Team Lined Up by Wolverton Appears Far Better Than That of Year Ago.

ONLY EVEN BREAK NEEDED

Holder Catchers Are Retained and Infield and Outfield Strengthened and Only Pitching Corps Is No Stronger.

BY ROSCOE FAWCETT.
Only once in 12 years has San Francisco won a Pacific Coast League pennant, yet it begins to look now as if Harry Wolverton is to do an Enoch Arden step across the bay and hand the native sons another surprise package. Walter McCredie said the other day that, with one more pitcher, the Seals would be pennant contenders. Indeed, they will—new pitchers or no new pitchers—if Wolverton gets an even break in the luck.

OFFICIAL DOPE ON SAN FRANCISCO COAST LEAGUE TEAM FOR 1915. Table with columns for Catchers, Infielders, Outfielders, Pitchers, and various statistics.

The squad already lined up by the and away stronger than last year's team. And the Seals were in first and second place for a major part of the 1914 campaign. Los Angeles noted the out of second place in the last few weeks.

It was back in 1909, when the Coast had just expanded to six clubs, that San Francisco garnered its one and only pennant.

Portland is second. Portland finished second after a hard struggle. Howard Mundorf was breaking in with the Seals in those stirring days, and Ping Bodie was also drawing pay from Cal. Ewing.

Otherwise, the 1915 squad is entirely changed. Wolverton will have the 1914 hold-over catching crew. Schmidt is one of the greatest minor-league catchers in the business. It is barely possible that major-league club this spring to satisfy him. Clarke is steady, and Sepulveda ought to come strong this year, as he is young and promising.

Thus far Wolverton has not appreciably strengthened the 1914 pitching crew. The Seals lost Standridge to the Chicago Cubs by draft, and Wolverton filled this vacancy by purchasing Reislig, of the Topka club, through Detroit. Reislig is a right-hander and is no kid. "Portland Bill" James says Wolverton was with him at Cleveland back in 1911 or 1912. Last year in the Western League he won 19 and lost 12 and had an earned-run average of 2.64 per game.

Trio Completes Corps. Couch and Shadler, two Union Association winners, and Colwell, a busher, complete the flinging corps. In the infield and outfield, however, the Seals look much stronger than the year ago. The big weakness of the bench most of the time and relied upon Cartwright and Charles to hold down the sack.

Harry Heilmann, the former Portland youngster, has been purchased from Detroit on an option and will be the Seal first baseman. Heilmann is not extraordinarily fast, but he is a corner and a good extra-base cluster. Leard at second, bought from Venice, is far and away ahead of Jerry Downs. Leard hit something like .288 last year, but his main strength lies in his speed. Put the ex-Seattlite on the paths and his legs remind one of a Belgian hare. Bill stole 49 sacks in 1914.

Temper Brings Sale. Hogan let him go because he couldn't stand Leard's fiery temper. Leard is the best in the league. Roy made himself famous by hopping to the St. Louis Reds and back again all in a single winter. O'Leary, the ex-big league third sacker, is still on the Seal payroll, but Wolverton intends to give young Jones the call on the job. Jones starred in the Union Association at Ogden last year and was batting .356 when Del Howard bought him. Jones played 23 games for the Seals last year and hit .266, which is good for a recruit.

Charles, Downs and O'Leary will have to fight it out for the utility berth. Fitzgerald Retains Laurels. Justin Fitzgerald, the young speed merchant of the league, is the sole regular to retain his outfield laurels. Wolverton bought Meleon from Venice several weeks ago and then, after grabbing Baerwald, of the Galveston club, he sprung the faux pas of the winter by announcing that Ping Bodie would again frolic to the westward of Hetch-Hetchy.

Meleon is scheduled to play right field, Fitzgerald and his feeble flipper centerfield and Bodie left field, which is large enough to accommodate his bulky frame. Meleon, by the way, also wore Chicago Sox livery a couple of years ago, on the same team with Bodie. He batted .304 for Venice last year and .274 in 1913. In 1911, when with Toledo, he hung up a mark of .323, dropping to .255 the next season at Columbus and Louisville. Bodie is almost sure to await the horsehide around the 300 mark all year and, as Fitzgerald hit .308, the Seals can boast a formidable wrecking crew in the garden.

Big Bill Schaller probably will be retained and if Wolverton decides to hold another spare outfielder it will be a grand race between Coy, Mundorf, Baerwald and Tobias. Manager E. L. Matthews, Schaller, Mundorf and Coy are left-handed hitters and for that reason Baerwald may get the call for one of the utility jobs at the final reckoning.
Baerwald was the second best batsman in the Texas League in 1914. He batted .278 and stole 23 bases. Baerwald bought his own release last Fall and Berry signed him from the Imperial Valley League.

Baseball Brevities.

According to R. B. Ward the Federal League has a man willing and ready to finance a team in Gotham.
Chief Bender denies that he has been contemplating a jump back to the Federal League.
Although Alex Zwilling, the Chicago Fed outfielder, has not received as much publicity as Benny Kauff, he is one of the best outfielders in the outlaw circuit. Some fans are inclined to the belief that he will outshine Kauff this season.

Jim Gilmore, the guiding spirit of the Federal League, traveled 47,800 miles during the last baseball season.
Walter Johnson, writing to an Eastern paper from his Kansas farm, says that his life in the country has put him in fine physical condition for coming campaigns. This corrects the impression that he indulged in jumping exercises for this result.
Connie Mack has added two semi-pro twirlers to the Athletic rookie list. The men are Cleo Fisher and Bill Frey, who hail from Newark, N. J. The former is a southpaw.

Outfielder Bill Holden, released last season to Baltimore for Birdie Cree by the Tankees, will play with Montreal this year.
Charles Hickman, former major league batting star, has signed to coach the University of West Virginia baseball squad. Under Charles' leadership the team lost only two games last season.
Chief Meyers, writing to Secretary Foster, of the Giants, says that he is in midseason form. However, he neglected to say which season, 1913 or 1914.

Manager McDevay hopes that Jeff Travers, showing with the All-National team on their trip this winter cannot be taken as a forecast of the way he will shape up this year. Jeff won four and lost nine games while on the jaunt.
