FATHERS ARE OFFERED WAY TO TEACH THRIFT

Children's Endowment Policies Afford Object Lesson in Savings and Protect Families Where Head Has Been Refused Insurance.

"WHEN I see a young profligate squandering his fortune in dissipation, or at the gaming table, I cannot help looking on him as hastening his own death, and in a manner digging his own grave," said Goldsmith.

The prodigal robs his heir; the miser robs himself; the middle way is justice to ourselves and others," was Bruyere's rejoinder.

The average boy is a spendthrift. Put a shining dollar coin in his pocket and impudence will manifest itself immediately. The power of the burning coin, figuratively speaking, is irresistible to the average youth. Conservation is simply a torment to the young mind which is diverted to the "goodies" the coin will purchase.

Growth of this disease is generally due directly to the lack of parental tact. One of the most important duties of a parent is to teach the child to save. Saving comes next to honesty and sobriety. And it is unquestionably one of the greatest problems with which the present generation is confronted.

The new era for a young man is to see our children get a good start in life. The father who fails to convey the importance of thrift and prudence to his son is guilty of parental neglect. He offers no better example to his son than to launch a definite financial plan which will provide future duty and responsibility for the latter.

Wise is the man who pays a goodly amount of attention to his son's financial habits. Wise are the hundreds of thousands of fathers who have gray hairs between their ears, who have provided endowment life insurance policies for their sons, because in the future it will teach them to shoulder their own responsibilities.

No better plan can be offered to teach the young man the underlying principles of thrift. To the young man of 21, who has been presented with an endowment policy which has been in force for several years, it is a lesson in the conservation of funds.

Children's endowment policies can be fitted to many purposes. They are a splendid substitute for family protection where the head of the house has been refused as an insurance risk. Its superiority over making regular deposits in the savings bank for the child is so great that contrasts are unnecessary. The maturity of an endowment at the age in which a son or daughter is ready for college is one of the most practical applications of the policy.

DR. C. J. SMITH TO BUILD

Magnificent Residence With Excellent View to Be Constructed and New Corbett Dwelling Started on Hills Near Oswego.

With many pretentious residences under construction in various sections of Portland and several additional structures just announced, that character of construction drew the major share of attention among architects and builders last week.

Under the supervision of Architects Whitehouse & Poulthous, who are supervising the construction of the $15,000 home being erected for Elliott R. Corbett on the hills between Riverside and Oswego, a new country home was also commenced last week for Henry Ladd Corbett, near the Elliott R. Corbett residence. This building will also cost about $15,000.

The two Corbett residences, which will be erected about one mile up the river from the Carey and Kerr homes, will be of the farmhouse type. The Elliott R. Corbett residence will be built with a cedar siding exterior, while the H. L. Corbett place will be framed with shingles, but otherwise they will be alike. The former will be ready for occupancy probably in September.

Dr. C. J. Smith's Home Plans Completed. Features of the construction will be spacious sleeping porches, breakfast and sun porches and children's rooms. The servants' quarters will be in wing constructed at an angle from the main structure.

Architect Charles C. Rich last week completed plans for the construction of a two-and-a-half-story residence, which is to be erected on the bluff overlooking Regent's Drive, near the Alameda, in Alameda Park, for Dr. Charles J. Smith, Democratic nominee for Governor at the last election. The estimated cost of the work is $11,000, and the contracts probably will be let within a week.

Both the exterior and interior of the new residence will be faithful to modern English style. Perhaps the outstanding feature will be a large veranda, the basement on the south side, where a splendid view of the city will be afforded.

Several Rooms Face View. On the main floor the sun porch, living-room and dining-room will all have a view of the city. The second floor will be divided into four bedrooms, supplemented by baths, dressing-rooms and sleeping porches. The third floor will connect with the house, but the chauffeur's quarters will be provided in the basement. White enamel finish will be used in the interior.

Architect David C. Lewis is drawing plans for a handsome residence to be built in Garthwick Park for Victor A. Johnson and A. J. Lewis. The estimated cost of the work is $10,000, and the contracts probably will be let within a week.

Home Builders to Erect Two Houses. The lowest bid submitted for the construction of the proposed Tillamook City Hall, $17,500, was entered by J. H. Tillman, a contractor of Portland, who received the award for the building.

The plans were drawn by Charles H. Burgraff, an architect of Albany. $100,000 to Be Spent at Winlock. Announcement was made last week at Eugene that $100,000 would be spent making improvements at the Winlock resort, on Salt Creek, 35 miles from Eugene. The first step in the improvement will be the construction of a sawmill to cut the lumber to be used in the building of the hotel and other proposed resort structures.

School Construction Active. The voters at Oregon City decided overwhelmingly last week in favor of a $25,000 bond issue to finance the construction of an addition to the high school at that place, and the voters of Hubbard school district 15, by a two-to-one vote declared in favor of a $100,000 bond issue for a school building, that will be ready for use for the fall term in 1916.

Charles H. Burgraff, an Albany architect, will receive bids until August 16 for alterations and additions to be made to a two-story brick and concrete school building to be erected at Lexington. Anon H. Gould, a Portland architect, is receiving bids until tomorrow for the construction of the proposed $10,000 school to be erected at Gaston.

Astoria to Get Mausoleum. The Portland Mausoleum Company expects to commence the construction of a mausoleum building at Astoria within the next few weeks. Work on the structure will be started as soon as the campaign for the sale of crypts is concluded. The company has decided to locate its Portland mausoleum on the Taylor Ferry road, near the Riverview Cemetery. The plans for both buildings will be prepared by Architects Lawrence & Holford, of Portland.

Seattle Firm Gets Astoria Job. The contract for the construction of an additional pier to the Hill terminals at Flavel was let to J. A. McEachern Company, of Seattle. The new pier will be 420 feet long, 30 feet wide and will cost about $15,000.

Day Labor Will Be Employed. Instead of letting separate contracts, Joseph Paquet has decided to employ day labor in the erection of the two-story concrete and masonry building that is to rise on the site of the recently destroyed Enterprise Planning Mill Company. The building will be two stories over a foundation 50 by 100 feet. The plans were drawn by Camp & Drucey.

Water System Contract Let. The West Linn Water Commission has awarded to the Oregon Engineering

& Construction Company the contract for the construction of the proposed West Linn water system, for which bids were opened recently. The plans were prepared by S. A. Cobb, who was associated with H. A. Rands, engineer for the commission.

$5000 Residence Started. J. W. Belford has commissioned Contractor James Shives to build a two-story frame residence at 917 Parkside Drive. R. N. Hockenberry, the architect, estimates the probable cost at $5000.

Corbett Terraces Get Dwelling. Ground was broken last week at 1599 Water Street, Corbett Terraces, for the construction of a bungalow to be built for J. C. Wilcox. The plans were drawn by A. H. Faber and the work is being done by Contractor F. C. Barneoff.

CANADA CARRIES OFF PRIZES. Railway Exhibit at Fair Wanted by Federal Bureau.

Local officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway received word last week that Western Canadian farmers had received 17 prizes at the Panama-Pacific Exposition out of 19 exhibits of wheat, oats, barley, flax, timothy, alfalfa, apple and other crops. The award of these gold and silver medals is interpreted to prove the fertility of the soil in the northern country and the ability of the Canadian farmer.

Agricultural Department has awarded the Canadian Pacific Railway a further medal for a collective exhibit, which comprises the fine agricultural exhibits in its pavilion, and gold medal for the entire exhibit, including the building, has been presented by the transportation department.

An invitation has been extended by the bureau of commercial economics, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., to the department of mineral resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to send the exhibit under the auspices of that bureau through the United States at the conclusion of the San Francisco Fair.
