The children of the "Deaf School" are housed at Buckman. Plans are being made for a new Buckman School to occupy the ground bounded by East Sixteenth, East Eighteenth, Pine and Oak streets, large enough to house all the children of the Buckman district and a part of the Hawthorne district.

In the course of his address Mr. Grout gave a history of the school and furnished many interesting facts. He said in part:

Twenty years ago, this school opened as a complete school with all the grades. Before that only primary pupils were taught here. That year was an addition of two rooms and an assembly hall, which could be used as two extra rooms, was built. The six-room building, was opened the September term with eight teachers and about 300 pupils.

It continues in charge of the North Central School, as it was then called, for five years. Among the teachers who taught here during that period were Misses Browning, Kennedy, Mercer, Porter, Coffey, Judig, and Green. Mrs. Sloan, author of the primary reading books in use in this city and state.

The school was blessed with an energetic, loyal, wholesome class of pupils, who were a credit to their parents and the best citizens. The education of any period should fit the needs of its own generation. Today the needs of the people are no other program.

The task of developing and perfecting a system of vocational education is the difficult problem of the day. Everyone is certain that something should be done, but no one is sure just what to do.

We are told that the Buckman School is the best of the beautiful demand that a great artery of the city pass through its grounds. But really and truly, it is much more than these two words well describe the lives and characters of the splendid teachers who took their first steps in learning in the Buckman School.

Richmond Parent-Teacher Circle will present a play, "Dearheart Skule," on Friday, March 5, at 8 o'clock in the school assembly hall.

Ladd School Parent-Teacher Association is being congratulated on the success of its entertainment held Thursday night. The orchestra of the school played inspiringly and the recitations by Mayo Metho and other numbers were well received with appreciative applause. A number of pretty young girls sold candy. The programme was directed by Miss Edna Trotter.

Christian Jew to Tell of Conversion Today.

Joseph Cohn, son of ex-Rabbi, to Speak at Centenary Methodist Church.

JOSEPH COHN, son of an ex-rabbi, will deliver an address this morning in the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, East Ninth and East Pine streets. At one time he was a rabbi in Austria-Hungary. He will tell his experiences. He states that after a deep study he came to the conclusion that the Messiah has come. The confirmation of this in the Jewish writings and in that country there is no New Testament.

One day he announced the result of his research to his congregation and they, with one accord, left him and excommunicated him. He called on a brother rabbi, an older Jew who told him the only place where he could hear more about the Messiah would be in America, and he immediately sailed for this country. In New York he read through a New Testament, which he had finished the reading he accepted Christ as his Messiah, for whom he had long been earnestly looking. When he fled to Scotland, on account of bitter persecution.

Subsequently he returned to New York and began to preach the Gospel to the Jews of that city. His success has been phenomenal. Several hundred Jews have made a public confession of their faith in Christ.

At the service in Centenary Church this morning Mr. Cohn will relate in full the experiences of his father, besides giving much information concerning the Jews, their habits, customs and future hopes, of which Christians generally know so little.

Paris Shows Spring Fashions

The great French couturiers, unmindful of the war that rocks the world around them, are holding their regular Spring openings. All through the season Vogue's splendid staff of Paris correspondents will gather for your benefit everything authoritative and new.

With the great European fashion journals cut off, with all ordinary sources of fashion news interrupted, Vogue has become more clearly than ever before, the absolute authority on what is to be worn by the well-dressed American woman.

And remember that Vogue comes not once a month, like the ordinary magazine, but twice each month, bringing thereby not only the very latest fashion news, but twice as much of it.

Never has Vogue's unique value been so universally recognized as in the past six months of uncertainty. And this value will approach its very highest point in the next few weeks, when everyone is asking, "What shall we wear this Spring?"

Forecast of Spring Fashions

To answer this very important question, don't fail to consult Vogue's and the great series of special fashion numbers that follow it.

Read the list of these numbers—given above—and see whether you are willing to do without Vogue another season.

Or rather, see whether you can afford to do without it—when its cost to you for a whole half year, twelve big numbers—is only the tiny fraction of the loss so often experienced on a single ill-chosen hat or gown.
