DOLLY DIP ON SKATES.

The ice is firm, the skaters gay
And, swifter than the rest,
Two flying skates have traced a name,
And "Dolly" stands confessed.

At nearby farmhouse Dolly finds
Some paint, a box of pine,
And then, returning to the crowd,
She hoists a MAXIXE sign.

"Miss Dolly Dip," the skaters read,
Then join in joyful chase,
But Dolly skates past danger sign
And wins the dashing race.

The skaters hum a maxixe tune,
And for the dance enlist.
"Where Dolly leads," the Snow Man says,
"The coldest can't resist."
