

GERMAN MILITARY STRATEGIST OF POLAND AND HIS STAFF.

INSERT IS PORTRAIT OF GENIUS OF WHOM JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT WRITES.

OREGON EXHIBITS RECORDED AS BEST

State's Potential Greatness Indicated by Quality of Products Shown.

EXPERTS ANSWER QUERIES

Anne Shannon Monroe Explains Why Displays Are More Appealing Than Others and Predicts Great Benefit Therefrom.

BY ANNE SHANNON MONROE. OREGON BUILDING, Exposition Grounds, San Francisco, March 4.—(Special.)—After I had returned from a visit to one of our great world's fairs a tired little woman recognized me on a streetcar and introducing herself, asked me in the most confidential manner what I really thought about the big fair; if it was as good as I had said, and if, supposing I required considerable sacrifice, it was really worth it to make the trip. I knew she had to earn her own living and that of a couple of children and I remember how I hesitated over my answer. Not that the fair was not worthy, but that it really was a tremendous effort and some sacrifice. If every woman and man in Oregon similarly situated were to ask me in perfect privacy and confidence the same question concerning this fair, I should answer in a ringing affirmative. The fair is peculiarly worth the Oregonian's while, for the fair that is history making not only in the new era of beauty I am sure it will inaugurate in our public buildings and residences, but the impetus it will give to all people institutionally by its magnificence, the atmosphere of really good music—organ recitals by such masters as Edwin H. Lemare, such bands as Creators and The Dailies, its sculptures and paintings—not only in all these features of cultural interest, but in permanently establishing Oregon's "place in the sun."

Broader Vision Gained. We see ourselves here not in our own home glass, but in the eyes of other states and other nations; we see what we are comparatively and being all that we can be. We see where Oregon excels not only in her exhibits but in potentialities. This is far more Oregon's opportunity than in any other state it is California's, than in any other state in the West. We are California's northern neighbor. We are at present but in the background, but where enough of every product has been raised and every industry developed to show that it can be done, but people insistently do it has not yet been captured.

As I go from palace to palace, I am struck afresh with the tremendous fact that Oregon is not in the making, that she is nearly all there, and that for a man of any means, Oregon offers the one great Western field, almost a virgin field, for investment. Our exhibits are teasing appetizers. They are so far ahead of almost all other exhibits of the same nature as not to be in the same class at all. And then when the passing stranger, realizing this, realizes also that these prodigious exhibits are brought from comparatively small areas of Oregon soil and hands, and that the hands—yes, millions—of acres ready to produce just as munificently, ready for labor plus capital, he is just bound to pack up and go home.

Choler of Talent Landed. Oregon is fortunate in the men and women she has sent to this fair. From every section they would seem to have picked their best, and the exhibits are carefully selected their exhibits. These men in charge have their hearts in this work. It is constantly new and fresh to them. They never seem to tire answering questions, pointing all passers-by to the North. And I want to tell you it makes me feel that this is a kind of human guidepost a state selects. For instance, there is H. O. Froehlich, manager for the Jackson County exhibit, and Douglas County. He tries to divide himself pretty evenly between the Oregon building, where Rogue River has a handsome exhibit, and the Horticultural building, where the Oregon exhibit is the most distinctive feature. The Rogue River Valley section here is not only one of the most beautiful, but most informative. The out-of-doors log effect that marks every Oregon exhibit on the grounds is carried out in keeping with the entire plan.

Valley Products Attract. In the Agricultural building you will be attracted to the same general effect in logs, which separate the exhibits from the other states, and here you will find O. E. Freytag, of Oregon City, in charge, assisted by Mrs. Freytag. Freytag not only is able to tell the women things of particular interest to them, but her good taste is evident in many little touches that add to the attractiveness of the display. For instance, in the Willamette Valley section, like a small showcase of fine rare jewels, is the jelly exhibit sent by Mrs. Robert Warren, of Oregon City. It has a central pedestal where the light just catches the delicate golden tints of Winter banana apple jelly, of loganberry jelly, of wonderberry, and currant and all the other kinds that we see so seldom nowadays. This small case of jewel-jellies holds a constant crowd of women, who want to know whether the exhibits are representative of the kind of fruit or the process.

Mr. Freytag has featured the grains and grasses of the Willamette valley. North Dakota visitor burst out in astonishment. "We have nothing to compare with these!" The flax display has caused wonder among a number of European visitors, who are amazed at the quality.

E. M. Warren, of the Commercial Club of Eugene, is steady in the Willamette section, ready to answer all questions when he isn't in the Oregon building for the same purpose. W. E. Meacham, secretary of the Baker Commercial Club, divides duties in the Eastern Oregon section with J. A. Lackey, of Ontario, Baker, Malheur, Union, Ematilla and Wheeler counties are represented together. A lovely contrast is afforded by two single ranch displays. L. M. Lowe, from Rogue River Valley, exhibits products, fruits, grains, grasses and vegetables without irrigation, in a section where there are but 12 inches of rain. The other display is that of F. M. Sherman, of Lebanon, who shows what can be done on 10 acres. Mr. Sherman himself struck Oregon at the time of the Lewis and Clark fair a sick man, with $39 in his pocket. He got hold of a piece of land on time and just went to work. He raises potatoes, cantaloupes, onions, squashes, pumpkins and a lot of other such things, but he raises top-notch ones and he clears up a good income besides supporting a wife and three children. In the five years since he came to Oregon, he has paid for his first 10 acres, bought a few more and cleared it all.

HINDENBERG IS IDOL

Countenance Not Stern, but Melancholy, Meditating.

KINDNESS OFTEN SHOWN

James O'Donnell Pictures Military Hero of Tannenberg as Kind of Fighter Whom Americans Would Like.

(Continued From First Page.)

folded, an attitude which increases his majestic aspect. All through the meal his manner is quiet, modest, unself-conscious, and he beats the eager scrutiny of the room without giving a sign. He is in the kind of fighter Americans like, for he has whipped precisely three times his weight in wildcats; but a less belligerent seeming person you wouldn't encounter in a day's march. A man of genius, too, but that also is a fact you would not grasp in a single moment until you had spent a whole day in traveling over that gigantic battlefield on which he won his victory of Tannenberg.

Sad Lines Seen in Face. On his breast are three decorations, among them the iron cross of the second class which he won in the Franco-Prussian war when he was a Lieutenant of 22 years. His gray-white hair is most beautiful, but most informative. The out-of-doors log effect that marks every Oregon exhibit on the grounds is carried out in keeping with the entire plan.

The noteworthy feature of this face is the eyes. It is they and the big mustache and the strong jaws that give the man his leonine aspect. There are deep, heavy, sad lines under the eyes and at each side of the mouth. Even the large black mustache does not conceal the latter.

Impression of Power Given. There is a power in the well-poised head and in the erect shoulders, and that impression of power is increased because the man moves so little. For many minutes he seems to sit motionless, and when he does move it is with slow deliberation. His countenance is not stern, but melancholy, though, for there is a sweetness in it that none of the portraits quite conveys, for the painters are inclined to make him burly. It is the victor of the awful week at Tannenberg; whom they paint, and not the man of the long years of patient waiting.

On the whole, then, features of much finer grain than the portraits, except those by Professor Ziegler, give you the impression of. During the meal he talked not much, but frequently he talks, and with sufficient animation to hold up his end. Deep as is his voice, though, the tone was not loud, and even the diners at the tables heard not so much words as a rich, leisurely rumble. His manner when he talked was energetic, but not showy. Almost never was there a gesture.

Once or twice he made the tableful laugh, and at the same time he laughed in a sad, tolerant way—not justly, but as if he were amused in only an impersonal way. When he was neither speaking nor listening, but sat abstracted, his face seemed very grave, but as if he were amused in only an impersonal way. When he was neither speaking nor listening, but sat abstracted, his face seemed very grave, but as if he were amused in only an impersonal way.

Table Manners Scrupulous. I have seen much the same work on the face of the Emperor, on the face of the heavy-jawed Surocco, on the face of the buoyant, vital Von Falkenhayn, Minister of War; on the face of the heavy-jawed Surocco, on the face of the buoyant, vital Von Falkenhayn, Minister of War; on the face of the heavy-jawed Surocco, on the face of the buoyant, vital Von Falkenhayn, Minister of War.

BENSON MAY GIVE $100,000

Balance of $500,000 Needed on Highway Put Up to Counties.

S. Benson, pioneer Oregon lumberman, may contribute $100,000 of the $500,000 needed to complete the Columbia highway between the Multnomah County line and The Dalles, providing the balance of the required fund is forthcoming from other sources. The old man bent the wonderful eyes on him.

Amos Benson, his son, is urging the veteran good roads enthusiast to spend the money where most needed and depend upon other moneyed men or upon the counties themselves to complete the job.

The Multnomah County portion of the Columbia highway will be completed this Summer under direction of Roadmaster Yeon and the road will be passable all the way to The Dalles.

"You would find a few rough spots that will need careful attention and require the expenditure of a large sum."

"I would, excellency," said the young Lieutenant.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Lieutenant Benson, excellency."

Amid turmoil and anxiety, such as no soldier has faced since Wellington stood on the northern slopes of Waterloo, the General's mind leaped back precisely 50 years, to the day when he was a lad in the cadet school.

"I had a comrade, that name when I was in cadet school."

"He was my father, excellency," the Lieutenant replied.

"I would find a few rough spots that will need careful attention and require the expenditure of a large sum."

"I would, excellency," said the young Lieutenant.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Lieutenant Benson, excellency."

Amid turmoil and anxiety, such as no soldier has faced since Wellington stood on the northern slopes of Waterloo, the General's mind leaped back precisely 50 years, to the day when he was a lad in the cadet school.

"I had a comrade, that name when I was in cadet school."

"He was my father, excellency," the Lieutenant replied.

"I would find a few rough spots that will need careful attention and require the expenditure of a large sum."

"I would, excellency," said the young Lieutenant.

"What is your name?" he asked.

"Lieutenant Benson, excellency."

Amid turmoil and anxiety, such as no soldier has faced since Wellington stood on the northern slopes of Waterloo, the General's mind leaped back precisely 50 years, to the day when he was a lad in the cadet school.

CLUBMAN GOES TO PRISON

Swindler of Bank of Italy Has Other Charges Hanging Over Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 6.—John A. Prentice, attorney and clubman, who pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, was sentenced by Superior Judge Griffin today to four years and six months imprisonment at San Quentin.

The charge on which Prentice was sentenced involved the obtaining of $7500 from the Bank of Italy. Additional charges which Prentice may have to face later are pending.

Referring to his visit to Leige, Dean McClanahan said that it is a source of unmix pleasure to be able to say that the beautiful Hotel de Ville had come through the destruction without a trace of damage.

The cathedral he found had suffered heavy damage, both by shell fire and in consequence of the earthquake.

General conditions in Belgium, Dean McClanahan said:

"With the single exception of eating among the industries of Belgium are dead. The mines are worked two or three days a week, and according to estimates of the Belgian government, the owners will continue to do so, but the money for running expenses can be procured. No other form of production can even be contemplated. Some of the harvest during the coming Summer, but the quantity seems small. The outlook for Belgium seems black as night. If America and the other neutral nations fall her she will surely succumb to starvation."

Relief Work Overpoweringly Large. Of the work of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium and the Rockefeller Commission, Dean McClanahan said that the magnitude and the success of the labor undertaken is brought home overpoweringly to one who travels about Belgium.

Whether one eats in the Palace Hotel in Brussels, at the restaurant Hay among the hotels of Europe in Leige, in a wayside makeshift cafe in Louvain, or in the bread lines in Charleroi and Brussels, as I did, he realizes that he could not have had except for the devoted efforts of the Commission for Relief," he said.

In Belgium, as a whole, fully one quarter of the whole population owe their lives to this amazing exhibition of humanity. Surely the world has never seen its like."

In concluding his report, Dean McClanahan said:

"The gratitude of the Belgians to America is the most touching thing one can imagine. It is shown in many unmistakable ways. It is evidenced by exalted regard for the Stars and Stripes, which never goes unnoted. It is expressed in broken tongues of all classes of people whenever any opportunity offers. As one noble Belgian heroine, who risks her life and property every week to help her stricken working people, expressed it with tears streaming from her eyes:

"Oh, we love America! But for America we should be starving. Next to our own flag we love the Stars and Stripes."

Belgian Refugees are Treated Well. Holland and England Kind, but Unions Oppose Giving of Permanent Work.

Dutch Carry Load Alone. Outside Help Refused, Though Burden is Admitted to be Heavy. Industry, With Exception of Coal Mining, is Dead.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 6.—The needs, condition and treatment of the Belgian people are recited in a report which Professor Howard McClanahan, dean of Princeton University, submitted today to President Hibben, of the university, of his recent visit to England, Holland and Belgium. Professor McClanahan was sent abroad by the university authorities for this purpose.

In England and Holland, Dean McClanahan found that Belgian refugees were treated with every kindness and in both countries, he said, every effort was being made to furnish employment to the refugees.

In England and Holland, he said, the support of a quarter million moneyless strangers is a great strain, yet they do the work and decline to receive aid from the outside.

In Belgium, Dean McClanahan said, he was treated with the utmost courtesy by the German military authorities, who permitted him to go everywhere except near the firing lines, where he found "almost lifeless" the once gay city bearing the appearance of Wall street on a Sunday afternoon. His tour of Belgium was made in company with two German university men, who had enlisted as private soldiers, and Professor Itzhack, exchange professor last year at Columbia University, as his guide.

"The whole country from Mons to Charleroi shows the stubbornness with which the fighting was carried on. McClanahan said in his report bearing on his visit to Belgian battlefields. "The trip from Charleroi to the most depressing experiences of the war. The trip up the lovely valley of the Meuse was saddened by the spectacle of ruin on all sides."

Referring to his visit to Leige, Dean McClanahan said that it is a source of unmix pleasure to be able to say that the beautiful Hotel de Ville had come through the destruction without a trace of damage.

The cathedral he found had suffered heavy damage, both by shell fire and in consequence of the earthquake.

General conditions in Belgium, Dean McClanahan said:

"With the single exception of eating among the industries of Belgium are dead. The mines are worked two or three days a week, and according to estimates of the Belgian government, the owners will continue to do so, but the money for running expenses can be procured. No other form of production can even be contemplated. Some of the harvest during the coming Summer, but the quantity seems small. The outlook for Belgium seems black as night. If America and the other neutral nations fall her she will surely succumb to starvation."

Relief Work Overpoweringly Large. Of the work of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium and the Rockefeller Commission, Dean McClanahan said that the magnitude and the success of the labor undertaken is brought home overpoweringly to one who travels about Belgium.

W. G. THIGPEN IS MARRIED

Former Portland Hotelman Weds Mrs. Primrose at San Rafael.

W. Gainer Thigpen, former manager in the Multnomah Hotel and Oregon Hotel in Portland and Mrs. Esther Nerney Primrose, divorced wife of George Primrose the minstrel, were married Sunday in San Rafael, Cal. The announcement was made public yesterday when they left San Francisco for a wedding trip in Southern California. Mr. Thigpen has been assistant manager of the Sutter Hotel in San Francisco for some time, but tendered his resignation yesterday.

Mr. Thigpen was connected with hotels in Portland for several years, beginning his work in this city as chief clerk in the Portland under H. C. Bowers.

In 1912 he came back to Portland as chief clerk at the new Multnomah and later became assistant manager under Mr. Bowers. Thence he went to the Oregon as assistant manager, where he remained until the new hotel was taken over by S. Benson and renamed the Benson.

Returning to the South he purchased the Wake Robin Inn in the Santa Cruz mountains. Mrs. Thigpen owns property there also. His engagement to Mrs. Primrose had been known to his friends for some time and the announcement of the marriage was not unexpected.

ONE OFFICER MAKES RAID

Patrolman Wellbrook Arrests Four in Alleged Opium Den.

Patrolman Wellbrook broke into an alleged opium den at 62 1/2 Second street yesterday afternoon and in a brief search secured two white men and two Chinese which followed the officer succeeded in arresting all four. The prisoners gave their names as Barney Peterson, 71 years old; H. E. Murdoch, 37 years old; Ah Yow and Ah Moon. They were lodged in the city jail. Ah Moon is charged with conducting the place and was held under $1000 bond.

It is seldom that white men are found in Chinese dens and the patrolman who attempted the raid single-handed, was surprised at the vigorous resistance which met him. With his fist Wellbrook knocked one of the men to the floor and with the butt of his gun subdued the other. The Chinese put up little resistance.

Peterson and Ah Moon are charged with having opium in their possession in addition to the charge against the latter of conducting the den and against the former of visiting it. Murdoch and Ah Yow are charged with visiting the place.

HOPMEN ELECT MARCH 20. Oregon Association Also to Adopt Constitution and By-Laws.

SALEM, Or., March 6.—(Special.)—Announcement was made today that permanent officers of the Oregon Hop-growers' Association would be elected at the meeting in this city on March 20. A constitution and by-laws also will be adopted.

Temporary Secretary Paul said today that the Stock of Independence, had joined the association and subscribed for $1000 stock, which he believed, indicated that all Chinese growers of opium would become members and increase the capital stock subscribed by $20,000. Mr. Paul said that the cooperation of the Chinese growers would assure the success of the association, for it would remove all their crops from the contract market.

George Secor Not Arrested. George Secor, who lives at the Cambridge building, Third and Morrison streets, yesterday issued a statement explaining that he was not the George Sekore who was arrested several days ago on the charge of stealing a mattress from an apartment. Some of Mr. Secor's friends had confounded him.

"77" For Grip, Influenza, Coughs, Sore Throat. COLDS. "Seventy-seven" for Colds and Grip is carefully prepared from a prescription of Frederick Humphreys, M. D., Late Professor of Institutes of Homeopathy, Pathology and Medical Practice in the Homeopathic Medical College of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; author of "Dysentery and Its Treatment," "Cholera and Its Treatment," etc., etc.

"Seventy-seven" is a dependable remedy for Colds and Grip, pleasant to take, handy to carry, fits the vest pocket.

25c and $1.00, at all druggists or mailed. Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., 129 William Street, New York.

At Gray's New Store are Covert Suits

some catchy models with and without belts—uniquely different for

Miss and her Mother

While you are looking at these in the windows you'll see the Waists in the New Putty and Sand Shades that are having a first showing here. The economy of quality will appeal to your judgment.

R. M. GRAY

Washington at West Park Stevens Building Clothier to Men and Women

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

25-Cent Bottle of "Danderine" Makes Hair Thick, Glossy and Wavy.

Removes All Dandruff, Stops Itching Scalp and Falling Hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and sure within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two-weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only cure hair growth, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten with a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this. —Adv.

Here Is Good News for Stomach Victims

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing, soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear.

George H. Mayr, for 20 years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing by this treatment, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles.

Though absolutely harmless the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within 24 hours sufferers feel like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is sold by leading druggists everywhere with the positive understanding, that no money will be refunded without question or quibble if ONE bottle fails to give you absolute satisfaction.—Adv.

Tobacco Habit Cured

Not only to users of pipe and cigars, but the vicious cigarette habit is overcome by using the "NIPITATE" treatment. Price, complete, postage paid, $1.00. Lause-Davis Drug Co., 33 and 35th St., Portland, Or. (When writing mention this paper.)

ALBANY EDUCATOR HEAD OF NEW ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Professor C. W. Boettcher.

ALBANY, Or., March 6.—(Special.)—Professor C. W. Boettcher, who has been chosen first president of the recently organized Oregon High School Athletic Association, is superintendent of the Albany public schools. The new association will include all of the high schools of the state. Mr. Boettcher was chosen for the board from this section of the state and Professor J. S. Landers, superintendent of the Pendleton public schools, from Eastern Oregon, is secretary-treasurer. State Superintendent Churchill is vice-president. Professor Boettcher was chairman of the committee named by the Oregon State Teachers' Association to frame the by-laws and regulations of the association.