New York Publisher Takes to Task Those of Teuton Descent Who Form Bodies Apart From Citizenship of America.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 4 .- Oswald Garrison Villard, publisher of the New York Evening Post, in an address today, declared that the move-ment among American citizens of for-sign, especially German, descent, to form bodies apart from the citizenship presented a far-reaching domestic issue which the American people must

Mr. Villard said an important factor in the continuance of the "American melting pot" lay in educating immigrants to the proper duties of citizenship.

Divided Allegiance Impossible.
Foreigners becoming American citimens should be made to understand, Mr.
Villard said, that there can be no divided citizenship or loyalty or allegiance under the American flas; that no one can accept political obligations here while at heart loyal to another social system, entity or code of laws.
Mr. Villard quoted from an address made by Carl Schurz, in which Mr.
Schurz said that no matter how warm the affections German-Americans had held for their native land, they had never permitted their affections to interfere with their duties as American citizens, nor to seduce them to use citizens, nor to seduce them to their power in American politics for foreign ends."

"How amazed Carl Schurz would be to return to us today," said Mr. Villard, "He would find to his horror that at this moment the presence on his soil of German-Americans adds fuel to the flames of hitterness. fuel to the flames of bitterness.

"Naturally Schurz would scan the horizon for some discriminatory act on the part of our Government, or some manifestation of racial prejudice against German-Americans. But he would find nothing of the sort.

"The mighty convulsion we are witnessing he would ascertain to be entirely due to foreign complication, to a determination on the part of our German-Americans to stand by their fatherland through thick and thin, right or wrong.

"What could amaze him more than to find unnumbered Germans, who, like himself, came to this country to escape the very militaristic autocracy they now uphold, today denouncing the Nation that adopted and sheltered, fed and clothe them?"

He then asked if it were true, as seriously the statement of the country to the secape.

He then asked if it were true, as contended, that German culture and political system were superior to the scheme of life and Government in America why the hordes who have flocked here did not go to Germany lostered.

Camp May Be Continued.

It seems practically certain that there will be a second business men's camp at the close of the present one. More than 300 applications have been received from New York alone.

Day by day the camp grows more like a real army in the field. Practically all the preliminary soreness has been worked away by the men, and now, from the Mayor to the Police Commissioner, the rookies are beginning to enjoy the work.

Although there have been city officients who were inside the building seized whatever clothing or blankets were actived whatever clothing or blankets were at hand and hastened for the nearest exit. Some scrambled out of windows, while others broke open doors which were not used except in case of fire or other emergency. But there was no fire. A woman had become excited, and instead of sending in a riot call, as she had wished to do, she had unwittingly pulled the fire box.

Police officers made an investigation and found that Joseph Brady, aged 27, of 227 Thirty-third street, and Frank Schuman, aged 27, of 463 Thirtieth street, had entered the establishment of Horowitz and had demanded a more proposed and the fire box.

And when Representative John J. Fitzgeraid, of Brooklyn, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House, appeared later it looked as if the "Congressional investigation" were on.

Mr. Fitzgeraid, who had been lecturing at the Catholic Summer School and dropped over to look at the camp, said incidentally that it looked as if the Army had at last found an economical way to train men for the National detense, and if the idea proved as successful as it appeared to be he was prepared to urge its financial support in Congress. He said that at present the training of a soldier cost about it failed a man.

Mayor Mitchel Shoots Well.

The day was the first in the competition for records in marksmanship. In spite of the high wind the preliminary records were excellent, according to the officers of the companies of the first battailon.
