

NEW NATIONAL POLE VAULT CHAMPION BOASTS WONDERFUL NETWORK OF BACK AND SHOULDER MUSCLES.

Sam Bellah, Multnomah Club Athlete, Who Captured First Place in National Pole-Vault Event at the Exposition With a Leap of 12 Feet 9 Inches. Bellah Says the Most Essential Requisite of a Vaulter is Shoulder Development, and the Photograph Shows How Bellah is Able to Raise Himself Nearly 13 Feet Off Mother Earth.

DOYLE HITS HARDEST

Captain of Giants Averages .328 by Steady Work.

RUN LEAD ALSO HELD

Cobb Suffers Slump but Yet Ahead Among Americans' Batters and Foster and Mammaux Best Pitchers of Their Leagues.

SALT LAKE GIVES IDEA

"I got the idea after a visit in Salt Lake City," explained the owner of the Seals, "I looked at the stadium and saw how they had built with family seats."

NEW STANDS TO BE BUILT

At the same time as making this announcement, Berry announced more in detail his plans for the stadium and the construction of new stands and bleachers.

UNIQUE CONTRIVANCE UTILIZED BY "DOC" WHITE TO TEACH HIM CONTROL AND HANDLING OF BUNTS DURING CUB DAYS WITH PHILLIES.

Diagram Showing Convex Plank Nailed to Fence and Dummy Home Plate—Chief Ingredients of "Set in by Pitching" Advised by Vernon Manager. Figure of Bert Coy, Set in by Pitching to Show Relative Position of Batterman.

PITCHING AT ALL LEAGUES CONTROL

"Doc" White Tells How He Learned to Be Good Boxman 14 Years Ago.

FIELDING ALSO PERFECTED

Vernon Manager Shows How by Using Back-Yard Device He Was Able to Throw Ball at All Times in Exact Spot.

SEAL STOCK PUT UP

Berry Wants the Interest of 20,000 Stockholders.

CONTROL NOT TO CHANGE

President of San Francisco Club Announces Plan to Put Up New Stands and Enlarge Field to Regulation Size.

DOYLE HITS HARDEST

Captain of Giants Averages .328 by Steady Work.

RUN LEAD ALSO HELD

Cobb Suffers Slump but Yet Ahead Among Americans' Batters and Foster and Mammaux Best Pitchers of Their Leagues.

SALT LAKE GIVES IDEA

"I got the idea after a visit in Salt Lake City," explained the owner of the Seals, "I looked at the stadium and saw how they had built with family seats."

NEW STANDS TO BE BUILT

At the same time as making this announcement, Berry announced more in detail his plans for the stadium and the construction of new stands and bleachers.

DOUGDALE'S WIVES MANY

SEATTLE CLUB BOSS SEEMS HEAD OF LEAGUE PICKS ON HIM.

Usually the fat man experiences little difficulty getting through the world without hickering, but not so with D. Dugdale, owner of the Seattle ball club.

William Lucas used to pick out Dugdale before his death, and then Fielding Jones came along with the Simon Legree methods and he nearly broke Doc's tender heart.

Dugdale makes no secret of the fact that he believes in setting under orders from President Hewitt to persuade the Seattle club to get back at me by telling his umpires to use the Seattle umpires.

William Lucas used to pick out Dugdale before his death, and then Fielding Jones came along with the Simon Legree methods and he nearly broke Doc's tender heart.

Dugdale makes no secret of the fact that he believes in setting under orders from President Hewitt to persuade the Seattle club to get back at me by telling his umpires to use the Seattle umpires.

Dugdale makes no secret of the fact that he believes in setting under orders from President Hewitt to persuade the Seattle club to get back at me by telling his umpires to use the Seattle umpires.

GO WEST AT THE AIR RATION'S GREATEST

Remarkable Performances at San Francisco Satisfy Those at Gathering.

HUMPHREY MAY HEAD UNION

Olympic Club President Most Likely Candidate to Succeed President Till—Norman Taber Popular Despite Defeat.

William F. Humphrey, president of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, looks like the best prospect for the 1916 position of president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States.

The annual games will be held next year in Newark, N. J., if the talk that was going the rounds here last week is taken into consideration.

Defeat does not always deprive a man of his former popularity. Norman Taber, the world's greatest miler, who lost the race here, is the one referred to.

At the big banquet given by the Olympic Club last Saturday night in the club gymnasium each first-place man in the senior championships was required to make a short speech.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

When the name of Norman Taber was called the burst of enthusiasm that came forth from the more than 200 present was enough to "rock the rafters" and to excite the crowd.

When he managed to secure his composition, it could be seen that his emotions were excited. Not a sound was heard, other than his voice, and the few words that he spoke made most of the hoarse-voiced crowd gasp.

WORLD RECORD GOAL

Bellah Has Ambition to Set New Polevault Mark.

ATHLETE TO TRAIN HARD

Multnomah Club National Champion to Give Up Weights and Jumps in Supreme Effort to Better Wright's Leap of 13:2 1-4.

Having won a National championship for the Multnomah Club, Sam Bellah's ambition now is to break the world's pole vaulting record.

Bellah is 28 years old, and in light of this and the little time of practice, his record performance was really remarkable.

"I am working indoors and have little time for outdoor exercises or for practice," remarked Bellah yesterday.

Bellah learned to pole vault under Dad Moulton at Stanford University. He attended Stanford for three years, taking an engineering course.

"The chief regret of my vaulting days is that I was unable to do myself justice at the Stockholm Olympic games. I was in wonderful form then, legs going over on the boat, I feel sure I could have won at least second place.

Bellah has made his home in Portland for four years.

Last winter, he won the Columbia indoor record of 12 feet 7 inches.

Seattle Pounds Callahan

Ex-Beaver is Ineffective, While Giants Bunch Hits on Spokane.

SPokane, Wash., Aug. 14.—Callahan was ineffective today and Seattle had no trouble defeating Spokane. The final score was 19 to 0.

Vancouver 5, Tacoma 2.

SPokane Star Shares Batting Honors with Williams.

Pat Callahan, Brilliant Curve Pitcher of Indians, is Leading League in Winning Percentage.

SPokane, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—By the terrific batting streak he has exhibited since becoming a member of the Spokane team, Ted Taylor, former star of Victoria, always among the leaders in the race for individual batting honors of the Northwest.

Pat Callahan, the brilliant curve ball pitcher of the Indians, is leading in winning percentage, with 12 wins in 17 games.

STAR SOUTHPAW SIGNED

BEAVER SCOUT GETS CONTRACT OF AL HARTMAN FOR 1916.

Richardson Enthusiastic About Washington State College Player, Who Has Record of 28 Wins in Row.

Another young pitching prodigy was added to the Portland Coast League for 1916 consumption yesterday when James J. Richardson, scout, received the signed contract of Al Hartman, of Washington State College.

Hartman has one more year at Washington State, but will join the Portland club next Spring after the baseball season at Pullman.

Scout Richardson umpired several college championship games behind Hartman and is highly enthusiastic about him.

Hartman's southpaw, Gene Krapp, turned around, and with great control, said he yesterday, "This year he won 28 straight games before losing one."

Scout Richardson's other pitching find, Dave Gerrick, of La Grande, looks so good to Manager McCredie that he intends to carry him the rest of the year.

HUNDREDS GO DEER HUNTING

Game Said to Be Plentiful in and Around Lane County.

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The big game season will open tomorrow with hundreds of hunters in the woods of Lane County.

SPokane Star Shares Batting Honors with Williams.

Pat Callahan, Brilliant Curve Pitcher of Indians, is Leading League in Winning Percentage.

SPokane, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—By the terrific batting streak he has exhibited since becoming a member of the Spokane team, Ted Taylor, former star of Victoria, always among the leaders in the race for individual batting honors of the Northwest.

Pat Callahan, the brilliant curve ball pitcher of the Indians, is leading in winning percentage, with 12 wins in 17 games.

HUNDREDS GO DEER HUNTING

Game Said to Be Plentiful in and Around Lane County.