Mrs. E. J. Hall, A Prominent Irvington Matron.

Mrs. Thomas D. Honeyman, Who Will Visit Mrs. Alfred A. Ave.

Mrs. J. Sherman O'Gorman, Who Will Go To Gearhart This Week.

But few events marked the social calendar during the week just past and the festivities held were of an informal character. For the days to come, during the remainder of the month, in fact, the same rule will doubtless apply. Mrs. A. E. Ricker's afternoon at "Rockholm," on Thursday, and Mrs. Fred P. Morey's picnic supper dance at "Glenmorrie" were perhaps the most attractive events that claimed society's attention. Mrs. S. F. Owen was hostess with Mrs. Morey. At both of these parties, Mrs. Harry David Gue, of New York City, was the honored guest.

Mrs. Gue is one of the most attractive and charming of the summertime visitors. She is here as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Alma D. Katz. At the Glenmorrie festivity, supper was served out on the broad verandas and covers were placed for 42 guests. The electric lights peeping from vines and foliage made a charming effect. Dancing followed the repast. The guests were: Mrs. Gue, Mr. and Mrs. Alma D. Katz, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mears, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Alva Jacobs, Dr. and Mrs. John F. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gerlinger, Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Tarpley, Major and Mrs. H. C. Jewett, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren, Mr. and Mrs. James F. Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Eastham, Mrs. Clara E. Morey, Mrs. Harry Sladen, Mrs. F. L. Johnston, Miss Elizabeth Jacobs, E. L. Donald, Alfred Smith and Donald Tarpley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Nitchey entertained at the Waverley Country Club on Friday night, when 40 guests shared their hospitality.

Miss Dorothy Sharp and Miss Virginia McDonough gave one of the most delightful affairs for the younger set. On Thursday, they entertained at a dancing party at the J. R. Sharp residence on Portland Heights. There was no social life at the Waverley Country Club last night, festivities having been suspended out of respect to the memory of Miss Virginia Burns.

So many distinguished visitors have been here remarked that if they didn't have any plans in Portland she would have one shipped out for the occasion. Another is said to have volunteered to bring out a musician if there were none here. Imagine their surprise when they heard Mrs. Thomas Carrick Burke, Mrs. Delphine Mark, John Claire Monteth, Mrs. Warren H. Thomas, Edgar E. Coursen, Ralph Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dierke and others of our smart set who are accomplished musicians.

Dean F. C. Larkin, of the department of music of the Northwestern University of Chicago, with Mrs. Larkin, was here during the week and the two were honored guests at a 4 o'clock tea at which Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner entertained a few congenial friends informally at Bishopcroft on Tuesday. Dean Larkin, however, was not among the "wise ones" who thought us all barbarians. He knew that we have a very good symphony orchestra and he was deeply interested in its progress.

Mrs. Marshall Field, one of the wealthy women of the country, was another visitor who saw Portland and its vicinity and was enchanted. Mrs. Field is a great lover of nature, and she said that in the scenery of the Northwest she found wonders that were more beautiful than anything she had ever imagined. She stopped here for two days before going on her way to the Sound and thence to the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Field had heard that its beauties with the true appreciation of an art critic. The delicacy of the pastel coloring, the artistic significance of the various courts and the statuary and mural decoration had particularly appealed to her. Mrs. Field was accompanied by a group of friends, including Mrs. James, Mrs. Worthington and Miss Alice Drex, all of whom traveled in a private car with only one object in view—"Seeing America's finest scenery."

Mrs. Field and party enjoyed the Columbia River Highway scenery immensely. There were practically no social affairs for them.

Monday brought Mrs. James Brown Potter and Mrs. C. C. Cuyler, both of New York City. With Mrs. Bowers and Thomas F. Ryan, they paid a short visit here and added their expressions of praise of Portland as an ideal summer resort.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Willett left on Thursday for a trip to Puget Sound cities and Vancouver and Victoria. A short stay at the home of Mrs. Thorne, who is Mrs. Willett's cousin. Miss Anita Thorne, who has been quite recently been a guest here, will assist in entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Willett.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rose, of New York City, will have been visiting here for a few days prior to their departure for the Orient. They have been extensively entertained at several smart affairs. Mrs. Rose lived in Portland several years ago, when she was Emma Hayward. She is a member of one of the oldest families in the West. Last Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Rose were honored at a dinner party, at which Colonel and Mrs. Henry C. Cabell entertained.

On Monday Mrs. Rose was complimentary guest at a luncheon of 14 covers, at which Miss Felling and Miss May Felling were hostesses. Mrs. James B. Montgomery shared honors with the visitor.

A jolly motor party and picnic of Wednesday was that enjoyed by a party of the younger smart set in company with Mr. and Mrs. H. Lea Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Alden B. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Hindman and Mrs. Joseph Andrews.

Mrs. E. F. Emery, of Millsboro, Pa., has arrived in Portland for a visit and will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Pitcock, at Imperial Heights, for the summer.

Smart society is regretting the departure of Colonel and Mrs. J. J. Morrow, who left during the week for the East, en route to their future home in Panama, where Colonel Morrow will be stationed.

Many informal dinners were given for them prior to their departure.

An interesting visitor who is being extensively entertained at informal affairs is Miss Lottie Briggs, who is here from the East as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harry E. Story. Among those who have contributed to the pleasure of Miss Briggs recently were Miss A. C. Jewell, Mrs. J. F. Dickson and Mrs. L. H. Parker. Several other parties are being planned for the attractive Easterner.

Mrs. Robert Wilson Patterson, a society matron of Pittsburg, Pa., and son, Joseph Patterson, are at the Hotel Benson. They have been to Newport and are now en route to San Francisco to visit the exposition. Later they will return to Portland and will go to the Canadian Rockies.

Two notable guests of the week will be Miss M. Cary Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr, and Dr. Ellen Fitz Pen-

PORTLAND GIRL AND HOSTESSES AT OREGON BUILDING, GUESTS AT COLONIAL HALL.

Miss Constance Piper, Mrs. John F. Logan, Mrs. Chas. A. Gray.

One of the interesting events at the exposition in San Francisco recently was the Colonial ball given by the Missouri hostesses. Among those who attended in costume were Mrs. Charles A. Gray, Mrs. John F. Logan and Miss Constance Piper. In the minut, which was an attractive feature of the festivity, Miss Piper and Mrs. Gray were among those who participated.
