BE TRUE TO OREGON

Oregon Will Be True to You

Business is improving and will improve right along now if you will only be loyal to your own state and buy Oregon goods. The local and state factories are beginning to increase their forces. More men are going to work every day. Now it's up to you and me to give them a boost, buy Oregon goods and keep to it—stay with it—a long pull and a strong pull, and all pull together. In union there is strength. All together now-Soap, Pickles, Crackers, Furniture, Brooms, Life Insurance, Fire Insurance—anything we have started to manufacture here. Go to it—insist on the Oregon-made and we'll get things going again with a whoop. We sell Oregon Furniture—good Furniture—better Furniture for the money than can be imported. WE WILL appreciate your state loyalty by giving you the best for the money. WILLIAM GADSBY.

Paul Ford, of Seattle, Falls TINKER AND MYERS SUSPENDED Easy Prey to Oregon Man. Seven Up, Six to Play.

Willie Leith, of Tacoma, Wins Open Event With 307 for 72 Holes. Spokane to Get Tourney in 1916, Waverley in 1917.

BY H. CHANDLER EGAN. Amateur National Champion. TACOMA, Wash., June 26.—(Special.) -Oregon wins the men's amateur championship of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association. Paul Ford, of Seattle, did not play the golf of which he is capable and allowed me to win by the score of seven up and six to play. In the score it was an exact repetition of our match a year ago at Seattle in the semi-finals.

The day was practically perfect except for a light gusty wind and a large and appreciative gallery followed the match.

lowed the match. At times the play was a bit disappointing for a final match in a championship, but final matches are inclined to be that way. For some reason or other my wooden clubs proved treacherous all day and I only saved myself by consistent putting and good iron play.

Both Start Badly. We both started badly and halved the first hole in five. I was in the woods on the second and in the grass on the third and was two down at the fourth tee. I won that hole with a good four and squared the match at the sixth with a par three while Ford was wild with his tee shot. The seventh was balved in four and Ford lost the was halved in four and Ford lost the 425-yard eighth by being short on his second. He squared the match again at the ninth when I struck his ball in endeavor to negotiate a long

At the 10th, 283 yards, I succeeded in pulling off a long, high brassle shot over the trees from the tee to the green, as this hole is what is called a boomerang or elbowhole. A three here made me one up. Ford lost the short lith by hooking to the trees, and became three down when I got a three again on the 12th. The fourth three in succession gave me the 12th, and I was then four up. The next was halved in a poor five, Ford slicing his second badly and I missing a rather short put. The next was halved in four, and the 16th was a miserable half in six. There was another bright spot for me when I holed a good 15-foot putt on the 382-yard, 17th for the seventh three in the morning round. This made me five up, and the score remained the same as the ast hole was haived, last hole was halved.

The afternoon found us playing more or less the same aort of game.

Ford was wild and uncertain, fortunately for me, as I gave him a number of openings. I won the lond second with a good four, but lost the third by a badly pulled drive. The fourth was halved, and Ford won the fifth with a fine three, while I had badly pushed my tee shot to the long grass again. Ford again spoiled his iron shot on the short sixth, and enabled me to be five up again spoiled his iron shot on the short sixth, and enabled me to be five up again with a three. I won both the seventh and eighth with par fours, and became seven up. At the ninth, 580 yards, we were each well on in the three, my approach putt running over and Ford laying me a half stymic. Negotiating that putt was most satisfying. I drove over the trees successfully again at the 10th, but took three putts to Ford's one and lost the hole. The 11th was halved in a good three, but at the 12th Ford found the woods first on the right and then on the left. first on the right and then on the left. My second lay about 10 feet short of the cup, and he conceded me the match. seven up and six to play.

Leith, of Tacoma, Open Champion,
Willie Leith, of the Tacoma club, won the open championship with a consistent score of 307 for the 72 holes.
His rounds were 77, 78, 78, 74-307.
Alex Duthle, of Vancouver, who led by one stroke after yesterday's play, was second with 75, 79, 75, 82—total, 311. T. Gallop, of Vancouver, was third with 313, and Bob Johnston, of Seattle, was fourth with 314.

Paul Ford, Young Scattle Golfer, Who Met Chandler Egan in Northwest Golf Finals Yesterwill, of Tacoma, with a score of 90, handicap 19, net score 71.

The Tacoma club officials and the officers of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association are to be congratulated on the successful manner in which they handled this tournament. I could not finish these little articles without mentioning that very obvious fact.

In all probability the championships of this association will be held at Spokane next year and at the Waverley Club in Portland in 1917.

Chifed Manager and Brookfed Player Fight on Field.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 26 .- Joseph Tinker, manager of the Chicago Fed-DAY FINE; GALLERY LARGE (Hap) Myers, of the Brooklyn Federals, eral League baseball team, and Ralph were suspended indefinitely tonight by President James A. Gilmore, of the Fresident James A. Gilmore, of the Federal League, for engaging in an altercation in the second game this afternoon between Chicago and Brooklyn. In the second half of the eighth inning, Tinker tapped Myers for a putout at second. An argument followed, after which Myers is said to have shoved Tinker. The men then exchanged blows.

> Interesting Notes From Portland Golfing Pastures.

WAVERLEY caddies will hold their annual tournament tomorrow over the Waverley links, and quite a collection has been raised by the members for the purchase of trophies.

The new grass greens at the Portland Club will be opened for play on July 4. This will be the first time the golfers will have had a chance to play on their new nine-hole course. A visitors' day has been established at the Portland Club. July 11 will be the first one of the present season. A two-ball foursome tourney has been ar-ranged for this date. Each foursome fol- H. Chandler Egan. | will be composed of two teams, one of Allen Meier, in the Oregon state championship meet held on the Waverley Club links, made quite a showing for the Tualatin Club, although he did not place in the "money." He is a new golfer, and he will bear watching in future tourneys.

COLWELL HURLS 3-HIT GAME

Vancouver Defeats Tacoma, but Only After McGinnity Is Hurt.

TACOMA, Wash., June 26,-Twirling big league form. Pitcher Colwell, for Vancouver, held the Tigers helpless loday, giving but three hits and one bass. Five errors by the Tiger fielders, all made after Joe McGinnity had been injured and retired in the fourth, were responsible for part of the large score. McGinnity was spiked by McQuarry running to first base, the metal cutting an artery in his right foot. He will be out of the game for at least three weeks. Score:

Spokane 10, Seattle 2.

SPOKANE Wash. June 26 .- Spokane defeated Seattle today by a score of 10 to 2. Fisk pitched great ball for the tribe, while his teammates slaugh-tered Rose and McIvor for a total of 19 safe hits. Cadman had his fingers split by a foul tip in the second and was forced to retire from the game. A three-base hit by Barth, following an error and a walk, gave Seattle their runs in the fourth. Score:
