Critical Sister Calls Down City Editor.

Notice According Prize-Winning Festival Entry Denounced as Skippy. Apologetic Rejoinder Secured.

"IS THIS the city editor's office?" demanded an indignant woman over the telephone.
"Well, I want to say it is an outrage and I demand that you give us a square deal," she went on without waiting for a reply.
"Here the Oregonian gave ever and ever so much space to the fraternal parade, and not a word about the Knights and Ladies of Security. Not one word. Don't you know we won the biggest prize of the day for our float, $250? I'd like to know why the paper didn't mention us?"
"Just a minute," edged in the man at the desk. "I think we did mention your float."
"Not a word about it. I have the Oregonian before me right now," came back the voice in a this-settles-it tone. "I'll look on the front page. You will find a list of prize winners, with the Knights and Ladies of Security at the head."
"Of course it's in the prize list."
"And you will find the same reference in the detailed prize list on page 7."
"Oh yes, it's there."
"And on page 8 is a splendid picture of the man at the desk triumphantly. (Several seconds' silence.)
"Well, of course you would run the picture," came the answer as though these things had not altered her original opinion in the least. "We didn't get any mention at all in your story, I think it's a shame," she added.
(Business of looking hurriedly through the paper.)
"Here are several paragraphs on page six describing your float," announced the man at the desk triumphantly. (Several seconds' silence.)
"Very well, you gave it just as skippy a notice as you could."
This concluded the conversation.

Rev. Mr. Marcotte has been with Westminster Church for 11 years. However, the secretaryship of the college extension department, which is a new place, is considered one of great importance, and involves the care of about 25,000 Presbyterian students in various educational institutions.

SALESMANSHIP GRADUATES TAKE IMPORTANT POSITIONS.

Some Jobs Held Open Until Courses of Study Are Completed—Advance From Being Clerks Is Made by Many.

CREDIT GIVEN TO DIPLOMA

Unemployed have found positions, salesmen have received salary increases and others, fortified with their new-found knowledge, have been able to demand successfully better lines of goods and more ready profits, graduates of the Y. M. C. A. School of Salesmanship have reported to A. J. Robinson, business education secretary, shortly after they received their diplomas from the institution.

Several of the graduates of a few days ago went into positions that had been held for them until the end of their course and found that the association diploma had created a job for them.
"One of the interesting things about the reports," says Mr. Robinson, "is the fact that many of the graduates have risen from grocery or shoe clerks to positions of responsibility with large Pacific Coast firms. A number of these have taken the students on graduation and have found that they have made good in every instance. Some of the firms give association men preference, except in the case of long experience, over other salesmen who apply."

Success Won in New Work.

Several stories of the prompt recognition of the value of the salesmanship work at the association have been related by graduates. One of whom was W. H. Phillips, 550 East Fifth street North, who has left his place as a grocery clerk to become one of the most successful agents of his company on the Pacific Coast.
He has been out of the salesmanship classes only a few months. The first 30 days after his graduation showing an increase in salary of $25. This has been increased since with his commissions on the sale of a check protection device of which he is agent. He is 32 years of age.
Another is J. T. Tilly, who at 23 was a stenographer for the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad at $65 a month, and who has since become a typewriter salesman with an average of one machine a day.

Y. M. C. A. Graduates Favored.

Since his course in the association schools, Sheldon A. Stubbs has written some of the largest policies of the Pacific Northwest. He is 26 years of age and is among the first in the large force of representatives of the company.
Students in the salesmanship classes had marked against him, one semester ployes were cut in salary when one of the large wholesale and retail houses of the city decided to trim expenses several months ago.
Seventeen students of the course were graduated June 3 by the association and most of these had positions in sight when they left the commencement hall.

OREGON STUDENTS WIN

Faculty Repeals Cumulative Provision of "Cut" Rule. Deduction of Hour's Credit From Graduation Mark Substituted—Daily Report Required.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, June 12.—(Special.)—After lengthy debate the faculty of the University has voted to repeal the cumulative provision of the "cut" rule. This provision has met with determined opposition on the part of the students since its adoption several years ago. It provided that for every 15 absences which a student had marked against him, one semester hour should be deducted, and if any fraction of 15 was left over that number should be added to the "cut" in that subject. Thus a student missing four classes each year would have a semester hour taken away from his graduating credits upon completing his course.
In place of the cumulative feature, the faculty voted that an hour's credit should be deducted if 15 "cuts" or major portion thereof were made in any one year and added a new clause to the regulation providing that absences during Christmas and Spring vacations should count double.
The new legislation follows:
Section 1.—All instructors are required to make daily report of absences from their classes.
Section 2.—Any student not present at least 80 per cent of the recitations in any subject shall be debarred from examination in that subject.
Section 3.—One semester hour's credit shall be deducted for each absence or major portion thereof, under paragraph 2 above, the absence shall not be counted under this rule, if the student registers for the subject at late registration at the beginning of the second semester, on the part of students in residence the first semester, shall be counted as unexcused absences.
Section 4.—Extraordinary cases of absences may be considered by the deans acting as a committee, with power to act. The committee shall meet frequently and the petitions for excuses shall be acted upon at the first meeting following the termination of the absence.
Section 5.—Students entering late in either semester shall have the number of which they register for each week's absence after registration.
Section 6.—Absences on the day just preceding the beginning of Thanksgiving, Christmas, Spring vacations shall be counted as double absences.
Section 7.—The committee shall investigate, on its own initiative or at the request of any member of the faculty, any cases of repeated or systematic absences and advise or initiate any action that may seem called for.

CLACKAMAS WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Emaline N. Larkins Passes at Home in Marquam District.

OREGON CITY, Ore., June 12.—(Special.)—Mrs. Emaline Nicholson Larkins, a native of Clackamas county and one of the best-known women in Southern Clackamas and Northern Marion counties, died at her home in the Marquam district June 4, after a long illness. The funeral was held Sunday, June 6, from the family residence.
Mrs. Larkins was born in 1854 in the Marquam district and was educated in pioneer Clackamas county schools. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nicholson, came to Oregon across the plains from New York State in 1847 and settled in this county. On April 5, 1877, she was married to I. D. Larkins, who survives her.
Mrs. Larkins spent the greater part of her life in the north Willamette Valley. For many years she lived in Silverton, where her husband was a dentist.
She is survived by four brothers and four children. Her brothers are Edmond Nicholson, of Eugene; J. C. Nicholson, of Donna; James Nicholson, of Willhoit, and S. G. Nicholson, of Marquam, and her children: Mrs. W. W. McPherson, of Athena; Clay Larkins, of Salem; Guy Larkins, of Marquam, and Mrs. P. S. Mumpower, of Clackamas.
The morning session was devoted to the interest of peace. The peace program was in charge of Mrs. Louisa Painter Round, of Newberg.

OLCOTT FOLK SEE PARADE

Members of Show Company Take Friday Night Off.

Because he wanted his company to see the electric parade on Friday night, Chauncey Olcott gave everybody a holiday—or half-night, rather—and to a member the company hurried to find vantage points from where they could view the parade.
Later Mr. and Mrs. Olcott, with Miss Edith Luckett, the young leading woman, Cassius Fredson, the musical director, and Mrs. Freeborn, who is May Donnelly's professional, and the manager of the company, John Hogarty, known to Portlanders as the husband of Maribel Seymour, once Baker ingenue, made up a jovial dinner party. Mr. Olcott has become a regular booster for the Festival and said he hasn't had such a festive week in a dozen seasons and hopes his booking brings him back next year in Rose Festival times.
