

HEIGHTS CHILDREN HAVE THEIR PARADE

Little Polly Sherman, Queen of Pageant, Leads Rose-Decked Procession.

FLOATS ARE BEAUTIFUL

Crowds of Enthusiastic People on Walks and Curb Along Line of March—Silver Cups Given Four Best Exhibits.

Little Polly Sherman, 2 years old, sweetest of queens, in her garland of roses and her tiny armine robe, led the procession at the annual children's parade given yesterday afternoon by the little ones of Willamette Heights.

All in all, it was an exceedingly pretty, colorful and a most interesting about 25 small vehicles, whose outlines and identity were mostly lost under burdens of floral decorations, represented as many float conceptions of the child's mind. All were pretty, some were exceedingly beautiful.

There were decorated bicycles, tricycles, wagons, go-carts, sailboats, doll buggies, toy-carts and all the wheeled playthings dear to the hearts of the little ones. Clowns, Punks, Colored girls, fairies, Scotch bagpipers and dancers, all were in evidence.

Boys Pull Floats. Saller boys in uniform tugged manfully at the traces of the floats, like real Jack Tars hauling up the steep incline on Franklin street. Manfully, they stuck to their lines.

Silent little girls, with big, serious eyes, trudged quietly along, conscious and proud of their part in the great event. Happy, laughing lassies walked by their sides, with the joyousness of the occasion.

Everything combined to make a perfect day. The bright, warm, sunshiny afternoon, the cool, fresh air on the heights, the great profusion of roses. In the floral decorations roses were the predominant flower, thus affording the opportunity for striking designs in other flowers.

George Kleiser, Jr., Marshal. Young George Kleiser, Jr., president of the parade, was a most dignified and pleasing marshal. George was everywhere, and always on the job, and he was so busy after the parade with the newspapermen that he nearly missed his ice cream when the delicious confection was served to all the participants on the lawn where the parade disbanded.

Starting in about 1 o'clock, the procession, in single column, headed by Franklin street to Thurman, up Thurman two blocks, then counter-marched and retraced its steps, along the line of march there were crowds of enthusiastic spectators on the walks and on the curbing, and everybody's lawn was trampled on in the rush for vantage places.

The Juvenile Drum Corps, unfortunately, was unable to be present and there was no martial music. As a result no one had to bother keeping step. It was just an informal little society circus parade.

Prizes Are Awarded. Upon its return to the starting point, the procession halted and divided, lining up on both sides of the street. A committee of four judges undertook to select the four best exhibits. The only reason they selected four was that there were not prizes for more.

The two most elaborate floats were selected because they simply could not be ignored. It was quite a task to decide who the other two prizes would be awarded to among the 27 remaining ones. Trusting to be forgiven, the committee selected two more.

The first prize went to a float in which Jack Kleiser, 2½ years old, was an exquisitely captivating Cupid in his little white tights. He carried the golden bow and arrow of his calling and held it aloft, as if he were guiding a stately swan as the float rolled smoothly along. It was a wonderful sight, little picture the tiny lad made in his float.

Frank Baum Gets Second. The second prize went to little Frank Baum in a float which was a remarkable bower of yellow iris, the child sitting erect under the best exhibits of the same flowers, a strikingly hardy some staging.

Not far behind was the best doll car in which Eloise Huggins and Marion McLaughlin exhibited their childish decorative tastes in flowers, and the prize for the most unique entry to Beulah Belcher and Sylvia Strain, the pretty little pany girls, one of whom led the way, while the other followed holding a colored leading string. This was a clever and pretty idea.

There were many pretty, clever and attractive costumes and make-ups, and as the little ones marched along they were greeted with long-continued handclapping and applause.

Prizes Silver Cups. The prizes were silver cups which were donated by Mrs. George Kleiser and her son, George, Jr., Mrs. F. J. Cobb and Julius L. Meier.

After the parade started, none of the elders took part excepting T. T. Strain who exercised a general supervision and went along just to be on hand in case anything went wrong, but it didn't.

When it was all over and the spectators were returning to their homes, the little participants were all scattered in happy groups around the lawn of the Strain residence on Franklin street back of the goodies that were passed around.

The children who took part were Katherine Clarke, Ellice Jean Howard, Virginia Zan, Geraldine Brown, F. J. (Buddy) Cobb, Jr., Leland Fenton, Stewart Belcher, Florence Fowler, Betty Goodwin, Ruth Goodwin, Katherine Durkee, Lenore Durkee, Philip Gosselin, Leslie Gosselin, Jocelyn Burke, Tom Burke, Polly Sherman, George Edwards, Irving Huntington, Charlotte Malbourn, Mary Griffin, Nana Smith, Ruth Walters, Frederick Brayton, Charles McPherson, Maxwell McPherson, Francis Montgomery, Willie Clark, Clark, Jack McDougall, Nat McDougall, Jr., Tom Wilson, Jim Ames, Teddy Ames, Alton Baker and Bobby Baker.

Hospital Orderly Is Bound Over. Harry J. Clarke, formerly an orderly at the County Hospital, who is alleged to have put to his own use $50 that he is said to have taken from a patient after promising to marry her and to place the money in the postal savings bank, was bound over to the grand jury on a larceny charge, when he appeared before Municipal Judge Stevenson yesterday.

Cruiser North Carolina Floated. WASHINGTON, May 29.—The armored cruiser North Carolina, which grounded in the outer harbor of Alexandria, Egypt, has been floated without damage.

PARADE PLAN NOVEL

Floral Procession Will Counter-march on East Side.

ENTRIES ARE COMING IN

New Plan Will Enable Participants to View Pageant Which Is Expected to Be Most Gorgeous Ever Presented in Portland.

Participants in the annual floral parade this year will have an opportunity to view all automobiles and vehicles appearing in the great pageant. The executive committee of the board of patronesses, of which Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett is chairman and Miss Henrietta Palling vice-chairman, has been assured that this will be a feature of the June 11 parade.

Ira F. Powers, festival director in charge of the parade, has arranged for the automobiles, motorcycles, fire apparatus, Hunt Club members and the floats of colleges and schools will counter-march on Grand avenue, on the East Side, making the most gorgeous spectacle of the kind ever presented.

Counter-marching will be between East Burnside street and Hawthorne avenue. Nine bands in the parade will be stationed along the line of counter-march, providing music every two blocks. This will offer a feature of the floral parade never before seen in Portland.

Miss Valentine Prichard, secretary of the executive committee of the board of patronesses, reports there is great interest in the coming floral parade among club and society women of the city.

Many Cars Promised. Members of this committee met at the home of Mrs. Corbett this week and from reports made by women representing different sections of Portland, it was ascertained that this organization will be the result of bringing in not less than 100 beautifully decorated cars.

District reports that six cars will be entered, one of which will be given over entirely to children. Meetings are soon to be held in Portland Heights and other sections. District representatives are reporting to Mrs. Corbett, Miss Palling and Miss Prichard, a record of the entries is being kept.

"We have found there is splendid interest among the society and club women of Portland in the coming floral parade," said Miss Prichard. "While there will be many cars entered, not all wish anyone to remain out of the parade. It is believed there can be no objection to our wanting everyone in the line of march at Meier & Frank's for the benefit of the floral parade. Those who do not have cars can donate roses and help decorate cars that will be entered."

More Workers Needed. The executive committee is also desirous of hearing from sections of Portland not represented on the executive committee. Workers in these districts are wanted, and if they will notify Marshall 2276 we will outline our plan of campaign."

More than 50 photographs of decorated automobiles, vehicles and floats in general in floral parades in Portland and other cities are being shown at Meier & Frank's for the benefit of those who are interested in the success of the floral parade.

"With such an unusual interest in this feature," said Ira F. Powers, chairman of the floral parade committee, "the pageant is bound to be a success. In years past I have found that many people did not wish to enter cars since they could not review the parade. By counter-marching on Grand avenue every participant in the spectacle will have an opportunity to see every float in the big parade. The line of counter-march will cover more than a mile."

Car Decorations Planned. "Hundreds of invitations to take part in the parade have been sent out to automobile owners. The Portland fire department, Portland Automobile Club, Portland Motorcycle Club, schools, colleges and organizations in former parades have assured me they would turn out on a grander scale than ever before. New designs will be used and roses will predominate in the work of decoration."

"We have just arranged for two cups to be given the agency in Portland representing the manufacturer having the greatest number of cars in the floral parade in proportion to 1915 license issued in Multnomah County to June 1. We request dealers who will have headquarters 10 days before the parade. There must be not less than 100 cars in the parade. The executive committee of the board of patronesses are the following: Mrs. W. B. Patterson, Laurelhurst; Mrs. L. Vanduya, Miss Palling, Miss

Goodyear Passes Goodyear $500,000 Better Yet Users Pay $5,000,000 Less

Note these amazing facts: Goodyear tires, as built this year, will cost us $500,000 more than if built like 1914 Goodyears. That's because of improvements. Yet this year's output will cost our users some five million dollars less than if sold at 1914 prices. That's because of a big price reduction, made February 1st. It was our third in two years, totaling 45 per cent.

Why Better Tires? You ask why we add that half-million dollars in face of such reductions. We have always added every betterment our experts could discover. And we spend on research $100,000 yearly just to seek improvements out. Goodyears may pass Goodyears, but we make sure that no rival ever can.

What Extras Cost Goodyear Fortified Tires embody many extras. Five of them are features found in no other tire that's built. Others are found in but few. Based on current output, those extras this year will cost us $1,635,000. That is, if we omitted our exclusive features, which all others do omit— And other protections which most makers omit— We could probably add to our profits this year more than 1 1/2 million dollars. But What of You? But Goodyear users would pay. Those extras save our users many times the cost to us. In those extras lies the reason why Goodyear outsells any other tire. And in that mammoth output lies the reason for the value that we give. Think of these things when other tires are offered. Each Goodyear extra means a saving to you. Any dealer, if you ask him, can supply you Goodyear tires. (311)

Two Towns Seek Pacific Highway.

CENTRALIA, Wash., May 29.—(Special.)—Residents of Bucoda and Grand Mound are putting up a stiff fight to secure the permanent route of the Pacific Highway for their respective communities. The highway must pass through Tenino and Centralia, but the route between these two points is optional with the State Highway Board. The Bucoda people presented a petition to the board several months ago and yesterday a delegation of Grand Mound residents secured the promise of the board that no action will be taken in the matter until the members of the board have made a trip over both routes to determine which is the best.
