Fishing Rocks At Seaside

GEARHART, Or., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Although the tournament was not as gay as in previous years, the social side of it being tempered for many reasons, yet the brilliant sunshine and balmy weather aroused considerable enthusiasm among the Summer visitors surrounding Gearhart Park.

Two house parties were remarkably small for such an event, but the number of motor cars, the exciting paper chase forming part of the week's festivities, and the restless, surging crowds gave an atmosphere of gaiety that burst into a carnival spirit Saturday night at the huge vaudeville and lawn fete at Seaside for the salt cairn fund.

All the younger folk here made up parties, and the strings of motor cars whirling along the roads from Gearhart to Seaside gave the appearance of a metropolitan function of magnitude.

The John Emerson Cronans, with their children, were the first of these motor parties to reach here. They came Monday night, and are domiciled in the Marshall cottage for several weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. George A. Marshall and sons, who have been summering in their cottage since June, returned home Monday.

Dr. James C. Zan passed a week with his family here, and returned Sunday with his children. He was accompanied by his brother, Russell Smith, and sister, Mrs. Richard Scofield, Mrs. N. E. Ayer and Miss Laura Smith home in the Smith machine. Mrs. Ayer was a house guest of the Zans over the weekend, and her sisters were at the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Standley, who were house guests of the John Twobys for the tournament week, returned home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Honeyman, Miss Helen and Billie and Ronald Honeyman, and their house guest, Mrs. C. T. Whitney, who was down for the tournament, also returned back to Portland Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar E. Huber, Misses Winifred and Elizabeth Huber returned Monday night to Portland. Mrs. Winifred Huber is preparing to enter Dana Hall on September 5. Mrs. Kurt H. Koehler accompanied Mr. Koehler back to Portland Friday after a visit of several weeks with her parents here.

Mrs. E. C. Shevlin passed the week as a guest of the late Mrs. J. C. Shevlin, and her son, Ned, was the guest of "Teddy" Wilcox during the week. Crosby Shevlin passed a couple of days in Gearhart en route to Ecota to visit friends.

Misses Carrie and Louise Flenders passed Sunday at Gearhart Hotel. They are summering in their Ecota cottage at Elk Creek.

Misses Jean and Barbara Mackenzie were guests of Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett for tournament week. Mrs. Corbett entertained with many informal dinner parties and teas for her guests.

Mrs. Frederick A. Jacobs has been visiting Mrs. Charles F. Adams for several days, coming down during tournament week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose M. Cronin came down early last week and opened the Kavanagh cottage for a fortnight. They entertained Mrs. Harper Skues, of Bend, Or., and Miss Katherine Cronin for the week.

Miss Mabel Beck left about the middle of the week to join a house party at the Henry McGowan, who were here gathered for the Astoria regatta.

S. A. Volkman, L. V. Winters, Oliver Houston, Eugene Oppenheimer, Howard Charlton, and George Stanley came down Saturday noon to participate in the paper chase, and they remained over the week-end, some of the party visiting friends both here and at Seaside.

E. F. Whitney and George P. Stanley were house guests of Graham Glass, the former being down for the tournament, and the latter passing the week-end here.

Harold Sooy-Smith, Frederick Forster and Milton Corbett came down Saturday. Mr. Sooy-Smith and the latter to visit Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, and Mr. Forster to visit the T. B. Wilcoxes.

Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster, Mrs. Landon R. Mason, Jr., Miss Malbie MacMaster, Mrs. Hazel B. Litt and Lieutenant F. V. Schneider left early Sunday morning for Portland. Mr. Schneider will visit the MacMasters for several days before returning to Astoria, where he will be stationed for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lewis and Master Couch Lewis, who have been occupying the Simpson cottage here for three months, returned to Portland Monday. They have leased the Whitney home residence for several months.

Irving Webster passed the week at Gearhart Hotel, returning to Portland Monday.

Chandler Egan, well-known soffer, accompanied Charles H. Davis, Jr., on Friday night to Gearhart, and passed several days as his house guest.

Mrs. Charles F. Adams and children, who have been summering in their attractive cottage here, returned this week to Portland, accompanied by Mrs. Van Eckham and children, who have been visiting the Adams family for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Porter and attractive daughter, Miss Margaret Porter, and Miss Sara Patrick passed the latter part of last week and first of this week at Gearhart Hotel.

Mrs. Walter M. Cook and daughters, Margaret and Betty, who have been enjoying a visit of several weeks at the Gearhart Hotel, returned to Portland the latter part of last week.

NEWPORT ARRIVALS CONTINUE

Newcomers Make Up for School and Hop Field Exodus.

NEWPORT, Or., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—The opening of the public schools throughout the state and hop-picking in the valley are jointly responsible for the considerable decrease in Newport's seasonal population during the past week. For the weather is still delightful and the attractions are just as enticing as ever. In spite of the great number of departures, a number of people are arriving daily, and that a good-sized crowd will be present during the month is confidently expected by Newporters.

The week, with its uninterrupted good weather, has seen the same activity that has characterized the entire season. There has been no end to the beach parties, fishing trips and excursions. Surf bathing, the principal diversion of the seaside, is still popular because of the continual sunshine.

The city through the Siletz Basin to Newport has been much frequented by automobiles during the week. The distance by this route is but 25 miles, and the scenery is so beautiful that the trip is a pleasure in itself. The famous Siletz timber belt, where the opportunities for hunting are very good.

Some of Vacationists Leave to Prepare for School.

SEASIDE, Or., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Gaiety reigned over the entire little city Saturday night, the streets and beach front were converted into a festival, and the carnival spirit was abroad on the crowds. The streets were thronged with merry-makers, who danced and frolicked away the evening's hours amid a blare of lights, and to the blare of trumpet and the beat of drums.

As soon as the big vaudeville show was over, the stage being erected on the main veranda of the hotel, and the lawn used as an auditorium, the orchestra was transferred to the side veranda, where the dancers enjoyed the novelty of flitting over pavement prepared with copsestone, making it an excellent dancing surface.

The event was a memorable one in Seaside, never has the colony of Summer visitors entered into any function here with such avidity, all of which meant success for the salt cairn monument. Mrs. Dan J. Moore worked hard and faithfully to bring about the splendid fete, and was ably assisted by

SEASIDE VISITORS GO ON TRIP

Trip Is Made to Bear River, 16 Miles Distant.

SEASIDE, Wash., Sept. 4.—(Special.) A jolly outing to Bear River was enjoyed by a group of young people chaperoned by G. Thorsen, of Portland, last weekend. The trip was made in wagons as far as the Cutting ranch and then packs were put on the horses and the remainder of the journey, two miles, was made on foot. All food and other provisions must be carried into the Bear River country over an Indian trail.

The country is beautiful and rugged and offers many lovely spots for the camper. The river is deep enough for rowing and canoeing at high tide and at low tide there are numberless deep swimming holes. Wild fruits abound. There are blackberries, apples and wild plums, which are a welcome addition to ordinary camp fare.

The distance from Beach Center is about 15 miles and can be made in
