

MR. LISTER MAY RUN FOR SENATE

Disaffection Among Washington Republicans Thought Democratic Opportunity.

HIGH POST EYED BY MANY

Mr. Poindexter's Road Back to Capitol Regarded as Hazy by Observers, of Which One Hanson Is by No Means Least.

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 24.—(Special.)—That Governor Lister may take advantage of the disaffection among the Republican ranks to become the Democratic candidate for United States Senator next year is the report that has been repeated about the capitol this week, since Senator Poindexter has renounced the Progressive party and announced his candidacy for re-election as a Republican.

Ever since Senator Poindexter's return to the Republican fold was forecasted it has been evident that his candidacy for re-election would be received with anything but enthusiasm by Republican party leaders generally. In spite of opposition from the organization, however, it is apparent that Mr. Poindexter can count on the support of a considerable number of voters of both parties, especially in Eastern Washington. Thus whether he should be nominated or defeated in the Republican primaries, the Democrats see strong chances of a division in party's ranks.

Retirement is Denied. This situation is the cause of the talk of Governor Lister as the Democratic candidate for Senator. It has been generally assumed that the Governor would be a candidate for re-election, and should his ambition run along this line, it is reasonably certain that he would be given the party nomination without opposition. During the legislative session the story was spread broadcast that the executive would seek no further political honors, but would retire to private life at the end of his present term. The Governor, however, has made it plain to his friends that this story was originated by his political opponents, and that he has by no means made up his mind as to his future course.

That Governor Lister could obtain the nomination of his party for the Senate without a fight is not certain. Ex-Senator Turner, of Spokane, narrowly defeated by second choice votes for the nomination last year, served notice immediately thereafter that he was in the race for Mr. Poindexter's seat, and there has been much talk of S. J. Chadwick, Judge of the Superior Court, though Judge Chadwick is not yet certain of his own course.

Governorship Has Bearing. Whether Governor Lister finally gets into the Senatorial scramble will depend largely upon whether the Democrats can find a strong candidate for Governor. One story has it that David S. Troy, ex-State Senator, of Jefferson County, was to be taken into the state administration as Commissioner of Agriculture and incidentally a possible candidate for Governor. Mr. Troy's business associates objected to his giving up his connection, however, and he declined the position proffered by the Governor. At the present time not one of the Governor's appointees appears to have developed sufficient individual strength to make him a suitable candidate for Governor. If a strong candidate is to be found he probably will have to come from outside the Statehouse.

What Mr. Hanson, of Seattle, will do is another question that has been interesting politicians since Mr. Poindexter's announcement of his own candidacy was made. Mr. Hanson's probable activities, but political observers are unanimous in believing that the course the Seattle mayor will take will be to either decide to inconvenience Mr. Poindexter most. When Mr. Hanson was putting up a capable fight for Senator last year, he was in possession of a ticket, Senator Poindexter was actively campaigning for the same ticket, but in other states. He drifted into Spokane a day or two before election and has never explained his disregard of the Washington fight to the satisfaction of Hanson supporters.

Possible Contenders Mentioned. W. E. Humphrey, dean of the Washington delegation in the lower house of Congress, and ex-Governor McBride are the men most mentioned as candidates of the regular Republican wing for the Senatorial nomination next year, but it is well within the bounds of possibility that Mr. Hanson might enter the race himself, and that he would rather than to destroy Mr. Poindexter's chances.

While in Washington for the next few months, Senator Poindexter will make efforts to lead remaining Progressives back into the Republican party to support him at the primaries in September. It is thought that the Washington Progressives generally are expected to follow this course, but Mr. Moore of the coast counties have not yet made up their minds. Feeling still exists on the part of Progressives who were members of the last Legislature against the Republican majority, and Senator Poindexter apparently has inflamed rather than allayed this irritation by denouncing the Legislature as reactionary, at the same time that he announced his renewed espousal of Republicanism.

18 OF 27 IN CLASS TEACH

RURAL DISTRICTS SEEK MANY NORMAL SCHOOL GRADUATES. Numerous Members Sign Contracts Before Receiving Their Diplomas. Summer Session Draws.

MONMOUTH, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—Of 27 students graduating from the Oregon Normal School at this year, 18 are teaching in the better schools of the state. Positions were offered many members of the class several months before the completion of their courses and some signed contracts before receiving their diplomas. The demand for teachers in the rural districts especially has been strong, according to the letters received by the administration office of the school, asking for recommendations of students. Boards of directors are showing, according to the correspondence, a preference for the normal-trained teacher. The Normal School has installed courses in the judging of stock, rural economics and sociology, school gardening, and domestic science and art, to prepare students to meet the problems in the rural sections. Of the 251 graduates teaching in the schools of the Northwest the records of the registrar show that more than two-thirds are teaching in rural schools. Within the past three years the demand for teachers has shifted from the larger cities to the small agricultural communities. At the summer school session, which commenced in Monmouth June 23, a large number of the rural teachers, supervisors and superintendents from over the state are to gather and discuss methods for betterment of the systems now in vogue. Among the important topics to come up are the supervisory system and the proposed consolidation of rural schools.

The 18 graduates and the places where they are teaching follow: James E. Hildner, Steiner, Nichols, Newport; Rhoda Newkirk, Alsea; Isaac Benson, Harney; H. E. Hildner, Harney; Bessie Icknara, Falls City; Leona Jackson, Newberg; Julia Hux, North Bend; Meta Hanson, Astoria; William C. Moore, Astoria; Lydia Brown, Blind School, Salem; O. A. Hildner, La Grande; Bertha Allen, Forest Grove.

TAXPAYER OF 60 YEARS DIES AT COTTAGE GROVE AT 85.

Edward P. Redford, of Cottage Grove, Or., April 23.—(Special.)—Edward P. Redford, a resident of the Cottage Grove country for 60 years and one of the best-known pioneers of Lane County, died here April 23, following an illness of several months, at the age of 85 years.

Mr. Redford came across the plains from Kentucky by ox team in 1850, settling first in California. In 1852 he moved to Portland and in 1863 he bought a farm of 220 acres north of here, where he lived until moving to Cottage Grove in 1882. For nearly 60 years he had appeared personally before the tax collector to pay his assessments. His widow and four children survive. John M. of Creswell; James E. of Cottage Grove; George W. of this city, and Mrs. Armstrong, of California. He served in the Rogue River Indian War.

HOME INDUSTRY IS AIDED

TWIN FALLS DEVOTES WEEK TO PROMOTING PRODUCTS. Women Are Moving Spiritedly in Observation and Many Kinds of Portland Goods Are Shown.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, April 24.—(Special.)—The observance of Home Industry week in Twin Falls closed with a big "home products" banquet given by the women of the Twentieth Century Club. There was a general observance of the week throughout the city, practically all the stores having special window displays of Northwest products. Special sales of these products were held. Many kinds of Portland canned goods and other products were shown in Oregon were on special display. The home industry movement originated in Twin Falls three years ago through the efforts of Mrs. R. W. Spangler, of this city, editors of the New West magazine. The clubwomen of the state have stood back of the movement. Annual proclamations are issued by the Governor of Idaho, calling attention to and advocating the observance of Home Industry week, and the movement is growing in scope. Letters commending the work of Mrs. Spangler were received by them from Governor Withycombe, of Oregon, Lister, of Washington, Alexander, of Idaho, and Stewart, of Montana.

BIG WATER SUIT DISMISSED

Action at Weiser Against 562 Dropped by Plaintiffs.

WEISER, Idaho, April 24.—(Special.)—The suit involving all the water rights along the Weiser River, which was filed in the District Court here March 28, has been dismissed by the court in the action. Only two of the irrigation companies involved made answer to the complaint, and those were the Middle Valley Irrigation Ditch Company and the Weiser Irrigation Company. Defendants to the number of 562 were named and included all the individual water-users and irrigation companies along the Weiser River and its tributaries. Numerous notices to the defendants already had been served and the work was still in progress when the notice of dismissal was received from Judge Bryan by County Clerk Smith.

Albany Parcel Business Big.

ALBANY, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—Two thousand and sixty parcel post packages were delivered from the Albany postoffice during the first 15 days of April. Of this number 91 were mailed from Albany, 1,969 were received from other cities. A total of 1,977 packages were mailed here during the same period for transportation to other cities by parcel post. Ninety-seven of them were insured, and the total postage received was $187. These statistics were compiled for the Government Postoffice Department to show the growth of the parcel post business.

Cornelius Club Gives Tea.

CORNELIUS, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—The members of the Cornelius club gave a tea at the Shells Hall Tuesday. Hostesses for the occasion were: Mesdames Sholes, B. Schofield, Fizer, Harwood, Taylor, Fugh, Ritchie, W. T. Schofield and Benson. Refreshments were served and a silver offering was taken to assist in the club work. A public installation of the newly elected officers will take place at the Methodist Church May 4, when Mrs. Sarah Evans of Portland, president of the State Federation, will give a lecture.

Briefly Steaking J. G. Mack & Co. to Remain in Business

In all seriousness we announced, some time ago, our intention to close out our business, this owing to the uncertainty of conditions existing at the time, to-wit: The sale of the property and the disposal of the lease of our old location, and lack of suitable new quarters available, uncertain business conditions, etc. That we have changed our minds is to no little extent due to our friends and customers, who have steadily encouraged us to continue to serve them in our line as of old. A substantial portion of our stock yet unsold, and the general up-trend of the business outlook, the unexpected opportunity of obtaining new quarters within one block and a half of our former store and at a rental far below it, are a few of the many reasons which, we believe, warrant our remaining in business. We invite your inspection of our new five-story building and the displays of our different departments.

LANE FRUIT HELD SAFE

DANGER FROM FROST GONE, BUT PRUNES APPEAR SHORT. J. O. Holt Also Thinks Fewer Cherries Indicated Than Recently—Explanation of Dropping Given.

EUGENE, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—Lane County fruit has passed the frost period without injury and only freeze damage is now, according to J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit-growers' Association, who has completed a brief survey of the county's fruit in an effort to estimate the crops. He finds, however, a shortage in prunes in comparison to indications two weeks ago, and a slight shortage in cherries through parts of the county, though in neither case as serious as last year. Reports from Salem indicate similar conditions and reports from California indicate a marked shortage of prunes all over the Coast. "It has come to pass," said Mr. Fordney, "that where men make a success in business they are regarded as dishonest and corrupt and when they fail they are called fools."

Senator Clark urged intensive farming and especially scientific farming. He praised the agriculture expert idea.

FRUIT SAVING TO BE TRIED

Idaho University Plans Experiment to Eliminate Waste.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, April 24.—(Special.)—Equipment is being installed by the horticultural department of the University to conduct a huge fruit saving experiment this summer and fall. The plant is of small enough size that it can be installed in any farm or orchard and will be used by the Idaho experts as a means of getting the exact cost of utilizing garden and orchard by-products. All varieties of small and large fruits, berries and vegetables will be dried and put in salable form. The two principal objects of the experiment will be to determine the time required for the evaporation of the various fruits and the cost of steam evaporation. It is believed the experiments will result in a saving of thousands of dollars in evaporated fruits that are now lost every year in Idaho and the Northwest.

KLAMATH FALLS IS SUED

Woman Alleges Property Ruined by Change of Street Grade.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—The second damage suit to be filed against the City of Klamath Falls within the week has been brought by Mrs. E. M. Marple, who alleges that the city has ruined her property on Klamath avenue, near Second street, by insufficient drainage, and asks damages of $405 for being deprived of the use of the property and $250 for depreciation in the value of the property. The complaint charges that in 1910 and 1911, when Klamath avenue and second street were paved, the street levels were raised several feet and that the flow of spring on an adjoining lot was diverted to Mrs. Marple's property.

Albany Gets New Brick Building.

ALBANY, Or., April 24.—(Special.)—Work has begun on the erection of a brick building, which will contain seven storerooms, at the corner of First and Lyon streets, in this city. While only one story in height, the building will be an important improvement in that portion of the city's business section, as it will replace old wooden structures. The building will have a frontage of 89 feet on First street and extend backward 40 feet on Lyon street. It is being erected by E. L. Terrell.
