Children Organize for Work.

The war having robbed the country of most of its able-bodied men, tens of thousands of boys and girls have been released from the schools and, to-gether with the married women, they are being pressed into service. By a special decree of the Austrian Ministry all children between 12 and 14 years NEW CROPS ARE SOUGHT old are excused from school work, and this bost of child labor is being or-ganized systematically like an army.

this host of child labor is being organized systematically like an army. The older boys are acting as officers. The purpose is to send these young people out into the fields in order to secure the best possible results in the army have demanded higher pay. To be part the old wages. They demanded higher pay. died." "I got up a few minutes before $ o'clock to make the fire." Mrs. Diffley said. "I heard the boys in their room and Amos was talking. I said, 'Don't get up while it's so cold." Then I went into the kitchen and had barely set a match to the fire when I heard a fall. Clarence had fallen off the bed as he was cetting up. was getting up.

"He was just getting up from the floor when I went in. His gown was wet I took it off and took him into the a floor when I went in this work in the wet. I look it off and took him into the kitchen. As I had no warm water with under the fresh water faucet. I washed him with this and dried him with a towel and wrapped the towel around him. I scolded him for wetting the bed and took him into the bedroom. I stood him up on a trunk and took his nightgown out onto the porch to wash it. I reached around the back porch and got a little awlich, about so long." Here Mrs. Diffley measured a dis-tance about six inches. "I told him what I was going to switch him for, and switched him quite seccrely on the bare skin. This was the only time I ever switched him on the bare skin. He cried quite a little. I put him on the trunk again and went to find something to put on him. The Headlands was a steamer of 1954 tons and was 314 feet long. She was built at West Hartlepool, England, in 1892 and was owned by the Sefton Steamship Company of Liverpool. The latest report concerning her move-ments said that she arrived at Port Talbot, England, on February 2 from Morselles Marseilles

Headlands Struck Amidship.

"At 10:40 o'clock in the morning through the telescope I saw an upward rush of black smoke, apparently the re-sult of the explosion of a torpedo. The Headlands evidently was struck amidships, for she began to settle down by the stern. The submarine went off to the westward, and apparently was pursuing a third steamer when she disappeared from the view of those on which we did. He then blow up the streamer." The Indian City was a new yessel, and was on her maiden yoyage. The announcement of the Admiralty in which the sinking of the Invergyle is mentioned says that since March 10, seven British merchant steam-ers had been torpedoed by sub-marines. Two of these, it is said, were sunk, and of two others it is said that "the sinking is not con-firmed." Three were not sunk. The two steamers whose reported sinking is not yot confirmed officially are the Florazan, which was torpedoed at the mouth of the Bristol Channel on March 11, all of her crew being landed

"Mrs. O'Keefe came over at once. We put hot water on him and wrapped him in blankets. We rubbed his hands, wrists and feet in the hot water, but he got no better. His head still fell to one side." She told of a physician then being called and the futile efforts to revive the child. Court adjourned at noon with Mrs. Diffley still on the stand. WOMAN PIONEER IS DEAD
