M. MINNVILLE EDUCATIONAL SYS. TEM BRINGS MANY QUERIES

Leading Journals Comment Upon Methods and Advise City, Says Superintendent.

M. MINNVILLE, Or., March 13.—(Special.)—Perhaps the most far reaching advertising that McMinnville has ever had is coming through its Junior High School, which has been discussed in several of the leading educational periodicals and has attracted the attention of school authorities in all parts of the country.

The working of the school has been so satisfactory and the plan is so popular with both students and patrons that the school officials here think that the small, compact city of McMinnville has received a small bulletin has been prepared to answer them. The superintendent of the school has received letters of inquiry from seven different states.

Danger of Curvature of Spine is Warded Off by Operation on Tissues Growing Together.

CALDWELL, Idaho, March 13.—(Special.)—The use of her right arm practically has been restored to Helen McCarty, aged five, by a series of delicate skin-grafting operations.

Since coming here with her mother and sister last Fall, strangers have befriended the little girl. A surgeon volunteered an operation and the hospital reduced its fees to actual expense.

Late in December, the scar tissue was removed to the depth of about half an inch. Since that time operations have been performed in an attempt to transfer new skin to the maimed little body.

played in rural schools and the characteristics of the districts.

In accordance with the results shown by the survey and the observations made by Professor Pittman, the courses at the Normal School will be constructed to meet the timely needs of rural schools. Plans are to be made for a large gathering of rural instructors at the summer session, which commences in June, at which meeting methods for the proposed adoption of the consolidation plan will be discussed.

Wherever great distances between schools prevent consolidation the grouping of grades has been recommended. Five grades are declared to be the limit for one teacher and eight grades the limit for any two teachers in a school, and teachers should have a greater freedom for specialization.

By one of these two methods it is planned that each Oregon rural school may be economically improved.
