Medical Adviser to Industrial Insurance Commision Says Instruction Saves Lives

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 7 .- (Special.) -The State Industrial Insurance Commission expects to secure a substantial reduction in the cost of industrial insurance to employers through its campaign for first-aid appliances and training in the hazardous industries of the state. In a report on the development of first ald in the coal mines of the state, Dr. J. W. Mowell, chief medical advisor to the commission, ells of the first-aid teams organized at the mines, which compete annually for prizes.

The doctor says nurses and surgeons could get pointers in first aid by watching these competitions, in which the men apply dressings, tourniquets, splints and bandages to fellow-workers assumed to be injured. He says no other industry of the state has developed the first-aid team system to veloped the first-aid team system to this degree, but believes that its universal adoption would make for fewer deaths and quicker recoveries among injured men, rendering necessary fewer payments from the state insurance fund for pensions to widows and children and to disabled workmen.

The report to the commission by Dr. Mowell follows:

Mowell follows:

"Exferty first has been the watchword of the industrial insurance Commission for the past two years and there has been a great effort made along this line to try to get this thought uppermost in the minds of employers and workmen. Following along this line this year, the Commission has taken upon liself in connection with the Lumbermen's Association and the American Red Cross Society, a campaign for the teaching of first aid to the injured. This matter has been taken up with considerable interest by the logging and milling interests of the state, but the coal miners have been the first people to really take it up in a practical way, they having set aside one day each year to be devoted to competition among first aid teams, open to all the coal mines of the state, with a number of prizes denated for the winners. This was held at Cle Ellum, July 31, in which there were 13 teams in competition.

This was held as the state of the coal mines of the teams during the day are necessary to be taken care of the coal mines or in any extra hazardous eccupation. The work of the teams showed a great deal of thought, care and necessary time had been spent by these men at some time in the past to accomplish the work with the efficiency and dispatch with which they carried it on. In every problem presented to them they seemed to have no hesitancy about the beginning of the work ere what in do, and in almost record the state about the beginning of the work employer. It is my candid opinion that if first aid teams were taught how to care for injuries in the same way that these of the time spent in practice to bring them up to the standard of efficiency which would result in a great saving to the industrial secident fund, not to mention the bound; to the injured in the way of lessaning time and resultant disability is the state candid pay them to large the sum of the standard of efficiency which would result in a great saving to the industrial secident fund, not to mention the bound; to the industrial secident fund, not to mention the bound; to the mention the bound; to the mention the bound; to the mention of the month of the mention of the work of the standard of efficiency which would result in a great saving to the industrial secident fund, not to mention the bound; to the mention of the mention of the month of the mention of the m

Mrs. Colwell Charges Attack on Methods to Men Members of Board.

WAR OF WORDS IS WAGED

Statement Refuting Accusations Fails to Pass Action on Resignation of Mr. Wessling Is Laid on Table.

MOVING PICTURE MEN TO MEET SATURDAY TO DIS-CUSS SITUATION.

Moving picture men of the city have arranged a meeting for Saturday noon at the Empress Theater, corner Broadway and Stark streets, when the vexing question of censorship of films and the action of the municipal censorship board will be discussed.

The meeting will be an open one, the picture men state, and citizens generally are asked to attend, it being proposed to conduct an open discussion and learn public sentiment in regard to the present restrictions upon the motion picture theaters. The meeting is scheduled for 12 o'clock Saturday and will last for one hour.

Moving Picture Censorship The Board failed, at a special meeting yes-terday afternoon, to adopt a resolution providing for the giving out of a statement refuting certain charges made against that body and Mrs. E. B. Colwell, secretary, owing to the refusal of Sol Baum and W. S. Wessling, mem-bers, to support such an action.

Mrs. H. L. Vorse and Mrs. A. M. Gray voted for the resolution. Mrs. A. C. Newell, chairman, who favored it, could have cast the deciding vote but declined to do so, saying that she felt any action taken should be unanimous. "I learned this secret by overhearing Mrs. Colwell did not vote because, as she said, it was a personal matter with her, and Mrs. Sol Hart, the other memdiscussions of whether they would suc-

This discovery gave me a great fright and I made up my mind to get away from them at the first opportunity. They did not use me well and that was an added reason for my running away from their camp.

Mrs. Colwell did not not need that was a personal matter with she said, it was a personal matter with her, and Mrs. Sol Hart, the other members of the board, was not present. The meeting was a stormy one and charges and counter charges were well declared that Mr. Baum and Mr. Wessling, the two men on the board, had not treated her "square."

Mrs. Colwell declared that as secretary she had never done anything but that which she considered just and right and that she would continue in that way while she held the position.

It was intended originally to transport the prisoners on the noon train from Toledo, but on account of the intense feeling the nature of the crime had aroused among the people, and the threats of lynching which were freely indulged in, it was deemed wise to take the earlier train.

But in some mysterious way the populace along the line of the railroad to Albany seemed to have become apprised of the move, so that at almost every station crowds had gathered and gave voice to their feelings against the prisoners, who began to show the strain on their nerves.

In Albany, Sheriff Geer, with his two deputies, still accompanied by the armed guard, in transferring the two men from the Toledo train to the Salem train, had to run the gauntiet of a large crowd of angry men and women. Cries of "Get a rope" and "Lynch 'em' caused the officers to hurry their prisoners into the smoking car of the waiting train, where Conductor R. E. Ventch and two brakemen joined the deputies in guarding the two entrances against the crowd.
