Object Is to Increase Health ar Happiness of City and Country Dwellers and Bring Together Workers Seeking This Aim.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvalits, Feb. 6.—(Special.)—How can home life in Oregon be enriched? How may women living in rural homes have the conveniences which their city sisters have? How can the state improve conditions relative to sanitation, pure food and better health? What are prevailing road conditions in Oregon and food and better health? What are prevailing road conditions in Oregon and how may these be improved? How may the farm co-operative demonstration work being carried on in Oregon by the Agricultural College in connection with the Federal Government, be much roars efficient and of more practically of furniture is soon to be bemade more efficient and of more prac-tical value? Experts Discuss Topics.

With some of the most expert men in their departments in the country present and with close to 2009 wideawake men and women gathered together in helpful conference, the effort of the extension division of the college met with great enthusiasm.
The purpose of the college in planning for the exercises of the week was to bring together the forces working toward the betterment of industrial, social and economic conditions in the state, in order that these forces might be combined for greater efficiency, and an effective programme for the future laid down. To a degree extremely gratifying to these in charge, the purpose was accomplished.

The registration for the week was almost 10 times the average enrollment for farmers' week in the past.
Indications are that next year the conference week will be of even greater magnitude. Large numbers of dele-forence week will be of even greater magnitude. Large numbers of delegates have expressed the determination to return and bring many of their neighbors and friends with them.

Entertainments Are Enjoyed. have added much to the pleasur land, have added much to the pleasure of the week.

Probably the largest crowds have attended the sessions of the homemiakers' conference, Audiences of from 200 to 400 women were present every day. After the first day, when women stood around the walls and in the doorway to hear Mrs. Kedzis-Jones speak in a room which was thought to be ample in size, a change in plans was made. Overnight college carpenters built a platform in a large room in the basement of the home economics building, and meetings were held in this room throughout the remainder of the week.

GRAIN SACK PRICE FIXED

Washington Board Announces Apportionment for Countles.

OLYMPIA, Wash, Feb, 6,-(Special.) even cents has been placed by the State Board of Control as the price to be charged Eastern Washington farmers for grain sacks this year. This is the lowest figure for several years, as $\foatimes_2$ cents was charged in 1914 and $\foatimes_2$ cents in 1912, and indicates a reduction in the cost of operation of the jute mill at the Walla Walla penitentiary.

On the basis of the estimated grain production of the various counties for the present year, the Board has announced apportionment of 1,225,000 sacks as follows:

GIRL, 4 YEARS OLD, PRO-NOUNCES EUROPEAN NAMES.

Gertrude Grace Chandler.

ALBANY, Or., Feb. 6.—(Special.)—A little Albany girl, not yet 4 years old, can do what most grown people cannot in that she can read the names of Belgian, French and German places involved in the war news and pronounce them correctly. She is Gertrude Grace Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chandler, of 160 East Fourth street.

The little miss takes a keen interest in learning names of places and masters the correct pronunclation of difficult names quickly. She can give from memory the names of 15 of the principal rivers of Europe.

Gertrude can also repeat the names of the books of the New Testament in perfect order and also can repeat the 23d psalm. She has committed other things to memory and recites them clearly and distinctly. Gertrude Grace Chandler.

The average man, who likes to puzzle to settle the old line fence dispute comes in the following statement to the first-year law men:

A and B were adjacent landswaers. On the dividing line between their lands A had planted an apple tree, whose roots were all within A's land, but all its fruit-bearing liveness overhung B's land, and were a numance to B because of their obstructing in lie light. B. after consulting his lawyer, and believing he had the right to do so, lopped of full the over-hanging branches, which were of the value of $5, and from them made three artistic garden benches of value of $15 such. These he set deep into the worth 5, mixing in with it a quart of his own brandy, worth $1. A, knowing all along what B was doing, allowed B to finish making both benches and cider-brandy, and then brought an action of replevin for the special to recover either or both of these articles in specie, or their original or enhanced value in an action of trover, and state what rights, if any, you yourself think he would have.

A professional spirit is beginning to develop among the law men. A law traternity has been established, and s law library is being built up.
