly Possible.

MACHINE BUILDING CAUSE

Riotous Extravagance, Employment of Useless Clerks, Self-Perpetuation and Great Army of Idle Also Cited by Minority.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 8.—A noticeable feature of the legislative gathering in Jefferson City is the abundant optimism over the political outlook for 1915 prevailing among the Republicans.

Charles D. Morris, of St. Joseph, publisher and ex-chairman of the Republican State Committee, one of the number of Republicans who have been suggested for Governor, outlined some of the underlying causes for the Republican belief that control of the state government will be wrested from the Democrats in 1916.

1. The attempt of the Major administration to make political machines out of the state institutions and the police, excise and election boards in the large cities.

2. Riotous extravagance in the expenditure of public moneys and the employment of hordes of useless clerks, many of these relatives of officials, appointive and elective.

3. The apparent keen desire of Democratic officials now in office to perpetuate themselves and their friends in office. This is evidenced, he said, by the flock of officials, from the Governor on down the line, who are candidates for Governor or something else.

4. The great army of unemployed men in the large cities and smaller towns, who must exist as best they can by frequenting soup-houses.

Party Conference Favored. These four causes, Morris said, are the underlying reasons for the belief among Republicans that the tenure of Democratic control will be broken in 1916.

Morris stated if he were a candidate for Governor in 1916 he would make his campaign directly upon these issues, and that he would win on them.

He is advised that there is a strong sentiment among Republicans for a state-wide gathering in St. Louis February 12 for the discussion not only of political conditions, but also of candidates.

"I favor such a gathering," said Morris. "I think it would be highly beneficial to the party for all those who can get together and talk over the situation, both with reference to conditions, plans of campaign and organization, but also of candidates."

The Young Republican Association of Missouri holds annually a banquet and get-together meeting on Lincoln's birthday. This year the banquet is enlarged to take in every Republican who wants to come, regardless of whether he left us in 1912 or not.

There should be the freest expression of views upon the matter of candidacies as well as of conditions and organization."

Time to Raise Funds Here. Morris says two men are discussed for United States Senator in Buchanan County and that section of the state, these being ex-Governor Herbert S. Hadley and Walter S. Diekey, both of Kansas City.

He has received information, also, which leads him to believe that Thomas J. Atkins might run again. It is the belief of Morris that there will be no dearth of good material from which to select candidates when the campaign warms up.

Judge Henry Lamm, of Sedalla, who recently retired from the Supreme Bench, and Henry Kiel, Mayor of St. Louis, are among Republicans who have been mentioned here in addition to Morris for Governor since the session of the Legislature began.

Republican leaders believe one of the things which should be done immediately is to raise a campaign fund from the rank and file of the party to carry on the fight in 1916.

Divorce Blamed on Son Unmarried "Boy" of 46 and Stepmother Declared Too Devoted.

That the wife he obtained through an advertisement two years ago did not give satisfaction, especially while his own 46-year-old son was around the house, was asserted by James H. Turk, of Nehalem, in Circuit Judge Gantenben's court yesterday in his plea for divorce.

Mr. Turk is 70 years old. In 1912 he determined he wanted a wife to live with him on his ranch near Nehalem. He advertised for one and a short time later Hannah E. Turk, nearly 20 years his junior, was legally installed in his household.

Stepmother and son liked one another "got wisely but too well," according to Judge Gantenben's complaint, and when the son decided to extend his visit indefinitely Mr. Turk found himself a lesser factor in the family affairs.

Another witness testified that the son was still visiting at the old home place, although the father is in Portland. The divorce was not contested.

GRAIN "DEALER" FREE YET J. C. Young, of Typewriter Company, Annoyed by Use of Name.

No trace had been found late yesterday of J. C. Young, the "fly-by-night" grain speculator, who sold forged bills of lading for six carloads of wheat to the Columbia Milling Company, collected $7800 and disappeared.

J. C. Young, of the Oliver Typewriter Company, yesterday appeared to deny that he was the man wanted in the complaint. Familiarly known as "Coy" Young, he has been in business in Portland for some years and his reputation is unquestioned.

Hawthorne Addition Lots Sell. George Morris transferred to Joseph Kuby lots 10 and 11 in block 8, Hawthorne Avenue Addition, for $2000.

Two lots, 7 and 8, block 16, in Kinzel Park, were purchased by John F. Frank from W. E. Lewis, for $1547.

REED MEN ELATED

Debating Is Valued for Its Benefit to Public.

TO WIN IS NOT FIRST AIM

Training of Debaters' Power of Analysis and Light Thrown on Problem of Vital Interest Is Valued More Than Decision.

The Reed College student body naturally is elated over the double victory of the Reed debating teams against the University of Washington Friday night by unanimous decisions.

There is much demand at the college for a debate between the two Reed teams, but it is not yet certain as to whether or not it will be held. On the program given out at the debate appeared the following statement: "The University of Washington and Reed College are desirous of maintaining the highest standards of debate."

Each Speaker Has 20 Minutes. Each speaker had only 20 minutes to present material that he had been seeks in preparing and the big question was what to leave out and how to organize what was left.

Two cards, three by five inches, held all that he found advisable to use in the debate. This does not mean that the information that is left out is not valuable for if nothing else it helps the debater to get a more comprehensive grasp of his subject.

The debate also was particularly valuable for the Reed men because the speeches were their own productions. They had no regular coaching though they met with several members of the faculty at different times and got some suggestions regarding the organization of the material.

Lowell Bradford, debate manager at Reed College and a member of the affirmative team, is a graduate of Washington High School. He won the $1000 educational prize offered by Meier & Frank Company in the Summer of 1912, and this has enabled him to take his course at Reed College.

Arthur Hauck also will graduate this year. At Reed College he has served for two years as president of the student council. Last Summer he served as assistant secretary for the Prohibition Committee of One Hundred for Oregon.

Harry Wembridge, a member of the Reed negative team that won at Seattle, comes from North Yakima, where he had some experience in high school debating. At Reed College he has been particularly active in music.

Washington Debaters Experienced. Mr. Schwelienbach and Mr. Greenwood, who represented Washington here, have debated together for three years and have been defeated only twice in that time.

Gold medals will be awarded to all the members of the Reed College debating teams. The contract with the

HORSESHOEING BIG PUZZLE

How Can 2 Animals Wear 12 Shoes Like "Eow Old Is Ann"?

How can two horses wear 12 shoes? This is a puzzle which accountants in the city service are trying to solve. It has come up as a result of an investigation of requisitions for horseshoeing service put through prior to the establishment of the present Municipal Purchasing Bureau.

Among requisitions found is one which provides for the placing of 12 shoes on two horses. "Must have had queer horses in olden days," reflected one of the accountants yesterday.
