TREND OF PUBLIC SENTIMENT SPRINGS FORTH IN LETTER

this is a good thing unless—and here is the rub—the price be not too great. The only nation in the world which has literally practiced meckness and gassive resistance is China, the oldest nation of all those now existing. If there is anything in Christianity at all now is the time to demonstrate it or for ever put away all this cant.

This is a dark and gloomy time, but for those who can pierce the black curtain and see the better day ahead it is not a time for pessimism. Though the individual may suffer the species.

Looking back over the long dark road which man has traveled and knowing all the heredity animal traits which clins to him and which he has only with the greatest difficulty and only in part sloughed off, we should wonder not at man's badness but at his goodness, and herein comes another law which Paleontology his demonstrated for us, namely the acceleration of acquired characters through the working of which certain underleable traits are inherited earlier and earlier and are finally pushed out. And if he has stumbled along so far on the march upward may he not attain to helpits yet under the hereal to have the here at the medals of creation, "from the hills, from the sea, from the flash of distant stars, from the single, and music of humanity," from the little, and music of humanity," from the little, and music of humanity," from the sea, from the mouth of the wisest man this world has ever known, the carpenter's son in Gallilee, and more, from my own heart and soul.

This is what my science teaches me. And so you see there is no conflict between religion and science. The one without the other is not enough, at least not for me.

PORTLAND, May 23.—(To the Editor.)—Anent the discussion of the distribution of water on a flat versus "Regulation can point to present the present to present the light of the present the size in Mr. Gilmore's letter he makes several references to a letter of mine of crall references to a letter of mine of all the present date in a discussion of the present law. I wish to reply to one thing Mr. Gilmore advances and again admit that the people of Oregon are striving to escape from the "ourse" of liquor without being too drastic. I admitted that Oregon might have to come to complete prohibition, because with just one little loophele left the liquor interests may make the present law obnoxious.

What I want particularly to emphasize in Mr. Gilmore's letter is the last sentence of his last paragraph. He says: "Regulation can point to present sentence of his last paragraph. He says: "Regulation can point to present results instead of promises for the future." I fully agree that regulation can point to present results. It can't point to them officially in the police court records of any city that licenses saloons and it is the "present results of regulation" that has aroused Oregen and other states to go to prohibition and is likely to force the whole Nation to prohibition.

Again, this woman says: "What wonder that the girl who has been forced out in the industrial field turns her back on her sweatheart and shuts her eyes to the vision of shadowy little forms and the thoughts of soft little arms, etc." Very pretty sentiment, but I am persuaded that Mrs. Cannon is too bright, too motherly, too farseting to wish that her theory might become a reality, for soon, very soon under her suggested regime, there would be no people to fill the positions and no positions to fill.

Another woman, from Lebanon, writes that women fill men's positions largely from individual choice; that others are forced into the industrial field for daily bread. To the woman who deliberately takes to the world's industrial field with no other reason than that she prefers it I have nothing further to say in this letter; but, to her who believes herself driven to thromed, loved and cared for by some good man who might succeed to her present position.

Summarizing: Millions of women are now employed and as many men are lide. Marriages are decreasing and there is a consequent decrease in our birth rate. The presence of a great and a continuous army of unemployed men must be resarded as a menace, it is only a few days age since the not a positive danger to our future state and National governments.

Propertionately as women fill men's positions do marriages and births decrease, while divorces and jebless men increase.

Solution: Women must, in some manner, be restored to their former and rightful station, that of wife and motherhood.

Men must, in some manner, be restored to their former and rightful station, that of wife and motherhood dildren.

In conclusion I wish to add that the "some manner" above mentioned requires much more space for discussion than would be parmitted in this letter, for there are other and certain causes underlying our present discussion than would be parmitted in this letter, for there are other and certain causes underlying our present discussion than would be resume our former equilibrium.

Belief Expressed That University our proceed that Portland was charged more for water meters for the Clumbia River and there was an end of the case without them, and it seems, if this is a fact, that our water office is much mismanaged. I would like to ask what would become of the water which now flows from the Buil Run River into the gravity system supplying Portland to the conserved, thereby causing a saving of a sum total of 16,260,000,000 gallons overy 20 minutes? If that water did not flow line to the Williamette River, would it not flow down the Buil Run River, into the Sandy Fliver and thence into the Columbia River and finally reach the occan just as it does now. except that Portland consumers would not enjoy it. Great economy! I suppose the Buil Run River will go dry it we do not get those meters before the rain stops.
