

NEED OF WORLD IS TOLD AT GLANCE

Survey of All Markets Shows Field for Output of Oregon Boxmakers.

COMPETITORS ALSO LISTED

University and Other Forces Join in Effort to Discover Where Goods Are in Demand; Remote Consulates Make Reports.

For four months letters that indicate the immense consumption of box shooks in the markets of the world have been streaming into the department of industrial survey of the University of Oregon School of Commerce.

As a result, a mass of information has been assembled that serves to guide the box manufacturers of the Pacific Northwest in determining their ability to compete in the world's markets.

several Surveys Proposed.

This world's survey of the box shook market is one of a number of concrete attempts, proceeding from several sources, to get Oregon industries on a permanent basis of world trade.

The scope of the box shook inquiry is shown by the names of places from which consular agencies have so far reported. A few of them are:

Many Consulates Report. Johannesburg, Union of South Africa; Glasgow and Dunfermline, Scotland; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Barcelona, Spain; Liverpool, Bristol, Rotterdam, Stockholm, Trondheim, London, Birmingham and other cities in England; Hankow and Canton, China; Vladivostok, Siberia; Pretoria, Sierra Leone, Africa; Tenerife, Canary Islands; Tegucigalpa, Honduras; Turin, Catania and other cities of Italy; Valetta, Malta; Amsterdam, Holland; Dairen, Manchuria; Sydney, Australia; Barranquilla, Colombia and Guayaquil, Ecuador.

The survey was inaugurated among the University School of Commerce, which H. B. Miller, of Portland, is director; the Northwestern Association of Box Manufacturers, of which J. B. Knapp, of Portland, is manager, and the United States Consular Service.

Domestic Questions Forwarded.

The box manufacturers' association compiled a list of questions so specific as to cover most of the foreign information an Oregon or Washington manufacturer would require in order to know whether he could furnish box shooks to a given field.

Box Makers Learn of Markets.

"The attention of the Northwest box manufacturers is being called to the prospective good markets, and we are establishing a correspondence with the consumers or importers represented in the markets reported upon," said Manager Knapp to whose association the data are referred by Director Miller.

Scandinavian Worst Competitor.

Oregon and Washington find their principal competition in box shooks from Scandinavia, Quebec and possibly Japan. The Korean woods produce a strong, colorless, white and as a labor is cheaper in the European forests and mills and on the European docks than correspondingly in the Pacific Northwest, the Scandinavian countries have so far had the bulk of the trade in Northern European countries.

Price Editor Figured.

"When this information is classified and furnished to a mill man, he checks up the transportation factor, and knows immediately at what price he can lay down his box shooks in a given consular district. From the consular data he knows the prevailing price charged in that district by foreign competitors. If he can compete he knows what to do; if not, he has wasted no money prospecting.

Labor Meeting to Be Wednesday.

Eugene E. Smith, of the Central Labor Council, announced yesterday that a public meeting had been arranged for next Wednesday night at the Central Library, where the proposed road bond issue would be discussed.

POLICE MOTORCYCLE SQUAD, WHO ARE PORTLAND'S "MINUTE MEN" IN GUARDING LIFE AND PROPERTY.

MANY BURGLARS TRAPPED

Members of Small Squad Act as Advance Guard for Larger Body of Officers and Also Catch Speeders and Others.

To test the efficiency of police protection for the state in the City Hall, City Treasurer Adams sounded the electric burglar alarm connected with the police station late one night last winter.

The first alarm was yet ringing when Motorcycle Patrolmen Gouldstone and Crane rolled their machines out of the police garage, and set off for the City Hall at top speed.

"Two and one-half minutes since I sounded the alarm," said Mr. Adams, smiling, "guess the safe is pretty well guarded."

"Half a minute later the police touring car arrived with a squad of officers under Captain Inskeep. This incident illustrates the work of the motorcycle squad. There are two men on each relief.

Suppose a woman on Mount Tabor telephones the police that a burglar is trying to enter her window. The officer on the Mount Tabor beat may not report to the station for an hour. The telephone operator calls the signal for the motorcycle men in the garage.

"East Sixty-fifth and Yamhill, burglar trying to get into house on northeast corner," the operator says over the telephone. Away go the two men. Rain or shine, paved streets or mud roads, they dash along at from 25 to 50 miles an hour. At the end of the journey they may find a burglar armed to the teeth or a hungry cat trying to steal a piece of meat.

For the reason that they are generally first on the scene of action, the motorcycle men are especially fortunate in apprehending criminals.

Patrolmen Tully and Morris, the men under Captain Circle, made exceptional records during the last winter. These officers arrested Earl Riley and Jesse Wing, charged with robbing a Chinaman in his restaurant at 267 Davis street.

Tully and Morris also arrested Harry Melton, Al Davison and B. F. Smith, charged with the larceny of perfume from several drugstores, last month. The same officers corralled R. R. Haggard, a notorious burglar in the home of Lee Fong, 717 Rodney avenue, last week. Since the officers did not know how many burglars were in the house, they waited for reinforcements before entering the building.

Burglar Cooking Is Arrested. Goldstone and Crane arrested William Boskovich, a burglar, who last February entered the home of J. A. Kullstrom, at 190 Macleay boulevard, by smashing two doors with an axe.

The same officers corralled Roy Putnam, charged with annoying small girls in the Laurelhurst district. Thirty complaints from nursery parents were received by the police before Putnam was captured.

Patrolmen Bales and Coulter, the motorcycle officers under Captain Moore, have worked together but a short time. Bales says he has been a member of the squad four years. He says he has ridden 30,000 miles on emergency calls without an accident.

"My hobby is wife-beaters," said Bales last week. "I'd rather catch a wife-beater than a burglar."

Bales captured Giles Chapin, charged with frightening small girls in the vicinity of the Chapman School. Chapin was arrested at the Oregon State Insane Asylum, Ralph Jones center, last week for a year in jail for the alleged theft of Dr. Sanford Whitling's automobile, was likewise arrested by Bales.

Another well-known man arrested by Coulter was Charles Barker, a local millionaire, whom Coulter charged with a charge of killing his wife in 1912. Haas attempted suicide in a hotel at that corner, but he tried to shoot Coulter when the officer arrested him. Haas died later in a hospital from his self-inflicted wound.
